LINK CARROZZO STRIKE TO HUGE CITY CONTRACT

Tell Background of Asphalt Walkout.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

For two days 260 city asphalt workers have been out of work. Sixty of them, employed in the three city asphalt plants, are on strike. The others are street men who are not striking, but cannot work when the plants do not operate. So far the 260 men have lost more than $2,000 in pay.

Michael Carrozzo.

Altho Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, has been given no explanation for the strike, and Samuel Kart, official head of the Street Laborers' union, and Michael Carrozzo, the union's real boss, would give no reason, contractors last night found the reason for the mysterious walkout in a series of coincidences.

Bids Rejected by City.

They said that this series of events started on Tuesday when Commissioner Hewitt went before the city council finance committee and asked authorization to reject closed bids previously received on 100,000 tons of asphalt, needed for street repair work this year. The city's plants are unable to furnish this needed amount. Mr. Hewitt said he could get lower bids if permitted to conduct informal bidding. The committee approved and on Wednesday the council granted Hewitt's request.

Contractors believe that Hewitt became suspicious when the closed bids from 11 asphalt firms were opened and the bid of one firm, the Illinois Asphalt company, was found to be lower than all the rest on all types of material to be supplied. The order for 100,000 tons is one of the largest ever placed by the city and Mr. Hewitt is said to have known that it would be too large for one plant to handle.

Union and Company Linked.

The original bidding was on supplies for the north, west, and south divisions of the city. The Illinois Asphalt company bid $6.40 a ton for top dressing asphalt and $5.40 for binder asphalt delivered to all divisions. The other companies bid 26 to 45 cents higher per ton.

The contractors are aware that Kart, head of the street workers' union, is also president of the Illinois Asphalt company. They also are aware that Kart is Michael Carrozzo's attorney and associate in the control of the street workers' union. They also know that Carrozzo, in addition to his many other activities, is closely identified with most of the construction activities in the city. For besides controling the street workers and street sweepers, he heads the powerful International Hod Carriers, Building and Construction Laborers of America.

Series of Coincidences.

Now to get back to the coincidences which, according to contractors, are backgrounds for the strike

On Thursday morning, following council authorization, Hewitt asked for new informal bids on the asphalt supplies. Three companies that had been high bidders before came in with bids lower than that of the Kart firm.

As a result of the new bids the American Asphalt Paving company was awarded the south side contract of 31,000 tons at $6.32 for top and $5.32 for binder; Sensibar Engineering and Paving company got the west side 36,000 ton contract at $6.27 and $5.27, and the north side 33,000 ton contract went to White Consolidate, Inc., for $6.32 and $5.32. The new bids effect a total saving over the Illinois Asphalt company's original bid of about $10,000.

Yesterday they signed contracts with the three low bidding contractors. Yesterday afternoon the 60 men were on strike and the 200 others were out of work.

Under Federal Investigation.

Carrozzo's name has a habit of popping up when there is trouble in the building industry. During the recent federal investigation of the ready mixed cement business con-

THE SPEAR THAT KNOWS NO BROTHER

How a WPA Worker Lives on $1 a Day

A minor accident at Roscoe street and Long avenue yesterday revealed a four year WPA pay roller who—

Joseph Skrzydel.

Works as a crossing guard at a grade school.

Has a police record of having been sentenced to the Bridewell for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Admitted and then denied that he pays $26 a month on the car; pays $16 a month for music lessons for his daughter.

Pays rent of $15 a month.

Has a monthly WPA salary of $30.

Held for Tampering with Car.

He is Joseph Skrzydel, 48 years old, 2210 Division street. He is being held by Jefferson Park police on a technical charge of tampering with an automobile. According to Capt. Herbert Burns, it is believed Skrzydel

Yesterday an automobile overturned near where Skrzydel was on duty as a WPA safety guard to protect pupils of St. Ladislaus' parochial school, 5342 Roscoe street.

While the motorist was in a physician's office, Skrzydel drained the gasoline from the motorist's car to his own, which was nearby. Policemen George Ganschow and Frank Conway were startled when they saw Skrzydel's car—a highly polished, gadget equipped seven passenger model of expensive make.

Tells of Voice Lessons.

They took him into custody. Capt. Burns asked him about his finances. At first Skrzydel said he was paying $26 a month on the car. He also mentioned, police said, that he was paying $4 a week, or $16 a month, for voice lessons for his daughter, Julia, 16. Later he said that altho the car was in his name its real owner was a cousin, Miss Josephine Wing, living in North Lawndale avenue. He said he had paid $16 a month for his daughter's vocal lessons until a year ago, but that now she is studying on a scholarship.

Skrzydel said he was living within his $30 a month income. He said his WPA salary was $85 a month at times.

Skrzydel said the car was used mostly to transport his daughter to singing engagements at smart clubs where it was hoped the car would create a good effect. He said he occasionally used it to rest in at work. Capt. Burns said he will search for Skrzydel's cousin, Miss Wing, today. Also, police records will be examined to scan his past. Available records show Skrzydel was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days on the delinquency charge in July, 1929.

CHICAGOAN WINS MORE RED CROSS SUPPLIES FOR NEEDY IN POLAND

LONDON, April 12.—Impressed by the accounts of suffering in Poland brought back by Wayne Chatfield Taylor of Chicago, American representative in Europe for the Red Cross, British authorities today consented to the passage of another $250,000 worth of medical and other relief supplies to Poland.

Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy called at the foreign office tonight on the subject and the British yielded after being reassured the Red Cross material would not be diverted by the Germans.

The supplies will be shipped to Genoa unhampered by the Gibraltar contraband control station, and then sent to Warsaw, Cracow, Lublin, and Radom.

THEFT OF PAPERS FEARED PART OF PLOT IN BALKANS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 12.—A tall man who escaped without his black felt hat was believed today to have taken important papers from the home of Col. Dunich, Jugo-Slav military attaché here.

Police reported the attaché's wife discovered the man searching a cupboard in her husband's study and that the intruder attacked her when she called out.

Discovers 374 Rabbits Keep a Man Hopping

Pearl River, La., April 12 (AP).—Three hundred and seventy-four cottontail rabbits bobbed merrily into a swamp today to end another chapter in the woes of Station Agent R. H. Alexander.

Scores of empty crates, however, only reminded Alexander that about 400 more bunnies will be in tomorrow or the next day.

The deluge of rabbits began arriving last Friday from Byron, Okla. The animals were consigned to W. C. Forbess, a Texas oil magnate who wanted them to stock the 10,000 acre swamp, which he owns, and transform it into a game preserve.

Mixup in Payments.

Forbess authorized payment of C. O. D. charges on the first two consignments of 144 each, asking that they be released in his swamp. Then more arrived daily and Forbess' representative refused to pay the charges on fresh shipments. Desperately, Alexander and his 13 year old daughter worked overtime feeding the living, burying the dead, and nursing the new arrivals. Today 170 more rabbits came in.

"I can't stand it," wailed Alexander. "Nothing like this ever happened before. I smell so much like rabbits that last night I hung my pants outside the house for an airing and this morning a dozen rabbit hounds had them up a tree."

Agents from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals arrived today from New Orleans with a supply of carrots and cabbages. They took one look at the crates bursting with bunnies and went back to consult their lawyer.

Money Problem Settled.

Then Alexander wired the station agent at Byron and received the prompt reply that charges would be paid by Forbess at Byron.

So Alexander released the 374 bunnies, that being the net total remaining after the wave of deaths and births that kept him so busy.

Rabbits are not Alexander's only worry, for he heard tonight that Forbess plans, in addition, to stock the swamp with 1,000 squirrels, 1,000 raccoons, and 1,000 opossums.

Plans to Base Part of Fleet Permanently at Honolulu

HONOLULU, T. H., April 12 (AP).—The Hawaiian detachment of the United States fleet probably will be based permanently at Pearl Harbor, Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison said today. He termed Hawaii an ideal peacetime operating base because of congestion at San Pedro and San Diego. Edison is spending several days here between phases of the 1940 navy war games.

BRITISH SOW 'LARGEST FIELD IN HISTORY'; GERMANS BOMB 8 TOWNS IN NORWAY

Norwegians Move to Circle Hitler Troops in Oslo.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 12 (AP).—The bombing of eight towns in southern Norway by German planes was announced tonight in a communique of the Norwegian high command. The communique said a number of houses were set afire, but there were few casualties.

At the same time Norway's fighting men, struggling against both time and the invader, tried to complete an impenetrable ring of steel around Oslo—their German conquered capital—where seven German warships were reported to be bottled up.

Norse Hold Semicircle.

With their forces clinging to positions along Oslo fjord, narrow waterway leading to Oslo, the Norwegian defenders were holding a defense semicircle. It runs from Moss on the Oslo fjord, north to Holen, thence east to Mysen, northward east of the River Glommen and Lake Oieren to Romerike, thence southwestward to Tyri fjord and Vikesund, which is about 30 miles due west of Oslo.

To back up the ring, fortifications were being thrown up in the valleys to the northwest.

All highways east and north of Oslo were barricaded by Norwegian troops to cut off possible German approaches to Oslo over those strategic routes.

Nazis Control 4 Ports.

Elsewhere, the Norwegian government conceded that the Germans were in control of Kristiansand on the south coast; Stavanger on the southeast coast; Bergen on the west coast, and Narvik on the northern coast.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Myheter reported Norwegian officials here had received information that four German destroyers, the last German warships remaining at Narvik, were sunk last night by Norwegian forces. There was no confirmation of this report from any source and no details.

The British earlier reported that one German destroyer was sunk and three others left in flames in a battle at Narvik, northern ore port, Wednesday.

British sources said authoritative circles in Stockholm had information that a British landing force, ashore a short distance from Narvik, was trying to join Norwegian troops to retake that iron ore port from the Germans.

Air-Sea Battle Reported.

Military secrecy hid the situation at Trondheim, above Bergen. Fragmentary reports from that port said five German warships, including a pocket battleship, were observed off shore and that the British had concentrated a fierce naval and air attack on the vessels there.

The pocket battleship was tentatively identified as the Luetzow—formerly the Deutschland—sister ship of the scuttled Admiral Graf Spee.

To the north of Trondheim British naval activity continued at Namsos, where two British destroyers were seen steaming along the coast, just outside Folde fjord.

Other British Ships Nearby.

Elaborating on the report of British naval forces off Namsos, the Stockholm newspaper Allehanda said that in addition to the two destroyers, these other ships were believed to be in the vicinity: Two British battleships, four cruisers, and two destroyers, together with large numbers of aircraft. No German warships were seen.

The sinking of a large vessel of undetermined nationality in the Skagerrak was witnessed during the morning from Stroemstad, Swedish coastal town near the Norwegian border.

For hours before the ship went down in flames heavy cannonading was heard from the direction of the Oslo fjord entrance.

Lists German Losses.

The Norwegian army communique listed these German naval losses: "The battleship Gneisenau at Oslo fjord; the cruiser Emden and several smaller ships sunk also at Kristiansand, the cruiser Karlsruhe; at Stavanger, the [Norwegian] destroyer Aeger sank a big German warship; at Bergen one German cruiser was sunk. Several of our own warships were sunk."

Stockholm tonight lost all telegraphic communication with Oslo.

WAR IN NORTH

Germany maintained its hold on Norway.

The fate of the German expedition depended on the great British-French-Norwegian effort to cut the Nazis' vital sea lines of communication to Norway from Denmark and Germany. The Norwegians and British were also seeking to loosen the German grip with British bombs and Norwegian land attacks.

To isolate the Germans, the British laid the greatest mine field in history in the North sea, the Skagerrak and the Kattegat. British bombers attacked German warships and land batteries at Kristiansand. The British admitted losing five planes at Kristiansand and three others in fights over the Kattegat and Skagerrak.

The Norwegian army was reported attempting to encircle Oslo. An unconfirmed report said Norwegians sank four German destroyers at Narvik.

German reports indicated that the German forces at Oslo were in no immediate danger and that they had retaliated to the Norwegian attacks by bombing eight towns held by the Norwegians.

Sweden announced she would fight to retain neutrality.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, April 13, Saturday (AP).—DNB, official German news agency, reported today that British planes raided the Arctic Norwegian port of Narvik yesterday. DNB said effective antiaircraft defense by the German forces prevented air bombs from doing any damage and made another attack impossible.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, April 13, Saturday (AP).—The Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, in a Stockholm dispatch early today said heavy gunfire was heard last night off Goteborg, Sweden, where units of the British and German fleets are believed stationed.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—The British admiralty tonight announced it had completed laying what was described as the largest mine field in history in a desperate effort to bottle up the German army in Norway.

The mining operations were designed to stop the flow of more troops, food and munitions to the German invaders by corking the Skagerrak and Kattegat.

The admiralty asserted that four areas were mined in the North sea, the Skagerrak and the Kattegat. It said the mine field touched the coasts of Norway, Denmark, and Germany, and also territorial waters of Sweden and the Netherlands.

Field Extends 420 Miles.

British spokesmen said the field extended 420 miles northward at its westernmost point. Experts recalled that the greatest mine field of the world war covered a distance of 233 miles, and that 71,000 mines were used. That field was sown by the United States and Britain between the Orkney Islands and the Norwegian territorial waters.

While the British navy was sowing the mines the royal air force lost eight planes as a result of engagements with German warships, planes and antiaircraft defenses.

The air ministry said the planes were shot down while they were hunting units of the German fleet in Danish and Norwegian waters. Five of the British bombers were downed in a battle with two warships in Kristiansand fjord.

Air Fight Near Stavanger.

Another battle in the sky was fought near Stavanger. The fate of two British planes which were forced to alight on the sea was not disclosed.

[In Berlin, DNB, German official news agency, said eight of Britain's most modern bombers were downed by German planes in an attempted raid on German bases on the Norwegian coast last night.]

The air ministry also announced that four Messerschmitt fighting planes were shot down. It added that two more German fighters were believed destroyed, and several others damaged.

The British said their bombers attacked ships and bombed a German seaplane base on the Baltic coast on night flights that extended from Oslo fjord to Germany's Baltic coast.

Report Gneisenau Sunk.

The German battle cruiser Gneisenau has been sunk in Oslo fjord, said Reuters, British news agency. It quoted a Norwegian communique. The Gneisenau had been reported destroyed previously without confirmation.

At least two German supply vessels were sunk or damaged by aerial bombs, the British announced.

British raiders dropped bombs on an ammunition ship of 8,000 tons, and it was reported that the vessel was destroyed in a terrific explosion. The British added that a 5,000 ton supply ship was "probably damaged by two large bombs seen to burst close to her stern."

Strategists Study Problems.

Navy strategists, viewing the naval problem created by Germany's sudden and surprising occupation of Norwegian ports, stressed two essentials necessary for solution. These are:

FIRST—It is essential to prevent Germany from sending reinforcements and supplies, and the Skager-

Britain Takes Mail for U.S. Off Yank Ship

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—British officia' sources disclosed tonight that a systematic search of America bound mails on neutral ships has begun with the removal of mails of German origin from the S. S. Manhattan.

The Manhattan is due at New York on Monday from Genoa, via Gibraltar. The mail was taken off at Gibraltar and those letters which are not confiscated will go forward on the next ship.

Eastbound Mail Removed.

Eastbound mail previously has been removed from American ships and some occasional German mail to the United States has fallen into British hands, but the British said a thoro search of westbound neutral ships for German mail now was under way.

[Last Dec. 27 the United States protested sharply to Britain against seizure of American mail from American ships. On Jan. 20 Britain flatly rejected the United States' protest, declaring there was "clear evidence of the existence of an organized traffic in contraband on a considerable scale between German sympathizers in the United States and Germany thru the mail."]

The British announcement said the new searches would be made to prevent American importers from buying small, mailable articles from Germany, thus increasing German dollar holdings.

Imitation Stones.

It said that imitation stones at the rate of about $1,000,000 worth a year were being sent to the United States, also watchmaking material shipments of about $300,000 a month.

The official explanation was that the search was imposed suddenly to catch as much German exports by parcel mail as possible. The volume of parcels from Germany to the United States was reported to have increased greatly since the blockade imposed on German exports, as well as imports, Nov. 21.

Spain Fixes Secret Plan for Defense of Nation

MADRID, April 13, Saturday (AP).—"Necessary measures for the national defense" were taken early today, after meetings of the national defense council and the cabinet with Gen. Francisco Franco, it was announced officially. Altho the nature of these measures is a secret, it is believed the promotion of several generals, announced today, is connected with them.

rak action is calculated to halt ships from crossing to Oslo. The only alternative route left, if these forces are to cut off the supplies reaching the forces now in Norway, would be over the Swedish railroad from Malmo to Oslo, which would mean the encountering of newer and probably stronger resistance from Sweden.

SECOND—Hope was expressed here that the Norwegian resistance will prove sufficient to recapture one of the main ports of Norway where British and French forces could gain a sufficient foothold to drive the Germans back or cut them off from their sources of supply.

Swedish Ship Torpedoed.

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—The sinking of a Swedish ship following an attack by a German submarine was announced in London tonight.

The vessel was the Swedish tanker Sveaborg, 9,076 tons. She was reported to have been torpedoed off the Scottish coast. The Sveaborg was bound from the United States to Sweden with a cargo of gasoline.

Other developments in the sea war included:

All but 14 of the crew of the destroyer Gurkha, sunk Wednesday by German warplanes, were rescued and landed on British soil.

Captured Trawler in Port.

The British said there was no major naval engagement in the Kattegat today despite Swedish reports of heavy detonations heard in those waters.

A naval official said the explosions may have been due to depth charges since the Germans doubtless have worked diligently to locate British submarines.

British Land Under Fire.

The story of what is believed to have been the only landing yet made by any British fighting men on the Norwegian coast was received in London.

Returning survivors of Wednesday's battle at Narvik said that about 50 men of the British destroyer Hardy, which was wrecked and run aground in that battle, made a landing under fire of the German shore batteries, apparently determined to continue the fight.

Eyewitnesses aboard the destroyers Hotspur, Hostile, and Havock, which managed to withdraw from the fight, said their comrades aboard the Hardy when last seen were landing with rifles and ammunition.

Fate of Survivors Unknown.

The fate of the Hardy's survivors, however, is not known. They have not been reported since the battle, except for German accounts of having captured prisoners at Narvik, ore port above the arctic circle.

The British admit that another destroyer, the Hunter, was sunk at Narvik.

Survivors of the destroyer Gurkha also related their experiences.

Gunner Jack Squires said that about half a dozen German warplanes attacked the Gurkha about 3 p. m. Wednesday.

Save Sub's Commander.

"When the vessel began to sink, we closed the bulkheads and managed to keep afloat nearly four hours," he said. "We kept firing and brought down a couple of German planes—one of them the blighter that got us."

Other members of the crew asserted the Gurkha's commander stuck to his post while his ship sank under him, but was saved from death by two sub officers who "almost hurled" him into a rescue boat.

The commander is Capt. A. W. Buzzard, 37 years old, son of Sir Farquhar Buzzard, who was physician in ordinary to King George V.

One survivor reported that while another British warship was rescuing the survivors, German planes swooped down again, dropping more bombs—all of which missed.

"We were not sinking fast enough to suit them and they determined to finish us off," he said.

Oil Production Booming in Poland, Moscow Says

SWEDEN WARNS POWERS: WE'LL FIGHT INVASION

Demands to Use Territory to Be Rejected.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 12.—Premier Per Albin Hansson tonight warned Europe's belligerent powers that Sweden would fight to defend her neutrality as the government continued preparations to repel any attempted invasion.

In a radio address the premier declared the government would reject all demands for use of Swedish waters or territory in the conflict raging about Norway. He said no such demands have been made, but declared that the "maintenance of our neutrality means that we must defend it."

[Some sources indicated Germany may demand that Sweden permit the passage of men and supplies to Norway if the British and French fleets succeed in cutting the sea route across the Skagerrak. An official German spokesman in Berlin asserted that rumors that Germany already had demanded that right were "without foundation."]

Face Critical Days.

Hansson told the people as they faced critical days ahead that they "must remain fully prepared during this time of war," and that the nation must "intensify her military preparations."

"This explains why the Swedish government during the last few days has taken certain additional measures," he went on.

"If Sweden decided to follow a course of strict neutrality, this means that Sweden retains the right to independence and to independent actions. It is irreconcilable with strict neutrality that Swedish territory be used to advantage by any belligerent nation.

Take Lesson from Norse.

"I am certain that the Swedish people are ready to make all sacrifices necessary to safeguard the peace and self-determination of the country. I am convinced that we shall master all difficulties if we remain united and determined."

The stubborn resistance of the Norwegians to the German invasion has fortified Sweden's stiffened attitude and during the past week a tremendous change has come over the country.

Before fighting began in Norway there was some doubt among Swedes as to the actions of the Hansson cabinet. Tonight there are no doubts.

The southern part of the country has been strongly fortified and the entire west coast has been mined.

Schools have been closed and the buildings turned into barracks for soldiers. Some areas are blacked out. Reservists have been called to the colors.

Sweden's sacred flag, the banner of the realm, which legend says fell from heaven, has been removed from Ridderholm church in Stockholm to a place of safety with the regalia of the country's famed fighting kings.

British Lay 'Greatest Mine Field'

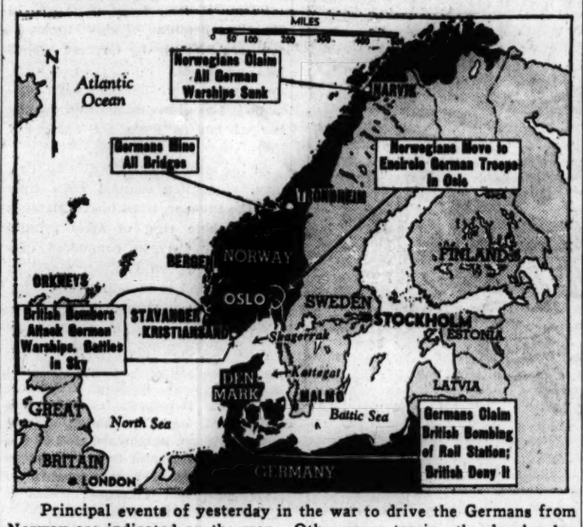
Diagonal shading covers vast area, 420 miles long at its western edge, which the British have mined to bottle up the German forces in Norway. If the field succeeds in its purpose, the only alternative route left to the Germans would be over the railway from Malmo, Sweden, to Oslo, Norway.



Principal events of yesterday in the war to drive the Germans from Norway are indicated on the map. Other maps tracing the day by day progress of the conflict are on page 4.

SWEDEN OFFERS KNOTTY PROBLEM TO ANY INVADER

Much Better Prepared than Was Norway.

Sweden, pledged to defend her neutrality and independence with arms, is much better equipped for warfare than neighboring Norway. Her population is more than twice as great, her industrial production incomparably larger and her army and navy better able to withstand attack, should it come.

One of Sweden's principal advantages is the possession of the Bofors munitions works, located in a difficult country some 180 miles west of Stockholm, and defended by important fortresses. This factory produces munitions of all kinds and is particularly noted for the efficiency of its anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns.

Far to the north, and commanding the single rail line that leads from Narvik in Norway thru the iron ore fields to Lulea on the gulf of Bothnia, stands the huge fort of Boden, cut from solid rock and considered impregnable by the Swedes.

Two Years' Supply.

Boden was started more than 30 year ago. It always is heavily garrisoned and reputedly has within its rock tunnels supplies to last for at least two years. "Sweden will never be conquered while Boden stands," is the summary of those who have seen it.

It is difficult to determine the actual number of men Sweden could put into the field at one time. The standing army always has been small and the navy normally has not had more than 4,000 men. But Sweden has compulsory military training, the period ranging from six to eight months.

It is estimated that 50,000 recruits are trained annually and, since all trained men are subject to call up to 45 years old, it is probable that several hundred thousand are available for service.

Peace for Generations.

The country has been at peace for generations and the qualities of the army cannot be guessed in advance. It is known, however, that 9,000 Swedes had actual war experience as volunteers with the Finnish army and probably learned valuable lessons in that service.

As late as early 1939 the Socialist government was endeavoring to cut down on the armed forces and decreed the abolishment of eight regiments for last Oct. 1. Since the present war started, it is reported from Stockholm, this attitude has changed and the Swedes are preparing feverishly to defend their land if they must.

Certain parts of the country are vulnerable. Particularly is this true of the southern tip of its peninsula, near Malmo and Kristianstad. Here the terrain is flat and the crossing from Denmark requires, at the Oro sound, only about 20 minutes by ferry. There is little doubt that the Germans could, if they wished, invade this rich agricultural region.

More Difficult to the North.

A drive to the north, however, would probably be met by stern resistance. The invaders would have to proceed thru rugged country, spotted with deep lakes, and sweep over defense lines reputedly already set up. Towns in this section, as well as in central Sweden, are said to be protected by antiaircraft batteries. One report is that the townsmen themselves contributed money for the guns.

Large Swedish seaports, such as Stockholm, Goteborg, and Karlskrona [the principal naval base], are all heavily fortified. So is the island of Gottland. There are literally thousands of islands along the coasts and the channels could be effectively mined against sea attack.

The heart of the Swedish resistance undoubtedly would be in the central part of the country. On a line from Oslo to Stockholm, and a hundred miles or so north and the same distance south, most of the Swedish heavy industry is concentrated. Steel mills and munitions would be among the important gains to the Germans if they seized the country. But all this territory is hilly and broken by lakes, giving the defenders a great advantage.

Four Rail Lines.

In general, the backbone of the Scandinavian peninsula lies along the Norwegian border. Travel over the mountains is difficult. There are four rail lines across the line. One runs from south Sweden to Oslo, one from Stockholm to Oslo, one from Stockholm to Trondheim, and the fourth from Narvik to Lulea. All, it is believed, could be defended with good hope of success by the Swedes.

They believe, however, that they can escape invasion. Why, they ask, should Germany attack them when all the Nazis could hope to seize may be peacefully purchased from them? The answer, of course, is that Germany may not have the exchange with which to buy.

NAZIS THREATEN TO BOMB BRITISH RAILWAY SYSTEM

Charge English Attack on German Station.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 12.—A bombardment of the British isles by the German air force loomed today after it was announced that British planes had bombarded a railway station in Schleswig Holstein, northern province which borders Denmark.

Tho it was claimed that only slight damage was done, the Germans declared that a repetition of such an attempt "will create an entirely new situation in regard to aerial warfare against England. The necessary conclusions will be drawn immediately."

[Britain denied that its planes had made such a raid.]

The Germans cited Fuehrer Hitler's speech in Danzig on Sept. 19 in which he said, "For every bomb dropped on German soil, we will retaliate with 5 or 10 bombs."

It was assumed here that German retaliation in the case of a repeated British attack would take the shape of a large scale bombardment of the British railway system.

Norse Rulers Trouble Nazis.

BERLIN, April 12 (AP).—Germany admitted today she was making little headway in her efforts to fashion a protected kingdom out of Norway thru the existing Norwegian government.

Authorized sources said the German government virtually had abandoned hope of being able to come to any agreement with Premier Johan Nygaardsvold's ministry for a frictionless administration under Germany's wing.

Concerning the war D. N. B., official German news agency, reported eight of Britain's most modern bombers were shot down by German fighters in an attempted raid on German bases on the Norwegian coast tonight.

Thumbs Down on Hambro.

In their comment on the faint possibility of any agreement with the existing Norwegian government, Germans turned thumbs down on any régime in any degree influenced by Carl Johan Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament.

[Hambro is disliked by the Germans because he is a member of the Norwegian branch of the Jewish family which founded Hambros bank in London a century ago.]

It was announced that negotiations with King Haakon, however, would be continued, despite the lack of headway to date. The Germans were especially bitter against Hambro, who fled to Stockholm at the outbreak of hostilities. They charged him with spreading false reports about sea battles and British landings on the Norwegian coast.

King Still Recognized.

The Germans have said that some of the ministers in Oslo are showing a sufficiently "realistic" grasp of the situation, but for the most part, they complained, the Norwegian government moves from village to village, out of touch with the people and the state.

The authority of King Haakon is still recognized in Berlin but Germans are quick to contend he would forfeit this recognition if he left Norwegian soil.

The occupation of Norway was described as progressing "according to a systematic schedule."

No Sign of Surrender—Hambro.

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—Carl Johan Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, said in a statement issued today thru the British ministry of information that "Nowhere does one see any signs of [Norway's] surrendering [to Germany]."

Hambro left Norway shortly after the German invasion began and is now at Stockholm.

Asserting that all parties were consolidated in making a "united people," Hambro said, "thru the Norwegian legation in Finland offers have come from Danish, English, and French ambulance corps to proceed to Norway, where their services may be of the greatest importance."

Their Kin Are Foes

MR. AND MRS. W. L. KRUEGER

Edward Tinsley. Heinz Krueger.

Regardless of how the fortunes of war vary in Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ludwig Krueger, 3842 North Ashland avenue, are going to remain strictly American and neutral. Krueger, 34 years old, is a German, who came to the United States 15 years ago. His wife, Winifred, 33 years old, is an Englishwoman who has been in America a similar period.

Mr. and Mrs. Krueger are intensely interested in the war, because she has a brother, Edward Tinsley, somewhere on the Maginot line, and Walter has a brother, Heinz, fighting on the Siegfried line. Both have other relatives in Germany and England.

"We sometimes have a little argument about the war," Mrs. Krueger admitted, "but we try to stay clear of that subject. We agree on one thing, and that is that we're both Americans and we both believe America should stay out of the war."

NAZI GENERALS SWIM IN HOT OIL TO NORSE SHORE

BERLIN, April 12 (AP).—Two German generals, an admiral, a naval captain, and a military photographer completed their journey to Norway by swimming the last 200 yards thru icy water covered by oil so hot that it burned their bodies. They were on a German cruiser which was sunk Tuesday by Norwegian shore batteries.

Holding on to four pistols, some money, and a water-tight can of exposed film, they managed to reach shore, where several Norwegian soldiers demanded they surrender. The Germans refused and the soldiers withdrew to get help, they said.

Then the officers decided to destroy the films because they included events which would interest the enemy. In a few minutes the Norwegians returned, but in a more friendly mood, and supplied them with dry clothing and took them to Oslo by taxicab.

ORDERS DANISH SHIPS AT SEA TO NEUTRAL PORTS

Seeks to Prevent Seizure by Empires.

New York, April 12 (AP).—The Danish consulate today said orders had gone out to all of the 705 ships of that nation's registry now on the high seas to "go to neutral ports, or if you are there stay there."

Confirmation of the order followed persistent reports that Britain and France were preparing to seize all Danish ships under the theory that Denmark lost her neutrality when she permitted Germany to take over the country.

[An authoritative source in London tonight said that Danish ships now are technically "of enemy character" and may continue in service "only under an allied flag." This source said the ships would be seized as war prizes and used by Britain and France.]

Confers with British.

The consulate said Henrik de Kauffmann, minister of Denmark at Washington, D. C., was at the British embassy this afternoon conferring with officials on the problem.

At the same time a special committee appointed by Kauffmann was attempting to reach some satisfactory solution at a meeting here.

Vice Consul A. Tscherning said British officials had suggested that Danish ships "proceed as fast as possible to British ports."

The British suggestion has not been transmitted to Danish ships, he said.

Members of the special committee meeting here were: Ramus Hansen, executive of the East Asiatic company; Hans Isbrandtsen of the Maersk fleet, and Tage Nielsen of the Lauritzen fleet.

Nazis Permit U. S. Ship to Sail.

The Washington legation estimated that there were now about 175 or 200 Danish vessels outside the British-French blockade area.

Shipping sources also said that England planned to take over and operate Norway's fleet of 1,987 ships, the fourth largest in the world.

Such a plan would affect American shipowners as many of them operate ships under Norwegian registry.

The Swedish fleet of 1,200-odd vessels will continue to operate normally except in the battle area, Martin Kastengren, Swedish consul general here, said. Swedish vessels en route to Scandinavian ports were ordered to neutral harbors.

Meanwhile, the Moore-McCormick Line, only United States company that had been shipping to Norway, received word from Capt. W. A. McHale of its freighter Mormacsea, now at Trondheim, Norway, that the Germans had authorized the ship's sailing. The line advised McHale to do so at his discretion.

Another Moore-McCormick ship, the Flying Fish, is at Bergen, Norway, and the line expected it would receive similar treatment.

MRS. HARRIMAN TELLS OF NAZIS BOMBING NORSE

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—A first hand account of German air raids in Norway was sent to the state department tonight by Mrs. Florence J. Harriman, American minister. Mrs. Harriman is now in Holjes, Sweden, just across the border. She telephoned her report to the American minister at Stockholm, who relayed it to Washington. The state department summary of Mrs. Harriman's report said:

"She was on the outskirts of Elverum with the Norwegian government when the town was bombed. The government moved Wednesday night to Nybergsund. The only way for Mrs. Harriman to get to Nybergsund was to go thru Elverum, but the Germans were bombing there. So she went to a farmhouse to spend the night [Thursday].

"With the help of a farmer she got thru the Elverum barricade this morning and reached Holjes. The hotel in Nybergsund where the king and government stayed was bombed after they had left. Mrs. Harriman does not know where they are now. She hopes to return to join the government in Norway tomorrow."

NEW FRIENDS RALLY TO AID OF NORSE SAILOR

New found friends of Norwegian ancestry have come to the aid of Konrad Anderson, 19 years old, a sailor from Bergen, Norway, who faces a charge that he overstayed a 60 day visiting permit in the United States.

Anderson, who has a job in a machine shop, is living in the home of Monrad Neese, 2629 North Whipple street. He was arrested by immigration authorities Thursday, and is said to have a hearing soon on the charge. His bond of $500 was furnished by Mrs. Edwin Blom, 5916 Sangamon street.

"Anderson," she said, "was regularly released from his contract as a sailor several months ago. There is little chance he can get back home now and we want to help him because he is a fine young man."

REUNION OF GERMANY AND AUSTRIA NOW IS COMPLETE, SAYS HITLER

BERLIN, April 12 (AP).—Adolf Hitler wrote finis today to a chapter of contemporary history by declaring the reunion of Austria and Germany complete.

The complete absorption came when the commissioner for Austria, Joseph Buerckel, reported that the articulation of Austrian administrative machinery into the German system—a process which began with the annexation of March 13, 1938—was finished.

Buerckel consequently was relieved of his duties as commissioner, but remained reichsstatthalter [governor] of the Vienna district. Austria has been divided into six districts, each headed by a governor.

WHAT'S HAPPENED SINCE SUNDAY IN WAR FOR NORWAY

Blow-by-Blow Account of Sea-Air Battle.

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—The naval and air conflict of the North slowed in this, its fifth night, while British warships planted a 400 mile minefield to keep German troops, supply and warships from getting home from Norway.

As reckoned from London, the German losses stand:

Four cruisers;
Three destroyers;
Several submarines;
As many as twenty troop and supply ships;
At least 23 planes.

[The Norwegians, in addition, claim to have sunk the battleship Gneisenau at Oslo.]

One battleship, one cruiser, three destroyers.

Admitted British Losses.

The British concede they have lost:

The Germans claim the British have lost seven destroyers, six sunk in the vicinity of Narvik and one elsewhere. They say, further, that German air action has damaged four British battleships, two battle cruisers, three cruisers, an aircraft carrier and two transports. The Germans admit that Norwegian shore guns sank the cruisers Karlsruhe and Blucher, but concede no outright naval losses to the British.

British Fleet Speeds to Sea.

The preliminaries to this far flung engagement on stormy northern seas came Sunday night when British planes, on scout patrol, found the German battleship Scharnhorst, with cruisers and destroyers flanking her, moving northward.

Out to sea sped the British battle fleet to intercept the Germans. Then:

MONDAY.

British warships laid mine fields off Norway's coasts to block the iron ore sea corridor to Germany. The British destroyer Glowworm, hurrying to rejoin her sister ships after pausing to pick up a man overboard, was caught by two German destroyers and sunk.

The British home fleet, sailing out of Scapa Flow, and the minelaying force, lying off the Norwegian northern port of Narvik, tried to trap the German battle fleet and its troop transports between them. But the Germans slipped thru.

TUESDAY.

German troops occupied Denmark and seized Norwegian ports, landing from warships.

The British home fleet, sprawled in the waters off Bergen, was heavily attacked by German planes. The great flagship Rodney was hit by a heavy bomb, but her half foot of deck armor saved her. Caught by the raiders as they were rejoining the fleet, the cruiser Aurora and the destroyer Gurkha were pounded with bombs. The Gurkha, heavily hit, slipped beneath the waves.

The German Version.

That is the British story. But the Germans say this aerial foray resulted in heavy damage to four battleships, two battle cruisers, two heavy cruisers, and two transports, in addition to the destroyer which the British admit was sunk.

Meanwhile, a German U-boat, heading, presumably, for Scapa Flow, was being sunk off the Orkneys by the Zulu, a British destroyer.

In shore along the Norwegian coast, momentous hours were slipping by. Norwegian shore guns blazed with deadly effectiveness at Oslo and Kristiansand, on the south coast, sinking the Blucher and Karlsruhe as they maneuvered to protect transports landing troops.

Emden Believed Sunk.

The Norwegian cruiser and minelayer, Olav Trygvasson in Oslo fjord, was reported to have sent to the bottom a German warship believed to have been the cruiser Emden.

The Scharnhorst, fast, sleek 26,000 ton German battleship, ran away from the 32,000 ton Renown, aided by a blizzard and a smoke screen from a protecting cruiser of the Hipper class. But the Renown's guns hit her twice. The Renown, herself, was pierced by a dud shell and another projectile carried away her main aerial.

WEDNESDAY.

At dawn, five British destroyers, guns blazing, swept into the waterways to Narvik where, as Admiralty Chief Winston Churchill put it, the fierce fighting was worthy of any in the proud records of the British navy. Six German destroyers constituted the opposing force.

Britain lost two, the Hunter and the Hardy; two more were damaged, one badly. [The Germans said all four were sunk.] A German destroyer was torpedoed, the British said, three others left afire. A number of German transport and supply ships and one ammunition vessel were sunk.

Bombers Attack.

At Bergen fjord, meantime, repeated waves of royal air force bombers and, at dusk, a swarm of fleet air arm planes were attacking a cluster of German warships.

The R. A. F. men reported back that one light cruiser was hit, then vanished. The fleet air arm planes, scattering 500 pound bombs, got a second cruiser. A long trail of oil, seen later by scouting planes, marked the spot.

All this while other British warships, shelling their way into the Skagerrak, blasting at the Oslo fjord and getting as far as the entrance to the Kattegat, just off Swedish shores, were erecting a barricade of death for German transport ships packed with troops to reinforce the original invaders of Norway.

Troop Transports Sunk.

Churchill has declined to lift the veil from this series of engagements. From Swedish shore reports and meager accounts brought out of Norway by refugees and by other means it appears, however, that the British sank at least two and perhaps as many as eight transports; that one German warship was torpedoed; that others may have been destroyed; that the British men o'war effected at least a partial entry into Oslo fjord and that they may have tried to land some men there.

And at least six and perhaps eight German planes were shot down in dusk raids on Scotland and Scapa Flow.

THURSDAY.

British bombing planes attacked German ships at Trondheim, hitting a destroyer. British landing parties occupied the Faroe islands to keep the Germans from getting them. These Danish islands are but 250 miles from Scapa Flow, the British naval base.

British warships continued to attack in the Skagerrak and Kattegat. British bombers raided German occupied Stavanger airdrome.

The Germans said their bombers caught a big British flotilla at sea, damaging an aircraft carrier and a cruiser. The Germans said, too, that they repelled an attempt by light English forces to force an entrance into Trondheim fjord, and sank two more British destroyers off Narvik.

FRIDAY.

The British laid their new mine field to cork the Baltic. During the night a German munition ship was sunk, a German trawler captured, and a supply ship damaged. British planes flew to the attack at Kristiansand fjord, pounding away at two German warships. There was a great sky battle and five British planes were shot down. Three other British planes were lost during the day's engagements. At least four German planes, said the air ministry, were destroyed.

Other British planes winged over the North sea and Skagerrak, seeking naval prey.

AMERICANS SEEK PERMISSION TO LEAVE DENMARK

Crowd Consulate for Passport Validation.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 12 (AP).—Americans crowded the United States consulate today seeking validation of passports for the trip home thru Germany and Italy as the Danes hardened themselves to the rigors of a wartime blackout and the prospect of food rationing.

Estimates of the number of Americans living in Denmark vary between 700 and 1,500. So far no one has been permitted to leave the country and traffic with the outside world has stopped except for that of German military officials.

Telegraphic communication with neutral countries via Germany was resumed tonight after a three day shutdown. Danish officials told foreign newspaper men they would be limited to news dispatches under Danish supervision. Telephone communication with any point outside of Denmark still is shut down.

Bury 12 Danish Soldiers.

The 12 Danish soldiers killed when the German troops marched into Denmark were buried with military honors today. A communique issued by the defense ministry disclosed that 29 other Danish soldiers were wounded in the fighting last Tuesday morning before the order of nonresistance was given.

King Christian this morning gave the people his own idea of how to act under the German occupation by taking to his horse for his usual canter.

As yet the only rationing is a general order that only four days supply of foodstuffs may be purchased. Most Danes, however, expect regulations more nearly approaching those in Germany.

Occupation Moves Ahead.

The German occupation goes forward steadily. Troops from the reich are seen among the crowds on streets and in restaurants. The Danes still display great curiosity when motorized equipment passes.

A group of German commercial trade experts arrived in Copenhagen today to negotiate with the Danish government about disturbances caused by German occupation of the country. Danish police authorities tonight forbade all public meetings of any kind.

Veteran in Command

[Acme Photo.]

Admiral Sir Charles N. Forbes.

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—Admiral Sir Charles Norton Forbes, commander in chief of the British home fleet, stood out today as the directing head of the British navy's far flung operations along Scandinavia's coasts.

Experience has fitted the slim, 60 year old admiral for just this assignment, for he was flag commander on the Iron Duke, Admiral Jellicoe's flagship, in the battle of Jutland, fought in these same waters nearly 24 years ago.

His command today includes five capital ship veterans of Jutland—the Valiant, Malaya, Barham, Revenge, and Respite.

Since the world war he has been deputy director of the staff college, director of naval ordinance, commander of Mediterranean destroyers.

TEACHERS' UNION DEMANDS SCHOOL MERIT SYSTEM

The Chicago Teachers' union, at a meeting at 509 South Wabash avenue last night, expressed its views on the reappointment of Dr. William H. Johnson as superintendent of public schools.

The union issued a statement declaring it was not interested in personalities, but was interested in appointments and promotions on "merit only." It averred that the school administration should recognize the union and not discriminate against its members.

"In the past," the statement declared, "Superintendent Johnson has frequently violated these principles of sound educational administration. On such occasions the union has opposed him. If he should continue to violate these principles, the union will have no choice but to continue to oppose him."

LOSES RACE FOR RENOMINATION BY 3 MINUTES

Indianapolis, Ind., April 12 [Special].—Joseph Klein, Democratic state representative from Lake county, lost a court fight here today to be a candidate for renomination.

Judge Herbert E. Wilson of Superior court refused to mandate James M. Tucker, secretary of state, to accept Klein's declaration of candidacy. Employés of Tucker's office testified that Klein attempted to file his declaration "three or four" minutes after midnight Saturday deadline. Judge Wilson ruled the candidate had had ample opportunity to file before the deadline. Klein said he was delayed while en route here, but contended he entered the statehouse one and a half minutes before midnight.

Father of Six Stabs Self to Death with Safety Pin

Brooklyn, Mich., April 12 (AP).—An autopsy disclosed tonight that George Ellis, 44 years old, of Cement City, Mich., had stabbed himself to death with a safety pin. Coroner Jason B. Meads said the autopsy verified Ellis' own story to his wife that he had plunged the safety pin into his heart to commit suicide because he was ill and unemployed. Ellis was the father of six children.

C.I.O. WIRE UNION AGAINST 3D TERM FOR ROOSEVELT

Opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt was expressed last night in a resolution adopted by the American Communications association, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, at its national convention in the La Salle hotel.

The union's 200 delegates voted also to withdraw all support of the President and the New Deal administration. A sister resolution indorsed the threat of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chieftain, to form a third party unless the Democrats at their national convention nominate a presidential candidate "suitable to labor."

The communications union, which formerly was on record favoring a third term for the President, charged that the New Deal is now following a course inimical to the welfare of labor. The group claims to represent nearly 20,000 workers in the communications industry.

M'GARRY HEARS 1ST CASE SINCE BEING RELIEVED

Judge Eugene L. McGarry, restored to active duty Thursday by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, yesterday heard his first cases since being relieved of assignments last December.

Judge McGarry sat in the Small Claims court. After an hour's hearing, he dismissed the opening case, a $75 automobile damage suit.

Judge Eugene J. Holland, also reassigned Thursday after a similar period of idleness, will go to work Monday in the civil jury branch. The two judges were relieved of duty pending an investigation of charges against them by the Chicago Bar association, results of which have not been announced.

SOLDIER DIES OF WOUNDS.

Sulis Hanttala, 23 years old, a first class private in the 3d field artillery at Fort Sheridan, died yesterday in the post hospital of an accidental gunshot wound. His home is Alpha, Mich. Army officers described the shooting as accidental.

FATHER IS ARRESTED IN 'MERCY KILLING' OF AFFLICTED SON

Houghton, Mich., April 12 (AP).—A father's "mercy killing" of his deaf, dumb, and blind son— by drowning him in a wash boiler—was disclosed here tonight.

Sheriff John G. Salmi announced that Abraham White, 53 year old railroad section hand, had confessed killing his son Frederick, 15, at the family home today while the mother was shopping. Frederick's head had been held under water until he drowned, Salmi said. The boy, Sheriff Salmi said, was mentally incompetent and suffered frequent convulsions. He was the couple's only child.

Upon her return home Mrs. White found the body and a note to her saying:

"Dear Mandy:

"I am not going to see him suffer any longer. We have prayed to the lord to take him away, but it hasn't happened, so I am going to do away with him."

White was arrested tonight at the funeral home where his son's body was taken. The sheriff said he would be charged with murder.

4 Cents a Day Raise Ends Strike of 150,000 in India

BOMBAY, India, April 12 (AP).—A six weeks' old strike of 150,000 textile workers in the Bombay area ended today when they accepted a wage increase of about 4 cents a day instead of the 6 cents demanded. The increase had been asked to meet rising living costs. Textile workers average about $9.60 a month.

Turkish Munitions Factory Staffs Put on 12 Hour Shifts

ANKARA, Turkey, April 12 (AP).—Employés of Turkey's munitions factories will work in 12 hour shifts and get no weekly holiday, the cabinet decided today. Women and children workers, as well as men, are affected.

BOYS TO RESTORE 4 CANNON BALLS TAKEN IN PRANK

Four civil war cannon balls that disappeared Wednesday night from the courthouse green in Michigan City are going to be returned today. Indiana State Highway Policeman Walter La Hayne is going to superintend the replacement, which will be done by six high school boys who carried the trophies away as a prank.

"When I started out on the search," said La Hayne, "I had no luck until I reached Chesterton, where I learned the high school had a new set of cannon balls. But the ammunition was gone. I found out the names of the six doners and they admitted they had moved the cannon balls, which weigh 200 pounds apiece, from the yard to a highway ditch. It was agreed they'd be let off if they'd return the loot to the courthouse."

The boys, he said, are Robert Dunn, Glen Edquist, Glen Nicholson, Robert Zern, Glen and Delbert Shipley. All live in Chesterton.

3 SENT TO JAIL AFTER ARREST OF GIRL IN BURGLARY

Two men and a woman were sentenced yesterday to the Bridewell by Judge William V. Daly in the Court of Domestic Relations on charges of contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls. Mrs. Lee Scaletta, 29 years old, 15 South Oakley boulevard, was sentenced to 240 days and 90 days, and William Pellegrini, 29, of 2740 North Sayre avenue, was sentenced to 25 days and 5 days, in both cases the sentences to run consecutively. Frank Torino, 27, of 2916 Jackson boulevard, was sentenced to two days and fined $2. The girls were Lorraine Shaffer of Belleville, Mich., and Kay Wilson of Murray, Ky. The case was developed by police after the Shaffer girl's arrest on a burglary charge.

AN ORANGE BOOK LISTS HOLLAND'S MANY PROTESTS

Dutch Record Violations by Both Sides.

THE HAGUE, April 13 [Saturday] (AP).—The Netherlands government, immersed in new defense measures, issued an orange book today covering the diplomatic steps it has taken from November to April in protesting violations of Dutch neutrality by both the Germans and Britain and France.

The reports of the diplomatic exchanges, intended to show the balanced stand pursued by the government regardless of the belligerent involved, significantly were made public at a time when Germany and the western powers are accusing each other of plotting to spread the war both to the Netherlands and to Belgium.

Attacks on Dutch Ships.

The orange book included diplomatic correspondence over violations of Netherlands territory by airplanes of both sides, attacks on Dutch ships by German submarines and warplanes, and the Nov. 11 border incident at Venlo, when German guards crossed the frontier and seized two British secret agents.

Calling this latter "one of the most flagrant violations of neutrality," the book said the Netherlands government recalled that conversations between the two Britons and a "highly placed officer of the German army were conducted on two occasions with a Dutch officer present."

"Since the men who committed the outrage wore civilian clothes, there was at first no occasion to hold the German government responsible, but an inquiry was asked for," the orange book related.

Protest Unanswered.

"Later, however, a German press communique announced that the attack was carried out by German officials, and then a serious protest was made. But like many other protests from small nations to Germany, this protest also has gone unanswered to this day in spite of many reminders."

The British and French were told that their blockade of Germany had imposed a multitude of hardships on the Netherlands by hitting the sea trade of this shipping nation.

British Prohibit Exports to Northern Countries

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—A government order today prohibited the exportation, except under license, of all goods from the United Kingdom to Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Norway, Sweden, and Russian ports on the Baltic sea and Arctic ocean. The prohibition was declared "in view of the uncertainties in the military and political situation existing there."

Recruit Stretcher Bearers, British Hospitals Advised

LONDON, April 12 (AP).—The ministry of health advised hospitals today to recruit volunteer stretcher bearers for service in the event of air raids.

Miss Hurley Weds

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Dr. Henry Beall Gwynn and his bride, the former Miss Patricia Hurley.

Leesburg, Va., April 12 (AP).—Patricia Hurley, daughter of former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Mrs. Hurley, was married today to Dr. Henry Beall Gwynn of Washington, D. C. The ceremony took place at Belmont, the Hurleys' estate near here.

Only close friends and relatives attended the wedding. Afterward there was a reception for 400 guests. The wedding vows were pronounced by the Rev. Arthur J. O'Leary, president of Georgetown university. The young couple plan to live in Georgetown.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Gwynn Turnure of Washington, was matron of honor. Ruth Hurley came home from school in Arizona to be maid of honor for her sister. Another sister, Mary, was flower girl. The groom had as best man his brother, William C. Gwynn Jr.

JAPANESE EASE CURB ON SHIPPING IN PEARL RIVER

HONGKONG, April 12 (AP).—Japanese authorities today announced a restricted reopening of the Pearl river to general navigation by foreign vessels. The river has been closed since the Japanese captured Canton in October, 1938.

Restrictions accompanying the reopening of the river, which connects Canton with the outside via British Hongkong and Portuguese Macao, stipulate that navigation can be undertaken only in daylight, with Canton as the only port of call. Heretofore foreign use of the river had been limited to a round trip a week by one British and one Portuguese steamer.

The new arrangement bans the carrying of goods "prohibited on the grounds of strategical necessity" and the taking of photographs from vessels, and warns that the vessels are liable to be halted and examined by Japanese authorities. Travelers disturbing the peace and order will be liable to arrest.

RUMANIA HALTS LOADING OF RAIL CARS FOR NAZIS

Stiff German Demands Expected Soon.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 12 (AP).—Rumania tonight suspended the loading of freight cars for Germany. At the same time it was learned the loading of Danube oil barges had been stopped for several days. Foreign diplomats, pointing out the action might amount to a virtual embargo on exports to Germany expressed fear that the move would speed a crisis in German-Rumanian economic relations.

The suspension of freight car loadings, it was learned, followed presentation by Germany to Rumania of a long list of commodities on which the reich is placing a virtual embargo against shipment to Rumania.

General Staff Busy.

The cabinet's economic council, composed of the ministers of finance, internal and external commerce, will prepare a long list of Rumanian raw materials which will be embargoed as vital for the country's own use.

In informed quarters, it was said that the government is expecting to receive stiff demands from Germany within the next few days. Germany is expected to demand that Rumania demobilize in order to speed up work in factories and fields for Germany.

It is believed also in informed circles that Germany will demand that Rumania direct her exports almost wholly to the Nazis, thus cutting her trade with Britain and France.

Rejection Is Seen.

Sources close to the government say there now is little doubt that such demands will be turned down flatly by King Carol and his government. Dr. Karl Clodius, head of the German trade commission, presented to Rumanian officials a list of articles Germany will not send to Rumania in the future.

One item was metallurgical coke, vital to Rumania's own industry. This country normally obtains 30,000 tons annually from Germany and has asked 80,000 for the future.

The official explanation given for suspending oil barge loadings is that high water at Giurgiu made it impossible for the barges to connect with the loading racks. German trade quarters frankly branded the explanation as a "pretext."

RED CONSULATE IN TIENTSIN IS TO BE CLOSED

PEKING, China, April 12 (AP).—Soviet Russia will close her Tientsin consulate next Friday, informed soviet sources said today. It was added that this action probably represented Moscow's determination to have no diplomatic representation in areas controlled by the Japanese-sponsored government of occupied areas in China. Consulates at Shanghai and Kalgan already have been closed. Non-Russian observers believed the consular withdrawals might be connected with a stronger soviet policy toward Japan.

Finns Agree to Transfer of U.S. Hospital Unit to Norway

New York, April 12.—Finnish authorities have agreed that the American Scandinavian hospital unit, en route to Helsingfors, be transferred to Norwegian battlefronts, it was announced here today at headquarters of the Finnish relief fund. The decision was made, it said, because of lack of medical and surgical personnel in Norway.

PARIS BATTERIES BLAZE AT GERMAN SCOUTING PLANES

Reynaud Sees Envoys of Oslo, London, Vatican.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 12.—The French population was alert for every scrap of news from Scandinavia today and interest in the war was heightened by an early morning burst of gunfire from antiaircraft batteries defending Paris against German reconnaissance planes. The planes, which have been very active in the last few days, were said to have been attempting to make reconnaissance flights deep into France.

Authorities again today warned the public against accepting reports and rumors being circulated about the Scandinavian situation.

There was feverish activity in Paris' ministerial and diplomatic circles today.

Congratulates Norway's Envoy.

Premier Paul Reynaud congratulated the Norwegian minister, H. H. Bachke, on the Norwegians' firm resistance. Bachke told Reynaud that the Norwegian naval and military forces had been ordered to collaborate with the Franco-British forces. Reynaud also received the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Hugh Campbell, and the papal nuncio, Msgr. Valerio Valeri, today.

Meanwhile, this afternoon, while the British minister of supplies, Leslie Burgin, conferred with the French supply minister, Raoul Dautry, on coordinating war production here, Reynaud's new interministerial economic committee of the cabinet met. No announcement was made about its deliberations.

Another meeting of the inner war cabinet, the fourth in five days, was held tonight with Reynaud presiding. It is presumed the Scandinavian situation was discussed, but no communique was issued. Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander in chief of the French and British forces; Admiral Jean Darlan, commander of the French navy, and Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, French air chief, attended the council.

Norse Army's Delay Explained.

Military writers in the French press tonight said the situation in the interior of Norway is extremely confused and counseled calm in awaiting further developments along Norway's coast.

The military critic of the newspaper Le Temps pointed out that the Norwegian army was late in getting mobilized because of the German surprise move and that because of the country's terrain the position of the defenders is most difficult. On the other hand, he judged the German position also to be precarious because their forces are in seaports and cut off at the same time from the sea by the British fleet.

Guns Duel on 30 Mile Front.

PARIS, April 12 (AP).—Cannon roared along a 30 mile stretch of the French-German front today. The significance of the extensive artillery duel was not disclosed in the high command's evening communique. Scattered local actions heretofore have characterized the front fighting. Roughly, the fire extended from the Bitche region to Lauterbourg, between the Vosges mountains and the Rhine river. This is the Maginot "hinge."

CHARGES BRITISH TOOK OVER FAROE ISLES TO AID CABINET'S FLIGHT

BERLIN, April 12 (AP).—Discussing reports that Great Britain had occupied Denmark's Faroe Islands, an authoritative German commentator said today "the real purpose is to have a mid-Atlantic base to facilitate the flight of the British government to Canada."

Noting the effects this remark produced, the German added: "You smile, my good American friend, but some one in England is seeing the shadow of coming events."

The commentator asserted that it "would not be surprising if the British seize Iceland on the pretext that we want it—which we don't."

Russia Returns Captured Petsamo Region to Finland

MOSCOW, April 12 (AP).—Russia today handed back to Finland under treaty provisions the territory it had seized in the Petsamo section in the recent Russian-Finnish war. The district included the port of Liinahamari. Tass, the official soviet news agency, said representatives of the Finnish and Red armies signed papers declaring the Red army had restored the utility plants and stations in the area to "working condition."

Philippine Bill to Halve Immigration Near Passage

MANILA, P. I., April 12 (AP).—A new immigration bill, slashing annual quotas from 1,000 to 500, was passed on second reading today by the national assembly. The action virtually assured final approval. The 500 limitation would reduce drastically the number of Japanese and Chinese now entering the Philippines.

PRESIDENT EYES GREENLAND AND TALKS OF RELIEF

Advises American People to Learn About It.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—President Roosevelt at his press conference today admitted an absorbing interest in Danish owned Greenland, which was widely interpreted as indicating he intends to invoke the Monroe Doctrine should Germany attempt to seize the arctic land.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the question of guaranteeing the defense of the western hemisphere by invocation of the doctrine is premature. He insisted that he is interested in Greenland on a humanitarian rather than a political basis.

At the same time administration officials were studying the question of applying countervailing duties to imports from Denmark and Norway on the same basis that such penalties are imposed on imports from Germany.

The President said that he has discussed Greenland with many persons in the past few days. He would not comment on the related subject of the status of Iceland, saying he had not gone into the affairs of that island.

Considers All Factors.

Altho he declared German occupation of Greenland to be too hypothetical for discussion, he acknowledged that he was given serious consideration to all factors involved in the subject since Germany's invasion of Denmark.

Military experts have said that the island could be used as an air base for attacks against Canada and this country.

The President said it is a good thing for the American people to learn a great deal about Greenland—a subject to which they never had given much thought. Such consideration is all to the good, Mr. Roosevelt said.

During the last few days he has been reading encyclopedias and other works on Greenland, and has talked to geographers about the island's history. He said they generally agreed that Greenland's flora, fauna, and geology are more closely related to those of the North American continent than to those of Europe.

Supplied by Danish Ships.

In emphasizing his humanitarian interest in the island, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that about 17,000 people live there. Danish ships in the past regularly have made several trips a year with necessary supplies.

The President said that, at his suggestion, the American Red Cross is looking into the needs of Greenlanders. Emphasizing that any relief would not involve a large sum of money, he said that he believed the American people would be glad to help Greenlanders, should the regular Danish supply ships fail. He said the idea of Greenland relief was strictly his own and was prompted in no way by Danish representatives.

British Take Action.

The British embassy has suspended the issuance of navicerts for shipments to Norway, Sweden, Finland, Lithuania, Estonia, and Latvia until further notice. Navicerts are navigation certificates stating that British authorities have no objections to certain items of cargo going on to neutral destination.

Earlier today the embassy announced that all contraband goods consigned to or destined for Denmark would be detained or seized by the allies.

Interest Centers on Islands.

New York, April 12 (AP).—Now that geographies are being riffled open to the maps of Iceland and Greenland, as the result of European war developments, it may be recalled that Secretary of State Seward urged the purchase of both 72 years ago as a defense measure.

While he was negotiating the purchase of Alaska from Russia in 1867, Seward urged that Iceland and Greenland be bought from Denmark to assure the United States control of the north Atlantic.

The status of the islands is mixed up, too, with the Monroe doctrine.

Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the United States, developed in the 14th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica the theme that the Monroe Doctrine's political philosophy was applicable to the entire western hemisphere.

Both in This Hemisphere.

Geographers generally include both Iceland and Greenland in this hemisphere. President Monroe, author of the doctrine, spoke of "our hemisphere" as being synonymous with the "western hemisphere."

Although the concern of the United States over the political status of the islands is by no means new, interest has been heightened in recent years by surveys, one by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, to determine the feasibility of establishing air bases in those areas.

In a book published last year, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, related that an Icelandic Aviation company operated a local service with small, American-made planes summer and winter without trouble.

Points to Plane Service.

In "Iceland, the first American republic," Stefansson pointed out that planes in Iceland encountered less trouble with weather during the winter than those operating in the United States between New York and Boston, Washington and Cleveland.

Harbors on the south of Iceland are as ice-free, due to the influence of the gulf stream, as those of Baltimore or Philadelphia. Only in January do temperatures in southern Iceland go below freezing.

Greenland has an 84 per cent coverage of permanent ice, the explorer pointed out, but the remaining ice-free 16 per cent is bigger than the British Isles and can accommodate large airports.

Jessel Weds Today

George Jessel and his fiancee, Lois Andrew.

Detroit, April 12 (AP).—Comedian George Jessel, 43 years old, will take his third wife tomorrow.

The actor, about to complete a night club engagement here, announced today that he and 16 year old Lois Andrew, New York showgirl, would speak their vows in a hotel before a common pleas judge.

Last Monday in Probate court Jessel was refused a waiver of Michigan's law stipulating a five day interim between notice of intention to wed and the actual ceremony.

Common Pleas Judge Gerald W. Groat will perform the ceremony tomorrow. Jessel has been twice divorced, by Florence Courtney Jessel and Norma Talmadge, star of the silent screen.

CORPS OF 41,000 BEGINS TRAINING FOR WAR GAMES

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The war department announced today complete mobilization of 41,000 troops at Fort Benning, Ga., to start the nation's first field training of a full army corps.

Carrying field equipment, the force will take part in two weeks' preliminary maneuvers before the opening of war games in Louisiana and Texas next month.

Detailing plans for the field training ordered by President Roosevelt when the European war started, the war department said another army corps of about 25,000 men would start its concentration in east Texas on April 25.

The two forces will be pitted against each other in large scale mock warfare May 9 to 26, in a field army maneuver which the department said would mark the high point in the history of regular army training.

ITALY CLOAKS ITS NAVAL GAMES IN A 'SMOKE SCREEN'

Fleet Called to Assemble at Secret Base.

ROME, April 13, Saturday (AP).—Naval sources reported early today that the Italian fleet was gathering to start maneuvers Monday. The maneuvers were described as "regular spring exercises," but because of the war they were cloaked in unusual secrecy.

Concentration points were not disclosed, but there has been talk of preparations at Taranto, great seaport in southern Italy and other points for the annual maneuvers. It was assumed that naval reservists had been called to the colors for their usual training period. Some foreign circles said the government might be calling up several thousand men of various classes without mobilizing the full classes. Such a call would be considered normal precautionary procedure under war conditions.

Empires Failing, Says Press.

Fascist newspapers, reflecting governmental opinion, yesterday said the British and French air and naval offensive against the Germans holding Norway's coast could be considered a complete failure. The press reported the British-French forces were returning to their bases without having achieved any results.

Some newspapers, however, cautiously advised the Italian public to wait for more accurate news than has appeared in conflicting reports from the belligerents.

Premier Benito Mussolini's Popolo d'Italia said the Norwegian forces were so small and the terrain so broken they could only resist by guerilla warfare. The paper treated both the British and French with sarcasm.

German Navy Praised.

The newspapers also expressed the view that France and Britain had failed to cut Germany's lines of communication with her expeditionary force in Norway.

The official Italian news agency, Stefani, said the Franco-British air and naval offensive had "failed to reach 90 per cent of its objectives from North cape to the Skagerrak."

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper Il Telegrafo of Leghorn credited the Germany navy with "a most brilliant operation" in repulsing British destroyers at Narvik, northern Norwegian ore port.

Il Telegrafo conceded, however, that the British had not failed to score successes. "The figures they give on losses of the German navy appear truly considerable," the newspaper said. "Particularly striking, if confirmed, was the loss of 12 transports loaded with troops said to have been sunk in the Skagerrak."

SCOTTISH HOME RULE CANDIDATE LOSES BID FOR SEAT IN COMMONS

LONDON, April 12.—Scottish home rulers, or Scottish Nationalists as they are officially called, put up a strong fight against a government Conservative in an Argyll parliamentary by-election today.

While the political truce prevented the Liberals and Laborites from participating, William Power, a journalist, mustered 7,308 votes against the 12,317 given his Conservative opponent, Maj. Duncan McCallum, who had obtained leave from the army in Egypt to fight for the seat.

Sir Ian Fraser, blind chairman of St. Dunstan's home for the war blinded, was returned to parliament as a Conservative for the Lonsdale Lancashire. A member of parliament for 12 years, he resigned in 1936 when appointed governor of the British Broadcasting corporation.

HITLER'S DEFEAT IS CERTAIN, SAYS FRANCE'S ENVOY

Speaks Before Council on Foreign Relations.

Sudden and rapid conquests are precarious for aggressor nations, Count Rene de St. Quentin, French ambassador to the United States, said last night before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House.

The ambassador predicted defeat for Hitler in the European war. "The loss of economic substance which increasing armaments have imposed upon him for several years will not be compensated thru the occupation of new territories," he said. France and Britain, on the other hand, are equipped to meet prevailing war conditions, the envoy asserted.

Calls French Economy Sound.

"French economy remains sound," he said. "Our budget for nonmilitary expenditures, which also comprises certain emergency credits required by war, such as allocations to the families of men under arms and to evacuees, is only 15 per cent in excess of the regular budget for the preceding year.

"The budget for war expenditures is covered by loans, the floating of which has been facilitated by restrictions on consumption, which naturally affected to a considerable degree products imported from abroad."

Stressing the hazards of predicting the political bases of peace, St. Quentin warned, "It is easier to foresee the economic conditions of the peace, or rather to indicate certain errors which should not be committed."

Warns of Possible Error.

"The first of these errors," he said, "undoubtedly would be to seek to exercise political pressure thru the economic clauses of the treaty, for the poverty of some only makes for the poverty of all, and, as your own statesmen have said so well, the prosperity of all nations can be assured only by commercial exchanges based on equality and reciprocity."

The ambassador said he looked forward to the day when the medium of gold would be used as a common standard for all national currencies as an immunization against autarchy and the barter system, which, he stated, were "destroyers of all economic and political liberty."

In commenting upon the place of the United States in present world conditions, he said, "As the greatest country in the world, the United States is affected by the storms raging over other continents, and its attitude, whatever it may be, either passive or active, has its repercussion on the fate of other countries."

COURT, TO RULE ON ATTACK ON JURY PANEL ACT

New York, April 12 (AP).—An attack on the constitutionality of New York's special jury panel law which has delayed the criminal libel trial of Clarence Hathaway, editor of the communist Daily Worker, was taken under advisement today by General Sessions Judge John J. Freschi. A decision will be handed down Monday, when the case is scheduled to be resumed, the judge announced.

Hathaway, the Compro Daily Publishing company, publishers of the Daily Worker, and Hyman Colodny, former circulation manager, were indicted in connection with charges brought against them by Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the Minneapolis editor, Walter Liggett, who was slain in 1935. Mrs. Liggett charged that a series of articles in the paper reflected discredit on herself and her husband.

Judge Freschi declared the act had been held constitutional by the Court of Appeals and asserted: "It appears to me that the only question left to my discretion is whether these prospective jurors were selected in a manner following the rules laid down by the legislative act."

NAVY ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT OF ADMIRAL MURFIN

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The forthcoming retirement of Rear Admiral Orin G. Murfin, former commander of the Asiatic fleet, was announced today by the navy.

Murfin was relieved yesterday as commandant of the fourteenth naval district and the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, base by Rear Admiral Claude C. Bloch, recent commander of the United States fleet.

Secretary Charles Edison voiced the navy's commendation in issuing orders for Murfin's retirement on May 1, after 47 years service. He reaches the statutory age limit of 64 tomorrow.

Murfin won the Distinguished Service medal for his world war service as commander of the American mine bases in Scotland. He is a native of Ohio Furnace, O.

French Call Home Citizens in South America for Army

BUENOS AIRES, April 12.—It was learned today that all Frenchmen between the ages of 20 to 40 residing in South American countries have been called home for mobilization. The first contingent will be disembarked at Dakar, Africa. It is presumed they eventually will go to Syria and other French mandated territories formerly belonging to Germany.

LEADERS CONFER WITH PRESIDENT ON NAVAL PLANS

Proposals Heard to Await War Tests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—With the American navy growing steadily stronger in comparison as the war takes toll of belligerent fleets, opinion in the capital was sharply divided today as to whether this country should press forward with its expansion naval program.

President Roosevelt is considering asking congress for an extra appropriation to speed expansion of the fleet. This was reported by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, and Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, who conferred with the chief executive.

Practical Test in Progress.

On Capitol hill Senator Alva Adams [D., Colo.], speaking for the opposition, urged a curtailment of American battleship building until the European war establishes whether or not the vessels can withstand intensive bombing.

Senator Adams argued that the battleship versus bomber question was in the process of being settled by such naval engagements as the current one in Scandinavian waters and said the United States should wait for "all the answers."

"It seems to me," he said, "that we are having the value of battleships tested today at other people's expenses. Why should we go ahead and authorize the expenditure of millions of dollars until we find out whether the battleship as we know it is going to become obsolete?"

Reviews Expansion Program.

The President reviewed the expansion program during a lengthy conference with the committee chairman which also was attended by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

It was said that the President found no objection to the cut made by congress of more than 123 million dollars from the bill.

Walsh and Vinson said that Mr. Roosevelt approved both the $963,797,478 naval appropriations bill for the coming year and the naval expansion authorization measure which provides for an 11 per cent increase in the fleet to be built over a four year period. This is a record peace time navy expenditure even tho it is less than Mr. Roosevelt requested.

The expansion bill envisages construction of 63 ships—cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, submarines, and fleet auxiliaries—for a total of 167,000 tons.

TRIBUNE LIBRARY LENDS WINGS TO HUNT FOR FACTS

Marshals Its Facilities to Keep Pace with News.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The scientific search for knowledge ordinarily is a long, laborious process, but if a deadline is set upon the search the process can be accelerated.

This, dogmatic as it may sound, has been proved by THE TRIBUNE. It has been done by taking into consideration the fact that if the seeker after knowledge is to act quickly, information or the facilities for acquiring information must be accessible and well organized. THE TRIBUNE has supplied these attributes in its library, a three-in-one library unparalleled in any newspaper plant.

News Library Demands Speed.

A newspaper library does not face the same exigencies as an ordinary library. Its governing word is speed. Its open sesame is the phrase, "We'll find it."

One division of The Tribune library, the general library on the 24th, 25th, and 26th floors of Tribune Tower, alone undertook and completed 75,000 pieces of special research in 1939. In none was there time for delay or academic deliberation. The assembling of facts had to be as rapid as the flash of events. It was.

An illustration of this—one illustration out of 75,000—arose on May 23, 1939, the day the submarine Squalus sank off the coast of New Hampshire. Its sinking presumably was due to the faulty operation of the induction valve, but the submarine was newly commissioned. Where was that induction valve? What would a cross section of the submarine show?

How Information Is Gathered.

These questions were posed to Miss Mildred Burke, librarian of The Tribune general library since 1923. She amassed books on submarines, encyclopedias, pamphlets, magazines, and the proceedings of the United States Naval institute. She telephoned the Chicago public library, the Armour institute library, and the Great Lakes Naval Training school library. Telegrams were sent to the British Library of Information in New York and the War college library in Washington.

The following morning THE TRIBUNE printed on its back page two submarine diagrams which 300 other newspapers later reproduced.

Yet this is only one of 75,000 instances. In 1939! And 1940, in turn, is proceeding at an even faster pace, at blitzkreig pace. As fluid, as fiery, as is the churn of daily events, so must be the readiness of background information.

Library Has Three Departments.

The Tribune library is divided into three distinct departments. One is the general library. The second is the James O'Donnell Bennett library of belles lettres. The third is the reference room, known in the trade as "the morgue," or repository of news clippings, pictures, and cuts.

The reference department is adjacent to the news department on the fourth floor of Tribune Tower, in the center of the newspaper's pulsating birth. Its room is two stories high and contains 262 steel files.

In these files are more than 10,000,000 clippings, 3,000,000 pictures with 500,000 cross references, 250,000 negatives, 100,000 engravings, and 5,900 advance obituaries of persons of prominence. Clippings on any person, object, or event can be produced at a moment's notice, each stamped with the date of its appearance.

In addition the morgue contains 2,000 pamphlets, 2,000 memoranda, 500 reference books, and an extensive supply of maps.

500 Questions Answered Daily.

Is it useful? It seems to be. A staff of 10 answers 500 calls for information a day, some by telephone, the others from various departments of THE TRIBUNE.

The morgue system has been in use for approximately 30 years, but the general library was not organized until 1921. It started with an assortment of 2,000 books. Now it contains 20,000 books, 10,000 bound volumes of THE TRIBUNE dating back to 1857, and other newspaper files, and close to 1,000,000 pamphlets, government records, and surveys. Approximately 400 magazines come into it each month. These, too, are filed.

Practically all the research tools that are to be found in the Congressional library are available for use here. These include magazine indexes, the industrial art index, agricultural index, public affairs information service, six standard encyclopedias, the Statesman's year book, dictionaries, histories, and standard works in economics, science, the arts, and other important fields.

Legislative Library Complete.

There is a fine legislative library, as well. This contains all senate and house bills and records of hearings, all governmental bulletins and advance reports, the Congressional Record, and all Illinois legislation. The Tribune library is the only place in the middle west, according to Miss Burke, where these records may be consulted.

The library's 1,000,000 reports and surveys supplement the news clippings filed in the morgue as sources of information. These may be on such widely assorted subjects as Polish railroads [before Hitler], how to ward off June beetles, or Neville Chamberlain's speech of Feb. 24 on "Britain's Peace Aims," which was received a day or so ago.

Everything is organized with a view to the obtaining of exact and accurate information quickly. A special, unique cataloging system has been devised. More cataloging is done than in the ordinary library, and more special tools are available here, Miss Burke believes, than in any other library.

These two branches of the Tribune libraries are operated in line with what the late Harry F. Harrington, dean of the Medill school of journalism at Northwestern university, once said of the newspaper worker: "He must have the ability to obtain accurate information and the industry to interpret it and record it within constantly shrinking periods of time."

Bennett Branch for Leisure.

The third branch, the James O'Donnell Bennett library, will hinge on leisure rather than shrinking time. It contains the 7,000 volume library of much loved books of Mr. Bennett, distinguished reporter for THE TRIBUNE, who died on Feb. 27. It will be dedicated on May 1, the anniversary of his birth 70 years ago.

The collection is one of belles lettres, especially rich in drama, history, 18th century literature, and literary biography. Each book bears the inscription, "Read diligently the great books of mankind." Those great books, many in fine, rare editions, are in the Bennett library.

THE TRIBUNE'S writers and artists might benefit, Mr. Bennett contended, thru the assimilation or gleaning of some of the wealth of knowledge contained in his books. Journalism, he contended, would benefit with them. "Why," he asked, "should THE TRIBUNE not be in its own school of journalism?" With this in mind he gave and endowed the library.

A fourth branch of the Tribune libraries, not yet in general use, is the Robert M. Lee library. This contains about 500 volumes from the library of Mr. Lee, former managing editor of THE TRIBUNE, who died on Jan. 8, 1939. Most of them are biography or history.

Funeral Held in Tokio for American Correspondent

FATHER CHARGES REDS KILLED U. S. YOUTHS IN SPAIN

Dies Told Communists Feared Exposure.

Washington, D. C., April 12 [Special].—Charges that American youths in the Spanish loyalist army were killed by communists so that they could not return home and tell the truth of communist activities in Spain were made today in testimony before the Dies committee.

One witness after another told of brutality, privation, and death suffered by Americans who joined the Abraham Lincoln brigade.

A father testified his son was slain in Spain and that he learned a group of boys were killed at a camp near Barcelona. The shooting of two members of the American brigade by one of their officers was related by a recruit who said he witnessed the slayings in a Barcelona café.

Recruiting Agency Sought.

The Dies committee is seeking to learn whether the communist party was responsible for recruiting Americans. A witness testified that the Lincoln brigade was under control of the communist international.

Maxwell Wallach, a Detroit lawyer, said his son, Albert, was slain in Spain and that he understood the killer was Tony Demaio of Hartford, Conn., an officer of the brigade. Demaio was a witness at today's hearing.

Wallach said his son went to Spain in February, 1937, after the "international workers' order" in New York had given him $3,000 which he and another man were to use to "pay the expenses of the boys."

He last heard from his son in July, 1937, Wallach testified. Upon investigation, he said, he learned from some of Albert's friends in Spain that a group of boys had been killed near Barcelona.

Slain to Seal Their Lips.

"It was because it was known that efforts were being made in their behalf," Wallach said. "They thought it would be better to kill them than let them come back and let Americans know what the communists really were doing in Spain."

The witness said that at his request the state department tried to locate his son and finally advised him in March, 1938, that Albert had been sent out of Spain.

"But he never showed up," the distraught father testified. "I then asked the attorney general to have the men responsible for the killing of my son brought to justice here."

Wallach said the then attorney general, Frank Murphy, obtained the indictment of 17 communists in Detroit in connection with recruiting. The indictments were later dismissed.

Tells of Seeing Two Slain.

William C. McCuistion of Frederick, Md., a member of the Lincoln brigade, told of seeing two of his brigade members shot to death by Demaio in a Barcelona café on May 2, 1938. The men killed, he said, were an American named Matthews who traveled under the name of Aronofsky, and a Canadian named Moran.

McCuistion, a seaman, said he walked into the café just as the shooting took place. He said he believed it followed the victims' resistance to Demaio's attempt to arrest them. The brigade officer was rounding up stragglers at the time because many were trying to desert, the witness testified.

Earlier, Demaio took the stand and, in response to questions, said he never had heard of the two men in question.

Trip Financed by Reds.

John Honeycombe, who said he was a Los Angeles communist, testified that the communist party financed his trip to Spain to fight in the civil war. He told of being arrested without charge and, along with 22 other American prisoners, taken to the battle lines under guard and without arms.

Honeycombe said that while he was in Spain, Earl Browder, American communist leader, spoke to a group of Americans there and told them they were expected to stay until the end of the war.

"He came back to America shortly after that didn't he?" asked Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.]

"And how!" Honeycombe replied. "And there were a lot of men who would have liked to have gone with him."

tractors charged Carrozzo had a strangle hold on the industry. They said he refused to permit use of concrete which is mixed at mixing plants and conveyed by truck to the jobs. He is expected to be called before a federal grand jury on that matter early next month.

After the recent mysterious death of F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, who had charge of road construction, it was recalled that he was summoned to Chicago last fall for a conference with Leo F. Tierney, special assistant attorney general in charge of the building industry probe. It was known also that Smith had held many conferences with Carrozzo on the subject of concrete for state roads.

The government now is reported to be investigating Carrozzo's income tax payments. It has been reported that one phase of the investigation concerns his purchase of a 900 acre farm in Lake and Porter counties in Indiana. The farm, which is said to have cost $100,000, produces no income, according to federal officials.

Seaman Slain in Street; Union Dispute Blamed

Mobile, Ala., April 12 [Special].—Henry Hassel, boatswain's mate on the tanker Dilwyn, repairing here, was found beaten to death on a river front street today. Police rounded up six men and six women in a tavern and County Prosecutor Bart B. Chamberlain said there was sufficient evidence to warrant murder charges against three of them. Union labor troubles were blamed for the killing.

7 LABOR GOONS ARE KNOWN, HAT CONCERN INSISTS

Pledges to Bring Sluggers of Five to Justice.

Attorney Harold M. Keele, counsel for the American Needle and Novelty company, where a strike has been in progress since April 3, said last night that the identity of seven labor goons who attacked five workers Tuesday is known. These workers and others have been threatened with further reprisals if they confirm the identifications or returned to their jobs, Keele charged.

Seven men, named by the company as the goons, were taken into custody Thursday by the Shakespeare avenue police. They were released, however, when two employés who signed assault and battery warrants against them were unable or refused to make identification. This left the state's attorney's office and the police baffled. The revelation that the employés had been threatened helped clear the situation.

Tells of Victims' Affidavits.

"The company is determined to protect and assist its employés," Mr. Keele asserted. "We have affidavits from the victims, naming the sluggers and detailing the circumstances, but we have been unable to contact the victims since the affidavits were made Tuesday night. But we will find other eyewitnesses and have the sluggers brought to justice.

"Another employé, Julius Litowsky, received several telephone threats that his home would be wrecked if he returned to the plant. Various girls still at work have received daily telephone warnings."

The company, which manufactures hats, is at 2331 North Washtenaw avenue. Most of the 150 employés are striking on an order issued by the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Employés Attacked.

On Tuesday three employés—Walter Bubak, 3738 Belmont avenue; Frank La Beck, 2724 Prindiville street, and Frank Nowakowski—left the plant. Five sluggers were waiting outside and attacked La Beck and Nowakowski. Bubak ran into the Fox Photographic studio at 2746 Fullerton avenue.

Miss Marcy Minz, 19 years old, 4858 North Talman avenue, an employé in the studio, attempted to shield Bubak. But the goons twisted her arms and pushed her aside to attack Bubak.

The same day three other terrorists followed a truck load of the company's products. They curbed the truck at Ashland and Carroll avenues and beat James Lawrence, an independent owner, living at 2537 Cortland street, and his driver, Edward Radke.

Eight Warrants Issued.

On Wednesday Judge N. J. Bonelli of Municipal court issued eight warrants, five of them on La Beck's complaint and the other three on Lawrence's complaint. One of Lawrence's warrants named Sam Woloshin, 3637½ Dickens avenue, a former employé. The other seven were John Doe warrants.

On Wednesday Judge John C. Lewe in Superior court issued an injunction restraining the union from violence and mass picketing at the plant.

When the men picked up on the John Doe warrants were taken to the Shakespeare avenue station Thursday, neither La Beck, Bubak, nor Lawrence could or would identify them. Bubak and La Beck said they would not have gone to work at the plant had they known a strike was on.

Woloshin was arrested and arraigned in the Shakespeare avenue court Thursday. The hearing was continued to April 18 when Lawrence did not appear to prosecute, and Woloshin was released on $25 bond.

Oklahoma Judge Frees Illinois Parole Violator

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 12 [Special].—Winifred Phillips, 30 years old, need not return to the Illinois state prison at Menard for violation of parole. He was freed on a writ of habeas corpus today by District Judge Ben Arnold. Phillips was paroled from Menard in 1932 after he had served two years on a burglary sentence. He soon afterward came to Oklahoma City, thereby violating his parole by leaving the state. Since then he has worked steadily in a factory, has married, and become the father of three children. Witnesses testified today that Phillips has been a respectable citizen. Judge Arnold held that the Illinois parole board had failed within "sufficient time to show cause for his further detention."

Gets 10 Years in Prison for Stealing 119 Pennies

Creston, Ia., April 12 [Special].—Mark Wallace Martin, 51, Wilkesbarre, Penn., today was given a ten year indeterminate sentence in Fort Madison state penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to the theft of 119 pennies from a Creston taven yesterday.

WOMAN, 66; KILLS HERSELF.

Mrs. Claudia Gorgin, 66 years old, shot and killed herself in her home at 4638 Lake Park avenue yesterday with a revolver belonging to her husband, Byron Gorgin, a city electrician. She had been ill for several months.

Nature's Caricature

Odd pine formation found in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12 [Special].—Earl Richardson has found near Big Bear lake a pine formation, all in one piece, which resembles a caricature of a bent old man walking with a cane. Some persons who have observed the formation assert that it is a better figure of a monkey. It all depends on the beholder's imagination.

SHOOTING VICTIM DIES IN HOSPITAL; HOLD POLITICIAN

Precinct Captain Denies Part in Crime.

A Democratic precinct captain of the 14th ward was held by the New City police last night in the investigation of the mysterious fatal shooting of Vincent Sniegowski, a tavern owner, during an attempted holdup last Tuesday evening.

The precinct captain is James Keska, 43 years old, of 4805 Justine street. He was held without charge from Tuesday night until yesterday morning. Then, to thwart habeas corpus proceedings for his release, he was booked. He was charged with being an accessory before and after the fact of assault.

Sniegowski died last night in the Holy Cross hospital. Sergt. James Lynch said the word "assault" would be replaced by "murder" in the accessory charge.

Denies Knowledge of Crime.

Keska has denied any knowledge of the shooting. Denials also have come from another man arrested Tuesday night as a possible suspect. He is Matt Czerski, 26, of 4849 Justine street. He has been booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Lieut. John Lennon said he thought the holdup and shooting were the work of two hoodlums, but was convinced Keska and Czerski had some clews to their identity they were refusing to divulge.

Sniegowski was 48 years old. He had his tavern and living quarters at 4859 Bishop street. Tuesday evening about 7:30 he left the tavern to go to a neighborhood building and loan association office to deposit several checks. On 49th street between Bishop and Laflin streets he was held up by two bandits and dragged into an alley.

Sniegowski, a former blacksmith with a powerful build, battled his assailants and was getting the best of them when one of the bandits drew a gun and fired. The bullet struck Sniegowski in the right side and passed thru his stomach. The holdup men fled without attempting to rob him.

Arrested Soon After Shooting.

A police squad composed of Arvid Essen, Otto Katelhut, and Norman Ade arrested Keska a few minutes later half a block from the scene of the shooting. Czerski was arrested in the street near Keska's home. A petition for a habeas corpus writ in Keska's behalf was dismissed by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court when the prisoner was booked.

Police said they had kept Keska's arrest quiet in order that they could conduct their investigation in secrecy. The arrest was first revealed Thursday night. The gun used in the shooting has not been found.

Sniegowski was married and the father of two children. He was given three blood transfusions after removal of the bullet Tuesday night. His condition had seemed favorable until peritonitis developed and caused his death.

GAMBLER TROUPE AGAIN IS FEATURE AT COURTHOUSE

Bookie Steals the Show; Judge Rebukes Him.

Leading lights in the Chicago gambling racket clumped thru the marble corridors of the United States courthouse again yesterday. They visited three courtrooms before they were excused for the day.

A week ago 12 of them, including William Johnson, alleged syndicate head, and William Skidmore, reputed to be his political go-between, were arraigned before Judge John P. Barnes on a charge of aiding Johnson in the evasion of $1,877,664 in income taxes. They all pleaded not guilty. Yesterday the whole party was back again and heard the court announce that the trial will start Aug. 27.

Bookie Steals the Show.

Yesterday's show was stolen from the headliners by Frank [Chew Tobacco] Ryan, an old syndicate standby who has operated handbooks in the loop for 30 years. Ryan was haled before Judge James H. Wilkerson, and accused of being an obstructive and contumacious witness before the grand jury.

Ryan, operator of the 400 club at 29 West Randolph street, was called as a witness before the jury which for the last two months has been investigating the bootlegging of race results to handbooks. He was asked to tell where he has been getting racing information since the dissolution of the Nationwide News Service.

His reply, according to the charges, was that he does not know and cannot remember the name of any one from whom he has gotten the results recently. This testimony was described by Samuel Klaus, assistant United States attorney, who is conducting the inquiry, as palpably false.

Profit $15,000 a Year.

Ryan's partners, according to the government, are Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin and Harry [Greasy Thumb] Guzick, both members of the old Capone gang.

The 400 club represents an investment of $25,000, the jury's presentment stated, and yields an annual profit of from $15,000 to $18,000. The charges also told of "sneak joints" which are used whenever the regular place of business is closed by police.

"Do you mean to tell me you can't remember the names of any of these people you did business with?" Judge Wilkerson asked Ryan.

"Naw—there were a lot of them," Ryan replied.

"I don't believe you," said the court shortly. "Now, you go back and give this information."

Ordered Back Next Week.

Ryan was excused for the day after the hearing but was ordered to come back next week for another grand jury appearance. If he continues to refuse to answer the questions he may be cited for contempt of court.

In the afternoon, William Goldstein, Skidmore's personal attorney, was brought before Judge Charles E. Woodward on a contempt citation growing out of allegedly false grand jury testimony in the gambling quiz.

His co-defendant in this case is Stuart S. Brown, operator of a currency exchange which served as financial clearing house for the syndicate. Brown is accused of giving the false testimony; Goldstein is charged with planting evidence to support Brown's testimony. Judge Woodward set May 15 for arguments on the case.

PRESIDENT CUTS U. S. SENTENCE GIVEN CHAPERAU

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The justice department announced today that President Roosevelt had commuted the sentence of Albert Chaperau, convicted of smuggling, to the time he already has served in the federal house of detention in New York City.

Chaperau testified for the government in the cases of George Burns and Jack Benny, radio entertainers, Mrs. Edgar Lauer, wife of a former New York state Supreme court justice, and others indicted for customs laws violations in connection with the entry of jewelry into the United States from Europe.

Benny paid a $10,000 fine; Burns, $8,000, and Mrs. Lauer served a three month jail term. It was said that Chaperau's sentence was commuted because of the assistance he gave the federal government in prosecuting the cases.

Arrested in October, 1938, he was sentenced to serve five years in a federal prison and fined $5,000. In April, 1939, the Southern New York Federal District court reduced the sentence to 17 months and 15 days. He was due to have been released June 11 of this year.

SLAYER OF WIDOW WHO BEFRIENDED HIM IS GIVEN LIFE

Wabash, Ind., April 12 (AP).—Frank E. Potts, 18 years old, itinerant from Catawba, S. C., pleaded guilty today to a first degree murder charge in the slaying of Mrs. Florence Potter, 68, Warsaw, Ind., widow, who befriended him. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Potter was found beaten to death in her home last Oct. 13, a rock and spake near the body. Potts was arrested last Nov. 4 at Atchison, Kas. Jacob Koontz, prosecutor at Warsaw, said he confessed he set upon Mrs. Potter as she prepared food for him and raped, robbed, and slew her.

State's attorneys asked Judge Byron Kennedy to impose the death penalty, but after questioning the youth the judge said he would take into consideration the fact the slayer was "an immature boy." Judge Kennedy explained the youth would be eligible to parole after 15 years, but added that during his lifetime he would oppose a parole.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 4, PAL FLEE M'NEIL ISLAND

Cretzer and Kyle Seize Truck, Speed Away.

Tacoma, Wash., April 12 [Special].—Two desperate convicts, one of whom once was rated Public Enemy No. 4, made a daring escape from the supposedly impregnable federal penitentiary on McNeil island, late yesterday. News of their flight was not revealed until today. Tonight, they are being sought along the brush covered reaches of lower Puget sound.

The fugitives are Joseph Paul Cretzer, 28 years old, the former highly rated public enemy, and his brother-in-law, Arnold Thomas Kyle, 29. Cretzer was seized in a Chicago apartment last August after a cross-country pursuit. They were serving 25 year terms for bank robbery.

Swift Operating Plot.

Cretzer and Kyle's escape was the result of a careful and swift operating plot. A truck driver was their unwitting dupe. The driver drove into the prison yard to pick up a load of lumber. Kyle was assigned to help load it. Cretzer was assigned to the prison laundry.

At a prearranged signal, Cretzer left the laundry, walked thru the machine shops, and picked up a long awl. Then he met Kyle. The two men quickly strode to the truck driver, menaced him with the awl, and jumped aboard the truck.

They put the truck driver out, then drove to the prison gate. Presumably the gate was open. The gate guard stepped forward to examine the truck and the two men aboard, but Cretzer and Kyle didn't wait. They speeded up the truck, and drove thru the gate. Five shots were fired at them by the guard, but all missed.

Fultives Abandon Truck.

When a general alarm was sounded they abandoned their truck, and fled on foot. Complete escape was barred for the time being by a 400 yard stretch of icy water, separating the island from the Olympic peninsula.

Warden E. B. Swope said he doubted Cretzer and Kyle had yet crossed the water. It was too frigid and too rough for even good swimmers, he said. Authorities doubted that a boat with friends would have been waiting. The waters around the island are closely patroled. However, no trace of the fugitives had been found late tonight.

Cretzer and Kyle were dubbed the leading bank robbery team in the country. During the five years preceding their arrest they committed at least eight major bank holdups—two in Portland, Ore.; one in Seattle, Wash., and five in California. Their loot amounted to $40,000. They were sentenced for the holdup of the Bank of American in Los Angeles in 1938.

CAPTURED IN CHICAGO.

Cretzer, accompanied by his wife, Edna Mae, for two years kept a step ahead of pursuing federal agents. Their flight took them into the Chicago area, and finally into Chicago.

On Aug. 28 last, a squad of federal men broke into an apartment at 3662 Pine Grove avenue, and arrested the Cretzers. Cretzer was armed, but made no effort to use the gun.

For a time they were suspected of the shooting of Policeman James Cowgill of Michigan City, Ind., but were cleared when Cowgill failed to identify them. His assailant later was seized in Missouri. The Cretzers soon afterward were sent to California where he was tried with Kyle, who had been arrested earlier in Minneapolis, Minn.

PRESS MANHUNT FOR 2 FUGITIVES FROM BRIDEWELL

Police continued their search yesterday for two young prisoners who escaped Thursday from the Bridewell after tricking and assaulting a tower guard. The fugitives are Walter Noble, 21 years old, and James McDowell, who were serving one year terms. Noble was sentenced on a charge of larceny and McDowell was sentenced on a charge of tampering with an auto.

Edward Denemark, superintendent of the Bridewell, said his investigation of the escape would not be completed until today. The guard who was beaten into unconsciousness is Robert De Salvia, 40 years old. He had been employed in that capacity for 15 years.

Armed with a hammer stolen from the woodworking shop, the prisoners tricked De Salvia into letting one of them climb the ladder to the guard tower, on the pretext they had a note for him.

2 Doomed Police Killers Appeal to Supreme Court

Edward Riley and Orville Watson, who are under death sentence for the murder a year ago of Policeman Alex Ferguson, appealed yesterday to the Illinois Supreme court for a rehearing on their case. On Wednesday the Supreme court upheld their conviction and set June 14 for their execution.

SEIZED FOR FIRING GUN IN YARD.

Henry Arndt, 49 years old, was seized by Policeman Ted Rosdahl of the Albany Park station early yesterday for repeatedly firing a revolver in the air in front of his home at 4642 Kennicott avenue. He was held for investigation.

HE'S NOT BEAUTIFUL . . . BUT—

By CALEB

HE'S NOT a beautiful beast at all. Rather, for downright homeliness he has but one rival—the giraffe. Technically, he hails from the Orient and is "a large ruminating ungulate, having one or two fatty humps on back, long neck with large head, relatively small ears; broad padded feet with toes slightly separated." He also has a cousin down in South America, smaller and minus any hump.

I see you've guessed . . . and you're right. But while we know that the camel is famed as the world's best desert-transport animal—that the Arabian breed of him has only one hump, is often called the dromedary, and is domesticated from Africa up through India—also that the Bactrian type has two humps and is found from Crimea and Turkestan to Peiping—the real "news" about him, from our own point of view, is that experts consider his hair ideal for men's topcoats!

In fact, on the fourth floor of our Store for Men you can see a fine specimen of this Bactrian species, immortalized by taxidermy. He is well worth anybody's five-minute scrutiny, because of that luxuriantly deep, soft coat of his, which Field's is now featuring exclusively for the timely Spring ownership of "men in the know."

Thanks to Nature, the camel's skin furnishes a pigment of its own for the coloring of these coats. Dyeing by the manufacturer is unnecessary. After he sheds his cover, the natives comb it with a vegetable burr and the finest of the hair is carefully sorted out for use in blankets and clothing. The remainder is then used for the making of carpets and belting. The wind-and-weather protection man is thus enabled to "borrow," as it were, from this humpbacked roamer of the steppes has elements of excellence that are without substitute.

During the first World War, famous fighting units in Palestine were the Camel Corps of the British, Australian and New Zealand forces—and still a landmark in history is the "Day of the Camels," November 4th in the year 656, when Mohammed's widow, Ayesha, saw from camelback the defeat in battle of her Arab chieftain allies by the camel-riding troops of the Caliph Ali.

It's a fascinating story—this of the "large ruminating ungulate" whose ancestors ambled the sands long before the Pharaohs' reign or the Pyramids' rise. But for the wayfarer in Springtime's breezes, uncomfortably conscious that they still carry the bite of Winter, it has also its practical side—not without an appeal even more interesting.

U. S. CUSTODIAN MAKES FARMING A GOING THING

Buildings, in Fact, Nearly Gone, Says Owner.

Three years ago the government took possession of the 151 acre farm of John Jursich and his daughter, near Woodstock in McHenry county, after federal agents found a still in a barn there.

The government acted on the theory that property put to unlawful use is subject to seizure. It was awarded the farm by a jury in federal District court. Jursich appealed, saying he had leased the farm to a stranger and was unaware of the existence of the still. Jursich was indicted after the raid on the still, was convicted of conspiracy in its operation, and was placed on probation.

Appeal Upsets Seizure.

Several months later the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the seizure ruling and ordered the case retried. The appellate court held the government could seize the still and the property used for distilling purposes, but could not take possesion of the entire farm.

The government's experience as a farmer was brought to light yesterday when the case was placed before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan in a hearing to determine what part of the farm the government can possess.

It was disclosed that Edward Duffy, 6814 Peoria street, who was placed in charge of the farm as custodian by United States Marshal William McDonnell, received approximately $5,400 at the rate of $5 a day [Sundays and holidays excluded] from the time he took over in 1937 until he was removed last March 1.

Moves Bride to Farm.

Jursich charged that Duffy liked his job so well that he married and moved with his bride to the farmhouse on the property. Jursich said Duffy kept six vicious dogs which destroyed and ate three calves, one sheep, and a cow belonging to a neighbor.

In addition Jursich charged that the government had permitted his farm buildings to deteriorate and his land to lie waste. It was on Jursich's petition that Duffy was removed and a new tenant was found for the farm. Instead of being paid by the government, the new tenant agreed to guard and cultivate the property and pay a rental of $250 a year.

Marshal McDonnell denied the charges in a reply filed with Judge Sullivan. He particularly opposed the suggestion of Jursich's attorneys that Jursich be given the job as custodian of the farm. McDonnell said Duffy was appointed custodian under instructions of the court. He said the government had saved $5,000 thru Duffy's willingness to live on the farm instead of staying there only eight hours a day.

Statute Provides for Seizure.

The government's action in seizing the property was based on an internal revenue act which provides for forfeiture of property on which the owner knowingly permits a still to be operated.

The statute permits the government to seize the "lot or tract of land on which such distillery is situated." Government attorneys contended this made the whole farm subject to seizure.

The appeals court, however, declared that such literal construction of the language of the statute would lead to unreasonable consequences. The court ordered the government to show how much of the property actually was used for the illegal distilling.

SENATOR TRUMAN OF MISSOURI WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

Kansas City, Mo., April 12 (AP).—Senator Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] asserted in a locally broadcast radio address tonight that President Roosevelt had "expressed the hope that I would come back to the senate next year." He added: "I am in the race to stay."

Truman said he had intended to delay a formal announcement of his candidacy for reëlection until congress adjourned "but so many rumors have been circulated regarding my future intentions that my interests and those of my friends must be protected by a statement of my position."

He apparently referred to previously denied reports that he might withdraw and leave the Democratic primary field to Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and Maurice M. Milligan, prosecutor of the Pendergast gang at Kansas City, who resigned last week as United States attorney.

SCRAP 1933 POLICE PROMOTION LIST; ORDER NEW EXAM

The civil service commission yesterday ordered cancellation of the promotional list of police sergeants eligible to lieutenancies and announced that a new examination will be held in the near futur

There were 61 names remaining on the list of sergeants who qualified thru the examination held on July 26, 1933. The list was posted Oct. 16, 1935, and according to law could have been discarded and a new examination ordered after two years.

Of the 197 me. on the list, 136 have been promoted to lieutenants. Of the 61 who now must pass new tests, the officer hardest hit by the commission ruling is the man at the top of the list and next in line for promotion—Sergt. Peter J. Heraty of the Sheffield avenue station.

Artist Rockwell Kent Divorced in Nevada

Las Vegas, Nev., April 12 (AP).—Frances Lee Kent was granted a divorce today from Rockwell Kent, New York artist. In a closed hearing Mrs. Kent testified in support of her charges of extreme cruelty. The couple was wed in Westchester county, New York, April 5, 1926.

Martha Raye and her husband, David Rose.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12 (AP).—Martha Raye, singing and dancing film actress, and David Rose, screen and radio musical arranger whom she married in Ensenada, Mexico, Oct. 8, 1938, have decided to call it quits.

Using her legal name of Martha Yvonne Rose, the actress has filed suit for divorce, charging that since their marriage the musician has treated her with extreme cruelty.

The complaint states that the couple separated last April 4 and that there is no community property.

M'CARRAN FIGHTS ROOSEVELT MOVE TO TRANSFER CAA

Senator Seeks to Kill Reorganization.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.], author of the bill which established the Civil Aeronautics authority, today announced he will introduce a resolution to kill President Roosevelt's fourth reorganization order, which would place the unit under the department of commerce.

Senator McCarran. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

At his press conference today Mr. Roosevelt labeled as "pure spinach" criticism of his move on the ground that commercial aviation may be put in jeopardy.

McCarran's Anger Aroused.

The reference to spinach roused the ire of Senator McCarran, who retorted:

"Expressions of that kind don't carry any cogency because they don't indicate any knowledge of the subject. I am sorry to hear an expression of that kind coming from the President on such a vital subject."

Mr. Roosevelt submitted to congress yesterday a reorganization order to abolish the air safety board and place its functions in the Civil Aeronautics authority, which in turn would be brought under jurisdiction of the secretary of commerce.

Simplification Is Plea.

Mr. Roosevelt said the order simply was designed to achieve greater efficiency and to relieve the President of the task of receiving reports and information from a multitude of agencies.

He said that the men at the top of the CAA agreed that it would in no way jeopardize the safety of aviation to incorporate the safety board's work in the authority under an administrator and thereby abolish three jobs with top salaries.

A hot congressional fight on the proposed transfer is expected to follow the introduction of McCarran's resolution.

SUPREME COURT DENIES REVIEW OF SCHOOL SUIT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused a rehearing of a suit brought in December, 1938, to force the Chicago Board of Education to discontinue the practice of listing among its liabilities the interest to be paid on tax anticipation warrants. Interest totaling $7,539,000 on warrants issued against 1936, 1937, and 1938 taxes was involved.

If the contention of Harry Axelrod, the plaintiff, had been upheld, 40 per cent of that amount, or $3,015,600, would have been removed from the board's schedule of liabilities, and a reduction in the tax levy would have resulted. Payers of 40 per cent of the taxes filed objections with their payments.

Yesterday's Supreme court action followed the court's reversal of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's decision in favor of the plaintiff in July, 1939.

COUNTY SCHOOL DIRECTORS TO BE ELECTED TODAY

One-third of the school directors in the 176 elementary school districts and 20 high school districts in Cook county outside of Chicago will be elected today. The terms of directors are staggered so that one-third expire each year.

Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, said polling places in the larger school districts having seven or more board members will be open from noon to 7 p. m. They will be in school buildings and voting will be conducted under the supervision of the boards. In smaller districts having three man boards the hours are fixed by the boards and are usually in the late afternoon and evening.

Registration is not necessary to vote.

RULING IS URGED ON CITY COUNCIL HEALTH POWERS

Ald. Ross Offers Plan to End Row with Board.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the city council health committee, yesterday suggested a possible solution of the controversy bearing upon the disputed rights of the board of health and of the city council on health regulations.

The solution, he said, is a hole-proof opinion from the corporation counsel's office setting forth the exact authority of the board of health, and the exact rights of the city council on health matters.

"We ought to know," said Ald. Ross, himself a physician," just what the board of health can do in its own right, and just what jurisdiction the council has over the board's actions."

Dispute Breaks into Open.

The controversy, which had been developing for some time, broke out openly on Thursday when Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, a member of the health board, protested a previous opinion from the corporation counsel questioning the right of the city council to delegate certain regulatory authority to the board.

Following this opinion the council directed the board to submit to it all regulations it was considering.

This would mean, asserted Dr. Schmidt, that the board of health would really become a board of aldermen.

Dr. Schmidt made his protest while the board was considering a recommendation that the rules on quarantine of scarlet fever be eased to permit employed adults in a quarantined home to go to and from work "provided they do not handle food."

The state laws recently were changed to permit this. The board was reminded of the council's order on submitting its regulations. It was then that Dr. Schmidt argued that such a change should be decided by the health board and not by aldermen. The matter is still pending.

Aldermen Hit Objections.

Several aldermen took the position that the city council should have a word on health regulations.

"I do not see why the board of health should object," said Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th].

Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie [29th] asserted "aldermen should know what is going on in the matter of health regulations."

Referring to another health board question, Ald. Ross said there should be an opinion clarifying the entire question of milk regulation. The city now has an ordinance on grade A milk, he said, but he added that he has doubts about certain phases of the ordinance.

the case of the BEAUTIFUL TRAITOR

Was it possible that the beautiful and accomplished Peggy Arnold helped her husband, Benedict Arnold, sell out to the British? Tomorrow, in the Color Graphic section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune, William Shinnick will bring to light newly discovered evidence on a celebrated case which has baffled historians for 160 years.

POLITICS MARKS TIME AS VOTE CANVASS STARTS

Party Meetings Expected to Be Postponed.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Calm settled over all Illinois political camps yesterday as the long, routine grind of official canvasses of the vote in last Tuesday's primaries was started in most counties.

Dates for several organization meetings are set by the statutes, but experience has shown that the time allowances for the operation of election machinery are antiquated, and largely for that reason there will be technical evasion of the legal requirements. In general the Republicans will postpone their various meetings and the Democrats may do likewise.

The primary law requires that county conventions for the organization of the newly elected county committees and the naming of the delegates to the state convention shall be held on April 22, that the state conventions shall be held on April 26, and that the new state committees shall organize within 30 days of the primary.

County Canvass Starts.

The big Cook county canvass was started yesterday in its two divisions, one by the board of election commissioners and the other by the county clerk, but it is probable that final proclamation by the latter will not be issued until about April 24 and the issuance of election certificates to members of the county committee must wait until that time.

Largely for that reason, the Republican county committee has agreed informally that when the new committee meets April 22 as required by law it will immediately recess for a week. By April 29 the newly elect will have their certificates and will know their voting strength in the convention and the number of delegates they may name to the state convention.

The date for completion of the state canvass, which is dependent upon the official reports from the 102 counties in the state, is even more uncertain. That canvass constitutes the official determination of the nominees for all state offices and the membership of the state central committee.

Plan to Recess Parley.

Therefore it is planned to recess the Republican state convention, after a brief, skeleton session on April 26, the statutory date, until some day early in June.

Under these conditions, the developments concerning the election of chairman of the Republican state and county central committees have hardly begun. Custom requires that Dwight H. Green, the nominee for governor, be permitted to designate the state chairman who will manage his campaign.

The present chairman, A. K. Stiles, said before the primary that he was not a candidate for reëlection.

Green left yesterday for Washington, D. C., and a two week stay in the east. Unless he takes an adverse position in the matter, it is believed that Edward F. Moore will be reelected chairman of the Cook county Republican committee.

The plans of the Democrats definitely will be determined after P. A. Nash and Mayor Kelly of Chicago have conferred in Florida and have talked with downstate leaders by telephone. Mayor Kelly already is in Florida, and Nash started for there last night.

SENATORS CLASH OVER BILL FOR NEW JUDGESHIPS

Kansan in Lone Battle to Kill Measure.

Washington, D. C., April 12 [Special].—A one man fight by Senator Clyde M. Reed [R., Kans.] against a bill to create eight new federal judgeships precipitated several clashes in a hot senate debate today.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] became particularly aroused when Senator Reed charged that an additional circuit judge for the 6th circuit, embracing the Majority Leader Barkley's home state, is unnecessary. Senators W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.] and William Smathers [D., N. J.] buried ordinary political differences to fight a similar attack on the proposed creation of an additional district judgeship in their state.

Loses in Test Vote.

On an important test vote on an amendent by Senator Reed to cut the 6th circuit judgeship out of the bill, the Kansan not only failed to have his amendment adopted but also could not gain the necessary support of one-fifth of the senate membership on a request for a roll call vote.

This made it evident that the senate eventually would pass the bill with overwhelming support. Senator Reed blocked action today by announcing he would conduct an individual fight on each new judgeship.

The bill also authorizes a new judge in the 8th circuit, and for additional district judges in the southern district of New York, New Jersey, the eastern district of Pennsylvania, the southern district of California, and one each for the northern and southern districts of Florida.

Barkley Is Aroused.

A broad hint from Senator Reed that Barkley is interested for personal reasons in the sixth circuit addition brought Barkley to his feet with a quick denial.

"The senator from Kansas is making a desperate effort to be funny, but he's not," said Barkley.

"I don't think I'm funny," Reed replied.

"The senator may not be funny to himself," Barkley retorted, "but he is excruciatingly laughable to other people."

Later, the Kansan turned his attack on the proposed New Jersey judgeship.

"It takes a lot of nerve to come in here and ask for a judgeship," he asserted, "altho one has been vacant for 18 months because Mayor Hague [Frank Hague of Jersey City] and the senior senator from New Jersey [Smathers] have failed to agree on an appointee."

Smathers' Retort.

"It takes a lot of nerve," shouted Senator Smathers, "for a senator to come in here from the wheat fields of Kansas and oppose this bill."

Reed told the senate the work of the federal courts was declining and contended no more judges were needed. Since 1921, he said, 109 federal judgeships had been created.

From 1935 to 1939, he added, the number of criminal cases declined 52 per cent from the previous five years, and the number of civil cases 51 per cent.

LAW TO APPORTION CONGRESS SEATS IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The senate approved finally and sent to the White House today a bill providing for reapportionment of the 435 house seats on the basis of the 1940 census.

The measure was passed by the house yesterday after a provision to exclude aliens in determining the new apportionment was eliminated. The senate previously had passed similar legislation. Today it approved minor house amendments without dissent.

The legislation provides for an automatic reapportionment on the basis of the 1940 population in the various states. Population shifts since the 1930 census will cause some states to lose representatives and some to gain. The reapportionment will take place after the 1940 census, now under way, is completed.

LUND TO CARRY WAR ON WASTE TO HIGH COURT

Demands Accounting of Highway Fund.

State Representative Arnold L. Lund said last night he will carry to the Illinois Supreme court his attempt to obtain an accounting of $71,818,000 in state highway funds being spent by the Democratic administration.

Arnold L. Lund.

Lund charges that much of the money is being used to pay pay rolls for campaign purposes. Not only are the extra pay rollers required to do party work but they are also levied upon for Democratic slush funds, he said.

Lund said he will go to Springfield today to file a writ in the Sangamon county Circuit court requiring the clerk to prepare records in the case for submission to the Supreme court. During the primary campaign, the legislator sought to halt spending of the huge lump sum highway appropriation in the Sangamon county Circuit court, but the action was dismissed by Judge L. E. Stone in Springfield.

Nudelman Among Defendants.

In addition to filing a request for the records, Lund said he will file proof of service on the defendants in the case, including Samuel L. Nudelman, state finance director, who is accused by many of his fellow Democrats of being dictator of the Illinois state government.

In the Circuit court action Lund argued that the legislature, in passing a lump sum highway appropriation, violated constitutional safeguards designed to prevent the waste of public funds.

Charges Law Violated.

"The lump sum appropriation of $71,818,000 is a violation at three points," Lund said last night. "In the first place, the legislature is supposed to appropriate itemized funds to limit the spending power of the executive. Second, the constitution provides that appropriations are to be itemized so that the governor can check and possibly veto certain items. Third, the constitution envisages the right of the taxpayers to know how the money is being spent."

Before and during the primary campaign, in which Lund was candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, he repeatedly attacked the administration for waste.

JURY ACQUITS 8 DEMOCRATS ON SLUSH CHARGES

Penn Group Set Free by Republican Panel.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 12 (AP).—An all-Republican jury, after four hours deliberation today, acquitted Pennsylvania Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence and seven party associates of conspiracy to force political contributions from state employés.

It was the second time in four months Lawrence was cleared of charges in his association with the state government during the Democratic administration of Gov. George H. Earle, from 1935 to 1939. He was a member of Earle's cabinet.

Democratic sympathizers let out a resounding whoop when the verdict was returned this afternoon.

Those acquitted with Lawrence were Ralph M. Bashore, secretary of the state committee; Carl K. Deen, Harrisburg, resident secretary; Clyde H. Smith, Robert M. Fager Jr., Wendell P. C. Morganthaler, William B. Freeland, and Frank R. Hean, Dauphin county Democratic leaders.

Attach Another Indictment.

Counsel for the last five men immediately moved to quash another indictment charging them with extortion in connection with the same set of facts. The court reserved decision.

The case climaxed a series of four trials arising from a special grand jury investigation of charges hurled by Democrats against each other in their primary fight two years ago.

Lawrence, advised of the verdict, recalled that scrap with this statement:

"For the second time a judge and jury have definitely given an answer to the calumny and lies spread against the Earle administration. . . ."

Lawrence and Earle teamed to beat the ticket supported by United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey and the independent gubernatorial candidacy of Charles J. Margiotti, then attorney general, in the 1938 primary.

Margiotti Made Charges.

Margiotti, stumping the state against what he called "political bosses," voiced many of the charges.

In previous trials:

Roy E. Brownmiller, secretary of highways under Earle, was convicted of misconduct in office in connection with a $600,000 padded maintenance pay roll at election time. He has appealed.

Lawrence was cleared of charges of political blackmail, conspiracy to violate the election laws, and to procure unlawful state contracts.

Martin Winner in Auditor Race, Democrats Report

Democratic headquarters in Chicago announced yesterday that its own compilation of returns showed that there was no longer any doubt about the race for the Democratic nomination for state auditor between Congressman John C. Martin and the present auditor, Edward J. Barrett, one of the insurgents. The announcement said that with reports in from all but 55 of the 8,336 precincts in the state Martin was leading by 22,559.

MACNIDER PICK OF IOWA G. O. P. FOR PRESIDENCY

Spangler Wins Fight to Keep His Post.

Des Moines, Ia., April 12 [Special].—Hanford MacNider of Mason City was indorsed by the Republican state convention today as Iowa's favorite son candidate for the presidency and Harrison E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids was reelected Republican national committeeman after the collapse of efforts to unseat him.

Hanford MacNider.

Indorsement of MacNider's candidacy came when the convention adopted a resolution calling on the state's 22 delegates to present his name to the Republican national convention in Philadelphia. The resolution praised MacNider as "a citizen, farmer, business man, and soldier in whose hands the destiny of our people might be safely entrusted."

MacNider is a former national commander of the American Legion, a former assistant secretary of war, and former United States minister to Canada.

Spangler Urges Harmony.

Reëlection of Spangler was assured earlier in the day when national convention delegates favorable to him were chosen in the pre-convention district caucuses and Martin M. Cooney of West Union, who led the drive to oust the veteran national committeeman, conceded defeat. The delegates later formally reëlected Spangler to his third four year term.

When notified Cooney had conceded defeat, Spangler issued a statement urging party harmony.

"I am gratified at the outcome," he said. "I am really more gratified than surprised. Now the atmosphere is cleared and we have got to elect the President and the Republican ticket from top to bottom next fall.

12 Missouri Delegates Chosen.

St. Louis, Mo., April 12 (AP).—Twelve of Missouri's 30 delegates to the Republican national convention were chosen today, free to jump on any presidential's candidate's bandwagon.

Not only were the delegates uninstructed, but at the six congressional district meetings there was practically no mention made of any candidate to head the national ticket. The state's two delegates chosen previously, at the third district convention at Bethany Wednesay, also were uninstructed.

The remaining 12 district delegates will be selected within the next week, and the four delegates at large will be named at the state convention here April 26.

Meanwhile Gov. Lloyd C. Stark announced tonight he favors United States Sentor Bennett Champ Clark as chairman of the Missouri delegation to the Democratic national convention. The Democratic state convention will be held next Monday.

G. O. P. LEADER'S CHOICE SEEN AS DEWEY VICTORY

Albany, N. Y., April 12 [Special].—A party victory for District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey was seen today in the selection of Edwin F. Jaeckle, Erie county Republican leader, for the chairmanship of the Republican state committee.

The choosing of Jaeckle was a harmony move by rival factions in preparation for the presidential campaign. Unanimous action at the committee meeting here today was assured by withdrawal of William S. Murray of Utica, chairman since 1936, who accompanied Dewey on his recent campaign trip to Portland, Ore. Jaeckle is co-manager of the Dewey campaign for president and Murray is an active worker in behalf of the New York district attorney.

At the conference in which Jaeckle was chosen it was agreed that he would accept no salary in the $12,000 a year post. Attending the conference were Mayor Rolland B. Marvin, Onondaga county leader; Thomas E. Broderick, Monroe county leader and chief spokesman for Frank Gannett, also a presidential aspirant; Russel J. Sprague, Dewey's chief campaign manager, and Judge William F. Bleakley of Westchester county.

LINDSAY QUASHES VOTE FRAUD CASE FOR SECOND TIME

Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court yesterday quashed an indictment charging two women and three men with conspiracy to violate the election laws in connection with alleged vote frauds in the 33d precinct, 24th ward.

Last October Judge Lindsay dismissed an indictment containing the same charges when he upheld the contention of defense attorneys that the grand jury which voted the indictment was void because it contained no women members. The group were reindicted immediately. Yesterday the judge ruled with defense attorneys that the new indictment was barred by the statute of limitations of 18 months.

The defendants were: Attorney Eugene J. Bernstein, Democratic precinct captain; Jerome Greenberg, his assistant; Miss Estelle Litwin, former Republican clerk in the polling place; Mrs. Rose Fishman, Republican judge; Paul Lidovsky, Democratic judge; Eugene Steiner, Republican judge, and Albert Brooks, Democratic clerk.

$710,000 IS VOTED TO CONTINUE U. S. PLANNING BOARD

Washington, D. C., April 12 [Special].—The house of representatives, by a vote of 184 to 129, agreed today to provide $710,000 to continue for another year the National Resources Planning board, of which President Roosevelt's uncle, Frederic A. Delano, is chairman. It had previously declined to vote any funds whatever to the agency.

The President's budget request for the board came to just over $1,000,000. When the house omitted any funds for it from the independent offices appropriation bill the senate added the $710,000 to which the house agreed today when the conference report on the differing versions of the bill was adopted by the house.

In adopting it, however, the house added amendments which may cause further disagreement by the senate when the report comes to the floor there.

May Day Parade Permit Is Granted by Allman

CHIEF SUSPENDS POLICEMAN FOR LEAVING POLLS

Policeman Louis Agnus, assigned to the Deering street station, was suspended yesterday by Commissioner Allman as the result of a disturbance Tuesday in the polling place of the 49th precinct, 11th ward, where Agnus was stationed.

Allman ordered charges of disobedience of orders and neglect of duty filed against the policeman. He said Agnus had left the place before the precinct officials.

Five men, including John T. Cagney, Republican candidate for coroner, were arrested by a squad sent to the scene. Disorderly conduct charges against them have been continued to April 23 by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

THE SEA FIGHTS OFF NORWAY.

Mr. Churchill, reporting to parliament as first war lord, said that for some time a Nazi attack on neutrals was known to be impending but that the British did not know in which direction it would fall. It was under way before it was discovered to be against Denmark and Norway. Scouting planes sent back the word Sunday night that German cruisers were at sea and moving northward.

The 800 mile corridor of Norwegian territorial waters, Mr. Churchill said, has been the greatest impediment to the blockade. The British had to do something about it. They had just laid mine fields in the corridor when the German warships and transports undertook the capture of the Norwegian ports and succeeded. The British, supposedly on guard at this important stretch of water, were not there to intercept them.

Mr. Churchill did not explain this initial failure, except by reference to the uncertainty in London as to the German objective. He apparently was unprepared for a descent on the Atlantic coast of Norway and sent out the commander of the fleet too late. This part of the first phase of the week's sea fighting is left to future revealing.

Many other phases have been touched on lightly. Mr. Churchill's was the most detailed official statement but it left much behind the curtain of military silence. Once in action the British seem to have attacked with the skill and ...ing of their best sea traditions. If Swedish and other reports are accurate, the Kattegat was entered and a number of transports sunk. The full story may reveal a brilliant exploit despite the first failure to keep the Germans from reaching their objectives by sea.

THE GOONS ARE BACK AT WORK.

Labor goons have resumed their activities in Chicago in connection with a strike at the American Needle and Novelty company. The strikers belong to an A. F. of L. hatters' union. The goons pursued three nonstriking employés several blocks from the plant and beat them, attacking a young woman in one instance when she sought to protect one of their victims. They also followed a delivery truck away from the plant and beat the driver and helper.

The goons are apparently convinced that the heat is off, if indeed it was ever on. Following the goon murder of Marinus Hvid, the garage owner, authorities made windy promises but they failed to deliver on them. The murderers of Hvid are still free and unpunished.

The outrages at the hat plant took place in the course of picketing, but they had no relation to the legal rights of pickets. Illinois has a state law modeled after the Norris-La Guardia federal anti-injunction law, but Judge Lewe found on Wednesday that that law did not prevent his enjoining violence by the strikers. The federal and state laws forbid only injunctions against peaceful picketing. Congress and the legislators had no intention, when they were passed, of legalizing violence in labor disputes, nor could they have legalized it had they wished to do so. The acts of goons cannot be legalized, but they can be condoned by local authorities' failure to enforce the law.

Mayor Kelly has at his command some 6,000 policemen. That is a sufficient force to prevent goons from operating if it is used intelligently. State's Attorney Courtney has 100 or more detectives assigned to his office. That is a sufficient force, if it is used sincerely, to catch and convict the goons. The continued depredations of goons can leave the public with but one conviction—namely: that the mayor and prosecutor have not the will to act.

THE NORTH WESTERN COMES HOME.

The headquarters of the board of directors of the Chicago and North Western railway have been transferred from New York to Chicago. The principal offices of the railroad have been here, but the directors, as a rule, met in the east. Because the board is composed chiefly of western men and because the business of the road is in this area, the directors' meetings are to be held here in the future.

That is as it should be as has frequently been said in this place. Businesses of all sorts in the interior of the country have suffered from absentee ownership and management. Officers and directors have frequently had all too little first hand knowledge of the problems which confronted the enterprise entrusted to them. Written reports have been relied upon when direct observation would have been far more useful. All too often, for example, the absence of responsible officials has prevented the adjustment of minor labor difficulties with the result that relations between management and workers became strained.

So far as the railroads are concerned, the separation of management from operations has often proved extremely costly. At a time when the companies were being subjected to steadily increasing regulation from Washington, the railroads were in a poor position to protest against this type of absenteeism and counteract it because their own absenteeism was only less pernicious.

In the nature of things, the management of an enterprise like a railroad tends to fall into the burocratic pattern. The activities are strung out over a wide area and communication between the various elements in the enterprise is not so easy as it is when an organization is concentrated within a small area of operations. It is therefore doubly important that the active heads of a railroad remain in as close touch with the physical properties and the personnel as possible. Only in that way can the waste and slackness of burocratic management be minimized.

There was a time when there was justification for placing the headquarters of large corporations in New York. When the most important problem facing management was the acquisition of new capital for expansion, the officers of a company found it expedient to remain close to Wall street, the source of capital. Today the need for new money is not as pressing as it formerly was and, in any event, the capital requirements can generally be met as well in other financial centers as in New York.

There is, therefore, no good excuse for absenteeism. It is true, of course, that some corporation officials and more especially, their wives, prefer to live in New York, but their social ambitions ought not to be furthered at the expense of employés, stockholders, and customers.

A number of railroad managements in recent years have come home to the middle west, and THE TRIBUNE takes considerable satisfaction in the knowledge that its insistence on the advisability of this step has been influential in the change of policy. So far as we know, none of the companies has had the slightest occasion to regret the transfer and most of them have definitely benefited from it in increased business and profits.

OUR GOVERNORS.

The people of Illinois now are reasonably assured that the next governor will be either Mr. Green, Republican, or Mr. Hershey, Democrat. One of the two, in all probability, will be in the executive offices next January. What the people do not know is who is governor of Illinois just now. There is Gov. Horner de jure and Gov. Stelle, acting. There may be Gov. Nudelman de facto, or a fairish group of governors each with a separate province and prerogatives. There are apparently two directors of finance, Gov. Nudelman having been fired from the department by Gov. Stelle, who appointed Homer Mat Adams as acting director.

Mr. Barrett, the state auditor, who seems to have been defeated for renomination, said when Gov. Stelle fired the director of finance that he would not recognize any pay roll or other vouchers signed by Mr. Nudelman, but would require that they be approved by Mr Adams. Later he decided that Mr. Nudelman's signature would be acceptable for the time being so as not to delay essential state business. Pay rolls are essential state business and at no time more so than following a campaign in which the boys, willingly or unwillingly, had to lay it down on the counter.

Both Gov. Horner and Gov. Stelle have issued calls for a special session of the general assembly to meet April 30. Altho the call of Gov. Stelle did not get the stamp of the great seal in the office of Secretary of State Hughes, one summons is enough and the legislature will convene at the end of this month. That i one definite prospect in the otherwise bewildering state of affairs in the government of Illinois. With the legislative branch of government on the job, there may be a clarification of the situation in the executive department.

The assembly is entitled to know the facts. It may be that Gov. Horner, altho in ill health, is not forced to delegate his duties to persons for whom no warrant of law can be found to justify their administrative acts. The concern which this question has aroused does not arise from lack of sympathy for Mr. Horner. He has been placed in a difficult position, both by his illness and by the contentions of the fighting Democratic politicians. The men who have access to the governor's residence have guarded Mr. Horner in his sick room and are accused of exercising control over him to protect themselves. These charges are made by other Democratic politicians who once had his confidence and were supplanted.

Many things have happened during Mr. Horner's illness which his friends are certain would not have happened if he had been actively in charge of the administration and well informed as to events. At his desk in the executive office he would have foreseen many things and have stopped them. Criticism of the acts for which he may be responsible only in form has driven him to assume a responsibility in essence which is unfair to him.

Editorial of the Day

ALIBIS.

[Detroit News.]

An all-time low of 254 for three games has been set by an ABC bowler whose name is withheld here in deference to a hitherto blameless life. We are assured it will stand for some time to come, tho each year bowlers who do respectably on alleys at home arrive at the congress and perform miracles of nonscoring. From what we hear there are a number of reasons for this.

One we have heard is that the ceilings of congress structures, like our Coliseum, are not near enough to the floor. Training ball players in such towns as San Antonio have been known to say the sky is "too high," which interferes with the judging of flies. There are bowlers, too, it seems, who must feel at all times that they are operating in three dimensions. Another and more understandable alibi is the newness of the alleys and equipment.

When a pin is well along in life it loses the sharp edge on its base which gives it a firm stance. It becomes the equivalent of a boxer with round heels, ready to swoon at a touch, or, as in Johnny Paycheck's case, at the champion's frown. Alleys, too, have a tendency to wear away slightly down the middle, which gives a gratifying accuracy to round objects propelled thereon.

Possibly the most serious of hazards is not physical at all, but mental—a sense of loss, of being out of one's element, away from the carefree atmosphere and cheer of Joe's cozy establishment in Peoria or Wilkes Barre, the familiar angles of lights and shadows, the friendly habitues and help, the beer at Charley's next door after an evening of pleasant exertion. Take all these away from a bowler and a three game score of 254 is not strange at all.

TOUGH LUCK.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. WOLCOTT.

MR. PEPYS, BOOK COLLECTOR.

13th April—Did begin a new hobby this past week, for none of my cronies come to the Club any more and I must find a new interest and keep myself amused until the weather is warm enough to go to the baseball games. Now this hobby is to be a book hobby, for that gives one an intellectual air; yet not as costly as the general run of first edition manias.

So behold, I am now the famous collector of first editions of tales about college life; and my nest egg is "Ann Arbor Tales," by my old friend, Karl Harriman, published in 1902. To it, in good time, I will add "Maroon Tales," by Will Cuppy, and "Harvard Tales," by a certain Flandrau, and the Old Siwash stories by George Fitch, which deal with Knox college, and Owen Johnson's "Stover at Yale." These, I figure, should cost me no more than 10 cents apiece, and I will never bid higher than 25. The two Tom Brown books, "At Rugby" and "At Oxford," will give a mood of age to my collection, if I can find them.

Then I must contrive to find "Old Heidelberg," which was a story before it became a play and an operetta, in the original German; and "Zuleika Dobson," by Max Beerbohm; which reminds me that if I collect all the books with Oxford in them I will have to buy a 15 room house to put my 25 cent treasures in. And for irony I will give the place of honor in the Oxford section to Thomas Hardy's "Jude the Obscure," which is about a man who never got there as a student, altho he tried all his miserable life.

I will display the fruits of my hobby to my book collecting friends who pay $75 for first editions of "Sherlock Holmes" and $25,000 for firsts of Shakespeare; and I will talk about my rare items with pride. Then, no doubt, they will say, "How perfectly ridiculous," and I will answer softly, "Aren't we all?"

TUCKING-IN TIME.

O, tucking-in time is the best of all
The many good times of the day,
When the sun has hurried his big red ball
Over the hills and away,
And Mother comes quietly up the stairs
To hug me ever so tight,
To hold my hands as I say my prayers
And tuck me in for the night.

Then, carefully folding the counterpane,
And tells my favorite stories again—
Or maybe we visit, instead;
Then I'm kissed goodnight, and I face the wall,
And Mother goes softly away;
O, tucking-in time is the best of all

Swing Singers in the 1880s.

Speaking of "swing" variations of familiar songs, consider what was done by the Old Fogy singers, who performed at pioneer day celebrations in the 1880s. One of their numbers was a caricature of a hymn. The sopranos and altos would chant:

Then the tenors and bassos would answer:

Why Juliet Slept So Soundly.

What was in the sleeping potion that Friar Lawrence gave to Juliet in Shakespeare's tragedy? Laurence Olivier, who acts Romeo to Vivien Leigh's Juliet, has consulted experts on the Italian Renaissance to find out, and has learned that the concoction was probably that used in the Spongia Somnifera—the Sleeping Sponge.

Opium, unripe mulberry leaves, hyocyanus, hemlock, lettuce seeds, dock seeds, and wood ivy were boiled in a pot with a sponge. A few whiffs of that sponge would put any one suffering from insomnia to sleep for 24 hours.

Friar Lawrence, thinks Olivier, may have used this formula, and given Juliet a diluted internal dose of the brew. If taken "straight," it would have killed her.

THE PURITAN IN BRONZE.

It seems but yesterday he strode the forest paths
His head held high, the Book within his arm,
His cloak wind-blown as fearlessly he went,
Yet knowing well the woods held deadly harm
For such as he; each tree and shadowy glade
Might hide the feathered death that lurked for all
Who came from overseas, taking the redman's land

Ready to face all dangers if need be
To make a home where they might work and live
According to their conscience and be free.
They held fast to the Book, and walked a path
Narrow, perhaps, but with a faith sublime
That this was better than to bow to kings,
And would so prove itself, in God's own time.

And so it came that on that sea-girt shore
A race of thinkers, doers, rose in might
To be the conscience of this new found land,
The measure of its laws and rules of right.
The years roll swiftly on and changes come,
But may the Puritan's firm faith prevail,
And may his dauntless figure be to us
An inspiration that will never fail!

Carolyn Tyler.

Put this in your dumbbell book: One night I was dinner partnered with a dim cerebellumed doll who, on some one's mention of Buffon, broke in to chirp:

"O, that's a clown, isn't it?"

Ray Dieden's Assistant.

The Linemaster's next addition to his library will be a thesaurus of humor, containing the 15 oldest stories in the world and their 13,796 variants. To use the jokes in the column? O, no; to keep 'em out.

Listen, spring poets: We went to the sports department, where they keep score on everything, and snarled at them:

"Was there ever decent weather for the opening of the baseball season in Chicago?"

And they said, "Yes, in 1918."

DON'T HURRY YOUR STOMACH WITH ALKALIS.

WHENEVER we imbibe a dose of sodium bicarbonate [an alkali] we force the stomach to disgorge its contents into the duodenum more quickly. Is this advisable? As we know, the numerous steps which we include under the general term "digestion" demand considerable time. We cannot expect food to dissolve instantly. Even adequate cooking—which is a form of predigestion—may require several hours. All of our edibles must be prepared for the action of the various secretions—such as the gastric juice, pancreatic fluid, and bile.

We should recall also that under normal conditions the body maintains a rather accurate balance between acids and alkalis. Enough hydrochloric acid is manufactured to aid disintegration of comestibles as well as to stimulate other gland ferments.

Recent experiments by Van Lier and others have demonstrated that when a test meal—containing soda tablets—is fed to a healthy person, the stomach impulses are speeded up. In other words, the snack is rushed along before the peptic products are thru with it. These patients were examined with the fluoroscope at intervals and the time noted when the last of the meal had departed. A pouch that emptied normally in 2 hours and 17 minutes when placed under the soda régime took 1 hour and 42 minutes. The average acceleration was more than 16 per cent.

A diametrically opposite situation was disclosed following the administration of hydrochloric to the point where this substance would be in excess of the normal amount. Here the process was delayed—on an average—from 25 to 45 minutes.

Just what happens is not clear. It may be that the alkalis open the doorway into the bowel sooner or—in the case of acids—keep it closed longer. Again, there may be some effect upon the wall of the "bread basket" or thru the nerves governing its contractions.

How were these conclusions derived? The experimental meal consisted of cooked wheat breakfast food to which barium sulfate had been added so that a shadow would be cast on the X-ray films. All in the series were first examined without alkalis or acids. Later, the chemicals were furnished to separate groups and the periods determined on succeeding days.

It should be pointed out that the quantities of drugs employed [acids or alkalis] were those which are utilized routinely. Thus two or three tablets of sodium bicarbonate—which any one of us may resort to when in distress—may precipitate the onward progress of what we eat.

The whole matter should give us pause as we realize that the employment of soda with so many of our friends is common. We may ask the question: Is it fair to expect the first part of the alimentary tract to do its work well and thoroly when it is hurried? We can envision the organ becoming "breathless" under a type of stimulation which may be unnecessary and undesirable.

Physicians have often observed what they call "cascade stomachs"—in which nutriment rushes thru so fast that complete digestion is impossible. In consequence, the whole system suffers, deficiencies develop, strength wanes, and the individual is "all in." Many of these subjects will be found to lack hydrochloric and—on supplying this element in moderate doses—symptoms cease and absorption returns to a satisfactory level.

Perhaps this helps us to understand why some patients—altho large eaters—remain extremely thin. As one victim remarked, "I get no good from my food." In this case, hydrochloric was absent and providing it by mouth brought about prompt resumption of assimilation.

But there is little excuse for persistent dosing with alkalis that are bound to dispatch rations long before they are ready for entrance into the small intestine. All we accomplish is to overload this important canal.

ADOLESCENT THYROID.

Mrs. L. writes: My 16 year old daughter was examined at school and was told she had a palpable thyroid. What does this mean? What can be done to correct it?

REPLY.

A slightly enlarged thyroid gland is relatively common in girls her age. Your physician should advise concerning the use of iodized salt or Lugol's solution. More often than not this condition is not significant.

NUMBNESS IN HANDS.

Mrs. L. R. writes: Can anything be done to help a 71 year old woman who—for the last six months—has experienced a numbness in her hands? She isn't able to use them as there is no feeling in them.

REPLY.

A careful examination may reveal a vitamin deficiency or some nerve defect. Occasionally a condition of the blood is responsible. Look to the cause.

VEGETABLES.

U. W. B. writes: I have been told that it is harmful to eat spinach and asparagus because of their acid content. Is there anything to this statement?

REPLY.

Despite the many jokes on the subject, most of us—even children—are fond of vegetables, including spinach and asparagus. Both constitute important items in a balanced diet. No danger of excess acid.

Test Your Facts

THE INVASION OF NORWAY.

Chicago, April 10.—Once again Hitler is several jumps ahead of England and France, but what a catastrophe for the peace loving Scandinavians! It's really becoming a world war and thousands of innocent people are going to be ruthlessly slaughtered by this shifting of the battle fronts. Are the Balkans next? They are bound to be if they don't band together and put a stop to the reich's bidding, but being such a mixture of unfriendly nationalities and divergent policies, it's not likely they will.

The more this war spreads, the more it will become a war of hate, not of the heads of governments alone but of the peoples themselves. Thank God we live in the United States where we have no minorities and can live on friendly terms with all nationalities.

J. IVAN HANSEN.

WARNING RESPECTING GREENLAND.

Chicago, April 10.—Greenland is a part of the North American continent and as such comes under the protection of the Monroe Doctrine. Therefore, President Roosevelt should send a peremptory demand to Adolf Hitler not to raise the swastika over Greenland, with the distinct understanding that otherwise the naval and air forces of the United States will remove it immediately and then aid the British and French forces in the entire destruction of all German naval and air forces everywhere.

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

THE WAR SPREADS.

Chicago, April 10.—Your editorial, "The War Spreads," is a masterpiece in thoroly explaining the events that led to the invasion of Scandinavia. Every one, regardless of whether he is pro-anything or neutral, should read this enlightening document.

OLAF A. SORENSON.

FROM A GRANDMOTHER.

Chicago, April 7.—If this nation could survive and grow from its humble beginning, could weather drouth, grasshoppers, and internal war and always emerge strengthened, holding aloft the flag of Old Glory, surely it is not supine enough in time of peace—or any other time—to hand to any man a third term. Times have changed, but human nature has not.

I am not a politician, and not greatly concerned about which political party is in power, but I am a grandmother, and am mightily concerned in the future of my country. I want the children of this country to grow up in the sunshine of a free America; not to huddle frightened and bewildered in the shadow of hate and war. Do not delude yourselves into thinking it cannot happen here. It can and it will if you let it. E. HARRIS.

THE NAVAL BILL.

Chicago, April 9.—I've noticed in the papers, for the last couple of months, how the United States government proposes to spend billions of dollars on our navy. Their aim is to have one second to none. It looks to me like a waste of money. When this war is over, providing the United States doesn't get in, and Britain and her allies win, they will look at our navy jealously. Then they will propose world disarmament and the scrapping of warships, and, like a sucker, we'll take the bait, hook, line, and sinker.

JOE MASCULINE.

MR. SLATTERY DEFENDED.

Chicago, April 10.—I have been married 38 years and from that day to this I have had THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE delivered to my home and read by me.

Now the question.

How can you allow your paper to besmirch the very good name of Senator James M. Slattery, who has given to his country 10 of the finest children, now men and women, who were ever raised in the whole state of Illinois.

MRS. WALSH.

HE HAD HIS WAR.

Wausau, Wis., April 5.—I wish to thank you for your able and outspoken editorials on the condition of United States diplomacy in regard to the war in Europe, and for revealing to the public what forces in our country are at work trying their utmost to drag us into the war. If there should be a war for us, it is certain that the war mongers here would be far from bearing any of the brunt of it; they would, on the contrary, stand to profit greatly.

The writer of this letter is a veteran of the last war, carries some scars of it to this day, and certainly knows what it means to be actively in a war. If it was a war for, or in the interests of our country, nothing much could be said in opposition to it, except the fact that wars do not really settle anything.

Had the last war settled anything or brought us or the world in general any substantial gain or benefit, nothing could be said against it, but it increased the hatred and misery all over the world and got us nothing but tremendous debts, losses, dead, crippled, and a depression that we find so hard to shake off. War means misery, hunger, hardships, death, dictatorship of the worst type, loss, and many other evils too numerous to mention.

VETERAN.

THEN WHY WAIT?

Chicago, April 5.—Down in the Ozarks the whippoorwill sings; crickets and katydids strum the heart strings. The willows are budding, the jonquils are up; soon will come lilacs and sweet buttercup. O, how I long to be down there at last, enjoying the present, forgetting the past. What a glorious privilege, at the final long rest, to sleep in the earth of Missouri's soft breast. MISSOURIAN.

MORAL CAPITULATION.

Chicago, April 8.—Last Saturday afternoon we had in the loop a typical exhibition of moral capitulation. It was calculated to bring joy to the heart of any conniving dictator who is looking for new worlds to conquer.

The long string of police escorted automobiles, which bore antiwar slogans, gave one a sickening feeling that this modern generation would be only too willing to sacrifice all our forebears fought for in order that their own precious hides could be spared. The whole performance could be summed up simply as "Posterity be damned."

No sane person would go looking for a war just for war's sake. But the doctrine of the peace at any price patriot is apt to give the world the false impression that we are developing into a spineless people that would prefer to bend like reeds before the storm, rather than stand up like free born men. ABE.

MORE SPOON LORE.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 6.—Your correspondent, Bernard A. Kramer, defends Dr. Crane in his statement in his Horse Sense column that a tablespoon holds four teaspoons.

Your own cooking expert, Mary Meade, in her column not long ago, gave a list of weights and measures in which she stated that three teaspoons equaled one tablespoon.

This is also given in the bulletin of the American School of Home Economics. It has always been given as a standard measurement in any reputable recipe book or government bulletin? Dr. Crane to the contrary notwithstanding.

Incidentally, Dr. Crane erred in another of his statements regarding the number of cups in a quart. MRS. C. C.

PROBATE NECESSARY.

La Grange, Ill., April 4 [Legal Friend of the People].—Can you please supply me with the information I seek?

Our parents died several years ago and left no will. They owned a small home in Michigan and since their deaths my elder sister has been managing the rent collections, repairs, and paying taxes and water bills.

If we want to dispose of this property [1] would probate court proceedings be necessary? The property is without debts of any kind. Would you be able to please tell me [2] how much the court costs would be and just [3] how to proceed in probating.

4. I have written to Michigan city officers several times regarding this same question and have never received any replies. F. M.

1. In general, probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title, but if the value is small and the family is well known in the community, you might find a purchaser who would be willing to waive the requirement. A local broker could advise you to better advantage than we can.

2. Depends largely on the attorney whom you would employ.

3. Employ an attorney and leave the procedure to him.

4. Presumably your letter should be addressed to the clerk of the Probate court there, rather than to city officials.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, April 4 [Legal Friend of the People].—My father died leaving a lot in another state [Virginia]. He left a will in which he named me as executrix, however [1] the lot is not mentioned in the will as [2] he gave it to me before his death.

3. The deed was never changed to my name, but as executrix I would like to sell the lot in order to settle his bills.

4. What steps would I take to make a legal sale?

5. The taxes are now due. Should I send them in my name or my father's name?

6. If I send the taxes in my father's name should I mention that he is now deceased? L. G.

1. The sufficiency of the will to cover the lot would depend on the presence or absence of general wording.

2. You do not make clear whether the gift was completed by delivery of a deed.

3. If no such step was taken, it is not clear what you mean by saying that he gave it to you.

4. Depends on the facts. See preceding answers. We advise you to have a personal interview with an attorney.

5. If you wish to claim the property it would be more consistent with that position for you to pay in your own name.

6. This would do no harm but we see little importance to the point.

TODAY IN HISTORY

April 13, 1743

Thomas Jefferson born at Shadwell, Albemarle county, Virginia. In his epitaph, which he composed himself, he described himself as "author of the Declaration of American Independence, of the statute of Virginia for religious freedom, and father of the University of Virginia." He modestly overlooked his services as governor of Virginia, congressman, minister to France, secretary of state, and third President of the United States.

INDIANA, APRIL 11: 2 BOYS AND AUNT FREEZE TO DEATH

Jefferson, Ind., April 12 [Special].—A woman and two children lay dead here today, the victims of a seemingly impossible tragedy. They died of exposure last night during a sudden cold wave that interrupted springtime in this southern Indiana area.

Their frozen bodies were found within a mile of the farm home they had left to make a short automobile trip. In the home, the woman's husband slept thru the night, unaware of their futile struggle against freezing temperatures and a sea of mud.

8 Month Old Baby a Victim.

The victims were Mrs. Grace Badger, 35 years old, and her two young nephews, Phillip Frederick Deweese, 8 months old, and his brother, Garland, 3 years old.

The Deweese children, sons of Mrs. Badger's brother, Grover Deweese of New Albany, had been visiting at the Badger farm home at New Market, a hamlet 20 miles from here. Mrs. Badger set out last night about 9 p. m. to take them home.

Inasmuch as the trip was one of only 26 miles—all but three miles on pavement—and Mrs. Badger planned to stay all night in New Albany, her husband, Arthur, a road worker, didn't consider it necessary that he accompany them.

Truck Slides Off Road.

But disaster overtook the trio within a few minutes of their start. Only a mile and a half from the Badger home, their light farm truck slid off the muddy dirt road and became mired. Had they been able to continue the same distance farther they would have been on pavement for the rest of the way.

Tire tracks near the stalled truck showed the futile efforts Mrs. Badger made to get it back on the road. However, a two inch rain during the day, which turned to sleet and snow when the temperature dropped at night, had made the countryside a quagmire.

Unable to extricate the vehicle, Mrs. Badger apparently decided to trudge back home thru the deep mud. The light clothing she and the children wore offered little protection from the 24 degree cold. The cold, her exhaustion from carrying the two children, and panic were believed to have combined to exhaust the struggling woman.

She fell only a half a mile from the mired truck. A mile away in the warm farmhouse, Badger had gone to bed. Not until this morning, when a school bus driver found the bodies, did he learn of the tragedy.

CAPT. SHANAHAN APPOINTED CHIEF OF PARK POLICE

Capt. Roger F. Shanahan yesterday was appointed chief of the Chicago park district police to succeed James B. Kerr, former Chicago police lieutenant, who has headed the park police since Nov. 1, 1938, it was announced by George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district. Capt. Shanahan has been acting chief since Feb. 22, when Kerr was taken ill. Kerr will return to the Chicago force when the appointment becomes effective next Tuesday.

Capt. R. F. Shanahan.

Donoghue also announced the appointment of Lieut. Michael Doyle to fill the vacancy created by Shanahan's promotion.

Shanahan, who is 49 years old, has been with the park police for nearly 25 years. He joined the former West Parks police force as a patrolman in 1915. This force was later consolidated with other park police. Doyle joined the former South Parks police, also consolidated later, in 1912.

Lieut. Kerr became head of the park police in 1938 on leave of absence as head of the Chicago police cartage detail. In that position he had conducted a drive against hijacking, cutting the number of hijackings in Chicago from 84 in 1933 to none in 1938.

POWDER MAGAZINE BLAMED FOR BLAST KILLING 72 MINERS

Columbus, O., April 12 (AP).—A powder magazine was blamed today by George Strain, state director of industrial relations, for the Willow Grove coal mine explosion which killed 72 men March 16. The finding was contested immediately by John Owens, president of District 6, United Mine Workers of America.

Strain said the cause of the powder magazine explosion is unknown. Owens differed with Strain both as to the seat of the first explosion, and the director's finding that "evidence does not support the presence of gas as the probable cause" of the blast.

"I believe an overcharged shot [about 1,000 feet from the powder box] set off the blast," Owens asserted. "Gas was found in the entries every day after the explosion."

ORDER RAILROAD TO PAY THIRD OF VIADUCT'S COST

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday ordered the North Western railroad to pay one-third the cost of a new $450,000 viaduct at Addison street and Lincoln avenue, provided the remaining cost is paid by the city of Chicago and the state and county highway departments. The order was entered by the commission after its investigation found the present viaduct a hazard to motor traffic.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Typical April Scenes.

April 12, 1940.

CHILLY winds, the belated appearance of snow one day this week, and low temperatures couldn't suppress the many signs of spring on the Du Page county farm this week, altho the inclement weather did hush the spring songs of the birds and took some of the life out of the performances of the strutting turkeys. We walked only about 100 paces from the barnyard to find these typical signs of the new season:

The turkeys were strutting in a sort of natural outdoor amphitheater with plum trees as a backdrop. Song, field and vesper sparrows were singing their spring songs. From the Half Moon pond came the honking of the Canada geese. The starlings [rapidly becoming a pest on the farm] were squeaking and whistling in their ridiculous efforts to produce a song as they flew back and forth around the barnyard. Lambs were playing in the orchard.

The entire picture was typical of April, especially the presence of the migrating sparrows which always come north at this time of the year before the fields are green and the first flush of new life has touched the oak woods.

First Vesper Sparrow.

We found our first vesper sparrow of the year along an old rail fence which pursues its zigzag course from the sheep barn to the small woods near Half Moon pond. We walked from the barnyard to the pond to see what the geese were doing and also to learn if any wild mallards were on the water. We hadn't walked more than 50 feet before a sparrow flushed from the tall dead stalks of Queen Anne's lace which still stand close to the rail fence. The white outer tail feathers of this bird signalled its name because this display of white is very conspicuous when the vesper sparrow takes to wing, altho when perched this species looks something like a song sparrow with a heavy tint of buff in its plumage.

The eastern vesper sparrow is a common summer resident in Chicagoland. A number of them nest on the farm each season. When bird fans hike thru Chicagoland to study the spring migration of the sparrows they will not see many open country birds with white outer tail feathers so it is rather easy to identify the vesper sparrow. The commonest open field bird with white outer tail feathers is the meadowlark, an early migrant to northern Illinois and a bird which is known to practically every outdoor fan.

Member of Sparrow Family.

The junco is another species that has this distinctive marking on its plumage. It, too, is no stranger to the bird enthusiasts because it stays with us all winter. But the distinctive brownish gray plumage of the vesper and the chestnut colored patch at the bend of its wings mark this member of the sparrow family.

We can see an increase in the number of starlings on the farm this spring. When we walked thru one stand of woods it was apparent that many of the mated pairs already have selected the tree cavities in which they will nest. They are taking over cavities made by woodpeckers and some must be appropriating holes which the squirrels have been using. Last year a pair found a hole made by woodpeckers in a big maple tree which stands near the sheep barn. This discovery by the starlings meant good-by to the woodpeckers. The starlings have ousted them, thus playing the rôle that has won them the condemnation of bird fans.

SEIZE COAL MAN ON CHARGES OF RELIEF FRAUDS

Dealer Denies He Gave Rebates on Orders.

Albert Stolz, wealthy coal dealer of Blue Island and Midlothian, last night was arrested by Lieut. Fred Muhlhausen of the Homewood county highway police on a warrant charging larceny and embezzlement "in excess of $2,000." He was taken before Justice of the Peace Arthur Dillner of Dolton and released in $10,000 bonds.

The warrant for Stolz's arrest was signed by Gerald Griffen, a fraud investigator for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Griffen has been investigating the mysterious destruction by fire of the Bremen township relief office on Feb. 25. He said that Stolz has been one of the major purveyors of coal to the reliefers in the township.

The relief office, at 147th street and Cleveland avenue near Posen, was set afire by an unknown arsonist the day after auditors from the IERC began a routine audit of the township's relief books. James Bennette, the relief office bookkeeper, has been sought since the fire.

Charges Rebates on Coal.

"Stolz was making rebates to Bennette on overpayments for coal delivered to reliefers and dealt with Bennette in making a profit on relief disbursing orders," Griffen said.

After his release from the highway police jail Stolz was reached at his home, 12960 Maple avenue, in Blue Island. His coal yard is at 14900 South Crawford avenue in Midlothian.

"I never rebated anything to Bennette or anybody else in the Bremen township office," Stolz asserted. "In the summer of 1938 Bennette came to me and asked me if I wanted to buy relief orders on grocers from wholesale houses at 75 cents on the dollar. Bennette said the wholesalers, to whom the relief orders had been given by the grocers, did not want to wait for the relief office to pay for these orders.

Stolz Denies Accusations.

"I bought several thousand dollars' worth of the orders from Bennette at 75 cents on the dollar. I made the checks for these orders payable to Bennette. About a month or five weeks after I'd buy a batch Bennette would pay me in full for them with a check on the relief funds.

"These checks were signed by Otto Ziebell, the township relief administrator, and I thought they were all right. I bought the relief orders in the same way I sometimes buy tax warrants at a discount and hold them for a profit.

"If it can be shown that I cheated the relief office in any way I'll make good on the amount within 24 hours."

Lieut. Muhlhausen disclosed that his men arrested Arthur Reiher, operator of a gasoline station at 147th street and Cicero avenue in Midlothian on Thursday night for conspiracy. Muhlhausen said that Reiher cashed forged relief checks issued by Bennette.

CAR BLACKS OUT NEAR NORTH SIDE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Traffic lights in most of the near north side were put out of commission last night by an automobile accident.

Lights immediately went out in the area bounded by Division and Kinzie streets and Clark street and Wabash avenue. City engineers said it may take a day or two before the service is restored to normal.

3 Blocks of Addison Street Will Be Closed for Repairs

Addison street will be closed for repairs between Halsted street and Lake Shore drive beginning Monday and for about four days following, Otto K. Jelinek, traffic engineer for the Chicago Park district, said yesterday. East and westbound buses of the Chicago Motor Coach company will use Waveland avenue as a detour around the three blocks to be closed off.

BOY, 5, IS KILLED BY AUTO ON ROAD NEAR ELMHURST

Patrick Kelley, 5 years old, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home on state route 54 on the outskirts of Elmhurst in Du Page county. J. G. Deaton of Western Springs was the driver of the car.

Miss Louise Wylie, 38 years old, a blind proofreader of Braille books on a WPA project, was injured seriously at Ogden and Spaulding avenues by a car driven by Alex Voytovich, a radio inspector. They live in the same building at 1817 South Spaulding avenue.

Mrs. Constance Sawakin, 35 years old, of Winthrop Harbor, Ill., died in Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan of injuries suffered Thursday when the car in which she was riding ran off the road and struck a tree near Kenosha, Wis. Mrs. Sawakin's husband, Bernard, driver of the machine, was killed instantly.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 246 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 188 were killed in Chicago, where 5,643 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

TICKET SELLERS TAKE STAND AT LOTTERY TRIAL

Santa Fe, N. M., April 12 (AP).—The prosecution unfolded before a federal jury today a picture of an interstate lottery ticket distribution organization set up to handle a proposed New Mexico "benefit" sweepstakes in 1938.

The story was told by sweepstake ticket distributors at the trial of Mrs. Oliver Harriman of New York and four co-defendants on charges of conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

Typical of the testimony was that of John M. Collette, Idaho Falls, Idaho, beauty shop owner, slot machine operator and former night club proprietor.

Collette testified that agents for the Harriman Institute for Social Research had offered him a chance in May, 1938, "to get in on a good proposition, which was strictly legitimate and better than the [slot] machines."

The institute is headed by Mrs. Harriman and was organized to promote legalized lotteries. It sought in New Mexico to promote a $10,000,000 lottery to establish an endowment fund for Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children.

Police Raid in Gary Bares Still and Marijuana Store

A still and a marijuana cigaret store were uncovered last night in a raid by police on a basement flat at 1128 Jefferson street, Gary. Frank Campos, 32 years old, a Mexican, was arrested and turned over to federal authorities. Sergt. Robert Bard and Detectives Millard Matovina and Marshall Leach said they found several barrels of mash, more than five gallons of grain alcohol, still equipment, about eight pounds of marijuana in bulk, and some 200 cigarets.

MR. B. TOSSES IN TOWEL AND 5 YEAR BATTLE IS ENDED

Judge John C. Lewe, on the bench in Superior court, yesterday sat back with the relaxed and blissful expression of a man who has had a cinder in his eye for years, then finds it unexpectedly removed.

Judge John C. Lewe.

The divorce case of the rival cinder dealers, James Bransfield and his wife, Clara, reached a settlement. The couple, who have come to be known as the Battling Bransfields, began their court clashes the day after Christmas, 1935. They came up for the 54th round yesterday. Both battlers looked fresh and ready to mix it; the referee, Judge Lewe, appeared worn and weary.

But the judge beamed when Norman Becker, attorney for Bransfield, announced his client had abandoned hope for a reconciliation and would agree to a divorce. Judge Lewe instructed Becker and Irving Eisenman, representing Bransfield, and Robert E. Cantwell Jr. and Daniel P. Nagle, attorneys for his wife, to arrange for payments by Bransfield to support the three Bransfield children. The attorneys agreed that Mrs. Bransfield's charges of cruelty and misconduct in her divorce bill should be changed to a charge of desertion.

A TENNIS CHAMP WINS NEW TITLE BY A HAIR OR TWO

Charles Shostrom, 22 years old, 7134 Harvard avenue, the Big Ten tennis champion, added another title yesterday. His blond mustache, which sprouted half an inch in the two weeks allowed for the contest, won him first place in the annual Blackfriars' mustache race among senior men at the University of Chicago.

Sixteen survivors of the field of 75 were dunked in the Botany pond after judging was completed. The judge was the university's most celebrated mustache expert, E. N. Bradford, head barber at the Reynolds club.

Shostrom was presented with a loving cup. Melvin A. Rosenfeld, 642 Waveland avenue, won the booby prize. After examining Melvin's upper lip under a microscope, Judge Bradford said:

"There, my boy, is the nearest thing to no mustache at all that I have ever seen." He gave Rosenfeld a bottle of hair tonic.

WEATHER MAN PROMISES TODAY WILL BE MILDER

Milder temperatures than those which prevailed in Chicago yesterday are promised for today. Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the low this morning would be about 30 degrees and indicated a maximum in the 40s would be reached in the afternoon.

Yesterday's minimum was 24 above zero, and there were snow flurries. The all-time low for April 12 in Chicago was 21, registered last year.

Douglas Park 'L' Midday Express Run Opens Monday

The new midday express service on the Douglas Park branch of the elevated line will be started Monday, the Chicago Rapid Transit company announced yesterday. Officials said the express service, running from about 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., except Sundays and holidays, will cut 6½ minutes from the running time between the loop and the terminal at Oak Park avenue.

MRS. HARRIETT A. FREEMAN DEAD.

Geneseo, Ill., April 12 [Special].—Mrs. Harriett A. Freeman, 78 years old, native of Sweden who has lived in Geneseo more than 70 years, died today. Surviving are five sons, Altheus, John, Harry, Wilbur, and Henry, all of Geneseo, and four daughters, Edith Freeman of Chicago, Ines Freeman of Geneseo, Mrs. Carl Gustafson of Lynn Center, and Mrs. George Lewis of Geneseo.

AUTOIST GETS 10 DAY SENTENCE TO JAIL FOR DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Judge Frank M. Padden in Safety court yesterday sentenced Henry J. Borsch, 4025 North Kolmar avenue, to 10 days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated; Roy G. Hurd, 245 North Long avenue, got five days for reckless driving.

COLD WAVE HITS ILLINOIS CROPS; INVADES SOUTH

Springfield, Ill., April 12 [Special].—Fears of serious crop damage in Illinois were expressed today on the basis of weather bureau predictions that the state would be penetrated by the late thrust of winter which is moving far down into the south.

Meteorologist E. W. Holcomb predicted that the temperature in central Illinois would dip to 28 degrees tonight and that frost would coat farm fields in which winter wheat stands and oats are in tender stages.

Unusually severe damage would be caused by such a cold wave, it is believed, inasmuch as the growth of grains and produce was reported by a government agricultural expert to be much later than usual.

Holcomb said that altho wheat probably would withstand the frost, oats above the soil quite likely would be adversely affected. A government report said that about three-fourths of the oat crop was sown in the southern part of the state and half sown in the northern part.

Meteorologist Holcomb said low temperatures last night were critical for fruit crops in bloom but explained he was unable to estimate the extent of the damage.

AUTO TITLE ACT SECTION RULED TO BE ILLEGAL

Springfield, Ill., April 12 (AP).—Circuit Judge L. E. Stone today ruled that section 4 of the uniform motor vehicle antitheft act requiring payment of $25 for certificates of title on new automobiles purchased in other states but licensed in Illinois was unconstitutional.

Judge Stone described the act as discriminatory in that purchasers of new cars had to pay the fee, whereas persons buying used or repossessed autos in neighboring states and licensing them in Illinois, were not subject to the provisions.

Charles Clements, who bought an auto in Hammond, Ind., was the plaintiff in the case. He paid the $25 certification fee to the secretary of state under protest and then filed a petition in Circuit court to compel the secretary of state to issue him a certificate of title without paying the $25.

COMISKEY WIDOW SUED IN DISPUTE OVER APARTMENT

A suit was filed in Superior court yesterday in which it was alleged that Mrs. Grace Reidy Comisky is planning to move from her apartment at 5555 Everett avenue and take part of the apartment with her. She is the widow of J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the White Sox.

Attorney Henry L. Kohn, representing the owners of the building, asked an injunction forbidding Mrs. Comiskey from moving out eight doors, three walls, and seven chandeliers. According to the petition, the doors and walls are of oak, designed, with the chandeliers, to match the rest of the apartment, and would be difficult to replace.

Kohn said Mrs. Comiskey informed him that she purchased the items and had them installed in the apartment.

Engagement of J. W. Valentine Is Announced

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY at a tea in Auburn, N. Y., announcement will be made of the engagement of Miss Olivia Osborne to Joseph Willard Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loring Valentine of Ritchie court. The tea is being given at the home of Miss Osborne's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devens Osborne. Miss Osborne's father, David Munson Osborne, who is making the formal announcement, is connected with the American hospital in Paris.

Mr. Valentine is in Auburn for the announcement party, and so are his parents and his brother and sister, John W. Valentine of Bedford, N. Y., and Mrs. Newton S. Noble Jr. of Barrington. Mrs. John Valentine and Mr. Noble are there also. They all will be back in Auburn in June, probably, for the wedding will take place in that month.

Miss Osborne is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mott Osborne of Auburn, and the daughter of the late Mrs. Dorothy Dexter Osborne of Boston. She is a graduate of Oldfields school in Glencoe, Md., and made her debut in Boston in the winter of 1934-'35 at a dinner-dance given by her greataunt, Mrs. James J. Storrow. She is a member of the Vincent club and the Boston Junior league.

Grandson Is Born in Ranney-Ryerson Clan.

The little son born Thursday at the Lying-In hospital to Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney Jr. is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and the second of Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Sr. Young Mrs. Ranney was Miss Nancy Ryerson before her marriage. The Ranneys' elder daughter, Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley, and Mr. Donnelley have a 2 year old son. The baby is to be named for his father and grandfather.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hampton Ripley are receiving congratulations on the birth of their fourth child, a girl, on Thursday at the Evanston hospital. The baby is a grandchild of Mrs. Robert H. Ripley of Winnetka and of Mrs. Willing D. Kirk of Glencoe.

The daughter born on March 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Ledyard Stevens Bowen of Scarsdale, N. Y., is the fifth great-grandchild of Mrs. Joseph Tilton Bowen. The baby, who has a 2½ year old brother, Ledyard Jr., has been named Carol Elizabeth.

Illinois College of Medicine Auxiliary Giving Musical.

The woman's auxiliary of the University of Illinois College of Medicine is giving a musical and reception tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Cordon club for the benefit of its charitable work. Margery Maxwell, soprano, with Rhea Shelters as accompanist, will give the program.

Chicago alumnæ of Wells college and fathers of alumnæ will give a luncheon for Dr. W. E. Weld, president of the college, at 12:30 o'clock today at the Union League club. Dr. Weld will discuss the current building fund campaign for $1,000,000, to erect a new dormitory, an infirmary, an addition to the library, and an arts center.

The Italy-America society has cards out for a soirée on Friday, April 26, at 8:30 o'clock at the Casino club. There will be music, and Col. Donald Armstrong of the United States army will speak on "Modern Aspects of the Roman Army."

Invitations are out for the 17th annual dinner-dance of the Madonna center, which will be held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House on April 27.

Cliff Dwellers Announce Picasso Costume Party.

"The entertainment committee of the Cliff Dwellers, hoping your original mood of undefiled essence may be brought to a receptive aspect and take objective form on the evening of Saturday, April 27, invites you, your ladies and friends to participate in a Gone with Picasso costume party to be given in the clubrooms on that evening," read announcements received yesterday by the club members.

The affair will be a dinner and dance, starting at 8 o'clock.

Their Mothers Plan Infant Welfare Benefit

Latter Day St. Thomas Aquinas.

Jacques Maritain, professor at the Institut Catholique in France, follower of Aristotle and Aquinas and great contemporary writer and teacher of science and philosophy, left Chicago this week with Mme. Maritain after giving a series of lectures at the University of Chicago. The Maritains stayed with the John U. Nefs, had many friendly evenings of conversation in the Nef drawing room, went twice to see the Origins of Art exhibit at the Arts club, and M. Maritain talked unofficially before a French group at International house and before the Alliance Française. M. Maritain, a handsome man with a classic look to his pale features, lectured on Human Liberty, The Diversity of Creeds, Human Equality, and Plans for a European Federation After the War.

One evening after dinner at the Nefs, during a discussion of great authors and books, those present made up a list of the 18 authors whom they consider to have written the greatest books in the world. The Bible was put first on the list. The 17 greatest authors: Homer, St. Thomas Aquinas, Shakespeare, Æschylus, Sophocles, Plato, Aristotle, Plotinus, Virgil, St. Augustine, Dante, Cervantes, Chaucer, Pascal ,Goethe, Tolstoy, Dostoevsky.

Mortimer Adler, who lists 113 great authors and their greatest works at the end of his How to Read a Book, adds a list of contemporary authors. The verdict of history will determine whether the works of these men are truly great and should be added, in time, to the main list, he says in his book. He puts four of Jacques Maritain's books on the contemporary list.

TO OSCAR LEVANT.

I cannot conceal that your book had appeal
With its humor and bitterness mingling,
But now the renditions of famous musicians
All leave me with nary a tingling!
Why did you insist on clearing the mist
Of glamor we'd woven around them,
By lifting the veils on the musical males?
It was nice to have mystery surround them!

Songless Saginaw.

A friend of John B. Gibson in La Grange telephoned Western Union the other evening in order to send one of those singing birthday messages to her cousin in Saginaw, Mich.

"Just a moment, please," said the telegraph operator. Then, after a moment's silence, "I'm sorry, but we do not sing in Saginaw."

BY CECIL SMITH.

"Tropical Pinafore," the maiden venture of the newly formed American Negro Light Opera association, comes off with a good deal of success, once the audience has adjusted itself to the surprising discovery that no attempt has been made to get most of the music into any up-to-the-minute groove, or indeed to swing it at all. The "hot" element is unimportant in the performance, and when it exists at all it is much less happily handled than the long sections which are presented in more traditional style.

Apart from the excellent singing of most of the principals, whose vocal average is higher than that of any previous colored Gilbert and Sullivan cast, the musical side of the performance profits from the robust, dependable singing of Ramon B. Girvin's well trained and well endowed chorus. The choral episodes are delivered with musical taste and often with thrilling tone.

The costumes are designed by John Pratt, who also dressed the Federal theater's celebrated production of "The Mikado" last year. Running true to form, the costumes are waywardly imaginative, with brilliant colors and amusing details, such as the elaborate turbans and bows and candy striped materials with which Mr. Pratt loves to work. Buttercup's dress, an astounding medley of multicolored plaid designs, is especially refreshing.

The chief drawback of the production, at least as it was revealed at the opening, is that it is neither flesh nor fowl. If the prevailing manner of presenting the music is to be conscientiously traditional, why go to the trouble of dressing it fantastically, and why interpolate tantalizing bits of voodoo dance and undeveloped fragments of jitterbug material?

If, on the other hand, the intention was to exploit the dancers trained by Katharine Dunham, why not conceive a performance in which they have adequate opportunity to exploit their material? As it is, the dances usually seem to stop just when they are about to get good.

Lacking real unity of purpose, the performance sometimes seriously loses movement and direction. Some of the choruses are sung statically and, what is even more uninteresting, in the dark. The subprofessional character of the thin orchestral score, played by a handful of strings struggling vainly against two trumpets, a trombone, a noisy piano, and percussion, and the consistent inadequacy of the lighting both rob the production of some of the vitality it needs.

Among individual performers the singing of La Julia Rhea, Napoleon Reed, and Don Pierson stands out, usually effective, sometimes musical, and occasionally exciting. Miss Rhea's voice is one of unusual potentialities. All the principals are at ease on the stage, tho Frank Palmer's Dick Deadeye is colorless and George Bizzelle's Sir Joseph Porter runs toward extreme affectation.

"Tropical Pinafore" deserves to enjoy some prosperity. It is not a total artistic success, but it does provide a great deal of honest enjoyment.

Looking at Hollywood — by Ed Sullivan

Butlers.

Hartford, Conn., April 13.—At just what stage of civilization appeared the butler is difficult to determine. . . . Undoubtedly the Persians, the Romans and the Greeks had majordomos who supervised large villas which required huge staffs of servants, but for all practical purposes the butler came to life in Hollywood in the late 1920's. . . . Today, tho few families in the country actually employ butlers, Hollywood has made them so well known, as a class, that if Joe Doakes were invited to the Vanderbilt home, Joe wouldn't be at all feazed if the butler met him at the door. . . . Doakes wouldn't commit the faux pas that Max Baer achieved when he was invited as heavyweight champion to a soirée at Southampton, N. Y. . . . When the butler flung open the door Max shoved out his hand and shook hands with him, thinking that any one who wore tails must be the host.

For the last several weeks I have been traveling about the country with one of Hollywood's more famous butlers, 6 foot 4 Arthur Treacher, and it is amazing to observe the reaction of theater audiences and people in the street. . . . Of course, they identify him immediately, and when he surveys them lugubriously and clips his sentences they double up with mirth. . . . Treacher is known for his acid portraits of butlers on the screen. . . . He is always sneering at his employers or examining the guests with ill concealed hauteur. . . . Treacher always conveys the impression that a gentleman's gentleman is more of a gentleman than the gentlemen who visit the gentleman who employs the gentleman's gentleman, if you follow me thru that alliterative labyrinth. . . . Perhaps because Treacher symbolizes labor vs. capital, with labor coming off the winner, the movie fans hold him in high favor. . . . The minute he shows up on the stage audiences start chuckling.

Treacher's supercilious attitude, as a butler, was adopted rather accidentally. . . . He was cast as a butler for the first time in a picture that Director Chuck Reisner was making. . . . And Treacher, with quite an extensive stage background, was furious that he had been given an inferior part. . . . He knew that he was a better actor than the stars of the flicker and he was more than faintly annoyed at Hollywood's lack of discernment. . . . To make it more aggravating, the femme star was condescending. . . . "You know," she said smugly to Treacher, "you are as tall as my husband?" . . . Treacher looked at her coldly: "Re-ly," he said, injecting all of his scorn for her in one word. . . . She glared at him, the prop men laughed. . . . Reisner called Treacher over and asked him what he had said to the star. . . . Treacher told him. . . . "Play the part exactly like that," directed Chuck enthusiastically. "That will be a new type of butler." . . . So the 6 foot 4 Englishman has been curling his lip contemptuously ever since and looking dourly at the people who pay his butler salaries.

The screen has given us a lot of fine butler rôles. . . . In "Ruggles of Red Gap" the picture was highlighted by Charles Laughton, and under Leo McCarey's direction Laughton's performance kept building and building until his delivery of the Gettysburg address, which made you catch your breath. . . . The situation was a natural, that of an Englishman explaining Lincoln's classic to native-born Americans who had repeated it so often that the words lost all meaning.

In Bob Montgomery's last picture, "Earl of Chicago," it was Edmund Gwenn as the butler who contributed one of the finest supporting rôles of the early year. . . . You'll recall that Montgomery, as the American hoodlum, learned of the proud tradition of the British family from which he descended, from the butler. . . . And when Montgomery was going to the gallows it was the butler's "It's a breeze, m'Lord," that audiences remembered most vividly. Gwenn's butler was a characterization in the most dignified tradition and it was a gem of purest ray serene.

It is a matter of considerable interest to note how well these butlers of the screen have fared for a good many years. . . . In addition to Treacher and Gwenn, it is no trick of memory to recall Edward Everett Horton, the late Herbert Mundin, Eric Blore, Allan Mowbray, Melville Cooper. . . . All of these have spiced their rôles with comedy touches that tickle the audience funnybones, and as comedy is a vital ingredient in show business, the butlers get steady work at very excellent wages in the movie studios.

Just how do the real butlers of the country react to their screen prototypes? Well, not so many moons ago the butlers of the New York area elected Arthur Treacher as their honorary president. . . . In the citation that accompanied the scroll the real butlers commented on the fact that Treacher had presented their profession in a dignified manner, and that the humor he had won in his rôles was good for the morale of the butlers. . . . He has it framed in his home. . . . The 46 year old Britisher is very proud of it.

Gun Bought Grant

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The governor agrees to give Sam $25,000 in addition to full pardon for all crimes accredited to him if he will persuade Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of his canyons. Sam goes to work for Drury and has a run-in with his worthless son, Steve, and his pretty but spoiled daughter, Celia. Sam advises Matt to give Steve a small stake of his own and make Celia manage her father's household. Drury takes this advice and both his children leave in a huff. Celia gets a job in a restaurant, and Steve, getting the canyon property as his stake, goes into partnership with Bales, planning to make the governor pay them instead of Sam. Bales captures Sam, takes his gun and leaves him tied up. Sam breaks loose, but upon his return to town he is arrested for Steve's [illegible] found near Steve's body. Matt wants Sam hanged, but Pearly, Matt's foreman, convinced of Sam's innocence, resigns, buys a stable next to the jail and digs Sam out. With dynamite Pearly and Sam change the course of the river that determines the boundary of the land Santee plans to sell the railroad, thus preventing the sale. Celia begins to see Sam's way and begs him to protect her father and his interests. Santee gets a court order to change the river back. Pearly and Sam commandeer a wagon load of gold ore and dump it into the dry river bed. When Santee, the sheriff, and workmen arrive to change the river back, they find gold. A stampede starts and the workmen persuade the sheriff to lock Santee in jail to keep him from flooding their stakes. Fearing Santee will learn his and Pearly's trick, Sam returns to town planning to lock the sheriff in jail to prevent him from carrying out Santee's court order. Not knowing Santee is jailed, Sam is taken unawares and is locked up. Bales is let out. Celia smuggles a gun to Sam, but he refuses it as it might incriminate her. He is taken to the city prison. A gun and powder, which Sam finds out is flour, are sneaked into Sam's food, and he realizes it is a trick of Santee's to get Sam to make a vain attempt to escape. Sam makes a dagger out of the steel, knocks out the guard and escapes with the guard's gun. Santee, thinking the gold stampeds has ruined his chance of selling the right of way, plans to kidnap Celia for ransom.

KIDNAPPED.

Santee continued giving his instructions to Rhodes.

"You tell four of the boys to drift over to this boom camp on the Rio Medio tomorrow and act like they've come to try their luck. They'll split up. When the hell pops, there'll be a posse formed out there, and they'll be in it. We will know every move it makes."

"You still ain't told me my job."

"You drift into Trabajo tomorrow and get them used to seein' you. Keep your mouth shut, hang around the Chamisa saloon and stay away from the Gem café. I'll meet you there in a week."

"But the job," Rhodes prompted.

Santee shook his head. "I ain't thought it out yet. Whatever it is, tho, it'll be tough. And you don't have to go thru with it unless you want."

He stood up. "Better drift out and get the boys movin'. Pick 'em careful, Rhodes, and tell them there's a stake in it for them when I swing it."

They went downstairs, Rhodes going out to the camp to give orders, Santee to get a room, after which he ate and went to bed.

A week later, Santee drifted into the Chamisa saloon in Trabajo, bought a drink, and in the bar mirror saw Rhodes in a chair against the wall by a poker table watching the game. When he was certain that Rhodes had seen him, he paid for his drink and left. Outside, in the darkness below the Chamisa, he waited until Rhodes came out, then he walked to the corner, turned right, and pulled up in the mouth of the alley.

Once deep in its shadows, Santee said, "Leave anything at the hotel they can identify you by?"

"You won't need that," Santee said grimly. Then he outlined his plan and Rhodes listened carefully. When Santee was finished, Rhodes said, "You're sure this freak shoe won't lame this pony?"

"No. I rode him for 14 hours day before yesterday." He paused, "Well, want to try it?"

"I'll need cash."

"Here's five hundred."

Rhodes took the money, put it in his pocket and hoisted his pants. "Let's go," he said quietly.

"Give me half an hour," Santee said, and vanished down the alley.

Rhodes loafed about the darkened plaza for half an hour; then, the time up, he moved with decision. He went to the livery stable, got his horse, and headed for the alley that ran behind the Gem Café. True to what Santee had told him, there was a saddled horse tied to a shed just this side of the rear of the Gem Café.

Rhodes picked it up, and stopped at the back door of the Gem and dismounted. Without knocking, he opened the door and peered in. Double-Jack was mixing up a great batch of dough on the big table in the center of the kitchen. The kitchen was warm and smelled of yeast, and big circles of perspiration dampened the back of Double-Jack's shirt.

"Come in," he growled, and Rhodes, acting like a shy puncher, stepped inside and closed the door.

"Miss Drury here?" he asked.

"Sure. What you want with her?"

"Her old man's sick."

Double-Jack paused, his hands in the dough up to his wrists. "Matt? Hell, he was in here this afternoon."

"I know it. He was took sudden."

"What is it?"

Rhodes shrugged.

Double-Jack took his hands from the dough, wiped them on his apron and disappeared thru the door that led to the front. In a moment he followed Celia into the kitchen.

"You say dad's sick?" Celia asked Rhodes.

"'Yes'm. Nick sent me in to get you. I got a horse outside waitin'."

"Is it bad?"

"He didn't say, Miss."

Celia went upstairs, came down in a moment wearing a divided skirt, and said, "All right."

Rhodes helped her into the saddle, then they turned up the alley, skirted the plaza and headed out the road toward the Star 22.

Celia didn't talk much, but asked once, "Did you fetch the doctor?"

"Yes'm. 'Fore I got you."

"Aren't you new at the spread?"

"Yes'm. One week."

Once on the flats, Celia lifted her horse into a long lope, and Rhodes kept even with her. They had ridden perhaps 20 minutes when ahead of them there appeared a light on the road. As they drew closer, it appeared to be a team and buckboard coming toward them, a lantern on the floor of the buckboard.

It was then that Rhodes reached out, took hold of the bridle on Celia's horse. "Pull up a minute, Miss."

"Why?"

"This may be some news from your dad."

Celia obeyed, and Rhodes dismounted and walked around to the left side of her horse. Celia was watching the approaching buckboard. Suddenly she said. "That's not news from dad. That's Santee Bales!"

Even as she was speaking Rhodes reached up, grabbed her by the waist, and pulled her out of the saddle. It took all his tough and wiry strength to hold her off the ground, for she was fighting and kicking.

Santee, approaching, called, "Ready, Rhodes."

There was another man with Santee. He stood on the floor of the buckboard, and as the buckboard passed, he reached out and took Celia from Rhodes. The buckboard did not even stop.

Celia fought like a wildcat, but the man simply pinned her arms to her side, lifted her feet off the wagon bed, and sat her down abruptly. "Quiet now, Miss. Nobody's goin' to hurt you."

Santee was standing up now, looking back at Rhodes. "Light a match and make sure, Rhodes. And good luck," he called.

Rhodes, without moving his feet, struck a match on his pants and in its flare examined the deep dust of the road. All that appeared to the observant eye were the tracks of a team and buckboard heading east without stopping. Also on the road appeared the tracks of a man, dismounted, by two horses. Satisfied, Rhodes blew out the match, put it in his pocket, went around to his own horse and mounted, then gathered in the reins of Celia's pony. He left the road a hundred yards beyond, heading across the country.

Santee, relieved when he saw the match go out, sat down and said, "Blow the lantern, Jim. Then put her up on the seat between us."

Celia, who had ceased fighting by now so the puncher would remove his hands from her arms, said, "Where are you taking me?"

"A trip to the mountains," Santee drawled. "Nothin's goin' to hurt you if you'll be reasonable. Otherwise, we got to gag and tie you." Celia didn't answer and Santee said, "You hear?"

"Yes."

"What'll it be?"

"Is dad sick?"

"No. That was a trick to get you away from town."

"But you're taking me back."

Santee drew a deep breath. "Listen, Miss Drury. I know what I'm doin'. I asked you a question. You want to be gagged and tied, or don't you?"

"I don't."

"Then sit up here between us." Celia did, for there was plenty of room on the seat of the buckboard. Santee went on, "I never hit a woman in my life, Miss, but I'm goin' to tell you somethin'. We're goin' to go around the town by the back streets and go out across the bridge on the other side. If you open your mouth to yell, you'll get hit. You'll get hit so hard your mouth will be too sore to yell for a month. You understand that?"

"I do," Celia said coldly. "This is a kidnaping, of course."

"That's right. Now you know everything. So sit calm and just watch us work it out."

Celia had no choice.

Good Morning!

I hand you this morning, with joy and thanksgiving, the news that a really classy "musical" has come to town!

Sho!—it tells another "backstage" story, and those as a rule are so much alike that they should sell for a nickel a dozen. But "Broadway Melody of 1940" is an exception.

One solo dance number by Mr. Astaire—in which he pays terpsichorean and pantomimic tribute to a supposedly absent and indifferent lady, should alone be enough to sell the show. Add to this some great team and ensemble numbers by Mr. Astaire and Miss Powell, Messrs. Astaire and Murphy, Miss Powell and Murphy, plus many offerings in the song and dance line and you have a musical background that's not to be sneezed at.

The story picks up Johnny Brett and King Shaw, a pair of clever hoofers down on their luck and, thru a trick of Lady Luck, lands the least expert, King Shaw, as leading man to the popular dancing star, Clare Bennett.

Success goes to his head and slows up his feet and King would have been a total flop but for persistent and secret coaching by his buddy. Both men have fallen in love with Clare.

And now enters largely into the scheme of things the DEMON RUM! It lays King low at a psychological moment and proves an angel in disguise to Johnny.

I won't say I didn't miss Ginger Rogers. She and Astaire belong together in this humble deponent's opinion. But Eleanor Powell, who lays no claim to being a great actress, is a pleasing and sincere person, and you all know that she can dance.

George Murphy's art adds luster. A grand dancer and trouper! Frank Morgan scores as an ebullient impresario, forever discovering the most atrocious new talent, and forever cherishing a gorgeous ermine coat which he bestows—for the evening only!—on the various blondes who favor him with their company.

Hope you like the piece. Think you will.

See you tomorrow.

MINT SAUCE FOR LAMB: Now it comes in bottles, ready to pour over sliced roast lamb or lamb chops. The sauce may also be used in salads. It contains finely chopped mint leaves and is amber colored rather than green. Made by the manufacturer of a large line of fine canned foods, it's to be found in many a grocery store.

SARDINE FILETS IN WINE SAUCE: A California company which packs sardines in olive oil and tomato sauce also puts up filets in wine. You'll like these for Sunday night supper or late snacks.

CHOPPED RIPE OLIVES: Don't forget that it's possible to buy chopped ripe olives in the can. They're a great convenience for salads and scalloped vegetable or fish dishes. Don't forget, either, that the green-ripe olives are meaty and delicate in flavor and vie with ripe olives for buffet table honors. And remember that juice drained from any kind of olives is delicious in soups and sauces. Don't ever pour it down the drain!

CANNED MACARONI IN CHEESE SAUCE: You may not care especially for this just as it comes from the can, but it's a wonderful base for a scalloped dish. The sauce is spicy and with tomatoes, vegetables, shrimps, or some such addition you can have a delectable luncheon casserole.

BREADING MEAL: Makers of Idaho potato meal have a new blended potato meal and cornmeal mix for breading chops, fish and vegetables to be fried. The meal gives a crisp, golden coating of excellent flavor.

FANCY SUGAR CUBES: These aren't new, but with spring tea parties and bride-to-be showers in prospect, hostesses may welcome the reminder. Fancy groceries and downtown department stores carry sugar cubes with delicate flower designs on them in pastel colors. These are fun for tea or coffee on special occasions.

SOUTH AMERICAN FRUITS: From Argentina come green and fat, sweet, purple grapes, from Chile peaches to rush the season. They're rather expensive, so housewives aren't crowding the market to buy them, but they are welcome sights in fruit store windows.

Speaking of fruits, did you ever try a pineapple-strawberry shortcake, using the fresh fruits and the old-fashioned biscuit base? Good with cream, whipped cream, or whipped cream and cream cheese.

ANOTHER NEW COOK BOOK: "Edith Barber's Cookbook," G. P. Putnam's Sons, is a usable and attractive book of menus and recipes, written by a food columnist. Illustrations are in color, recipes in most convenient form. The price is $2.50 at any good book store.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

It's a long jump from house cleaning to a fashion show, but it occurred to us that the solution of two problems connected with both of them can be found in a combination package of excellent hand cream and a soothing skin lotion. This is how it is:

At a recent fashion show, while taking in the 18 inch from the floor hemlines and the knee length play socks that leave the bare knees right out in the open, we could not help thinking that there was going to be a lot more work for the girls to do to keep their grooming up to standard. The short, short skirts mean that more skin surface shows thru the sheer stockings and the knee length hose do not cover the knees. We'd bet most women have forgotten they have them so far as creaming them to keep them smooth. Now it's going to have to be different.

To keep the skin smooth, rub on a thin, creamy almond scented lotion that is quickly absorbed. It can be used over all the body and is bland enough to serve as a light powder base for sensitive skin. To make and keep the knees lovely, we'd suggest the additional use of the hand cream that is the running mate of the lotion. It's one of those delightfully scented creams, pink in color, and light in texture that makes hand care a pleasure.

It's always been one of our favorites, but the other day we were reminded of its virtue by a woman who asserted she had the world's worst hands, and the fact that her household duties reached from the kitchen to the chicken coop [she lived in the country] really presented a problem. She had been using this cream and it worked such wonders for her that she just had to tell us about it. We're only human after all, so of course were pleased to have our opinion confirmed.

Since it is house cleaning time, we couldn't resist mentioning the fact that this cream is a most efficient protective, well worth your consideration.

FLORENCE MURDOCH.

French Envoy Is Welcomed at Tea, Dinner

BY SUZETTE FARMER.

The audience that assembled in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House last night to hear the French ambassador, Count René de St. Quentin speak, was almost a duplicate of the one that crowded the same room one night early in January to listen to the British ambassador, Lord Lothian, talk on much the same subject.

"France at War" was the subject chosen by the president of the Council on Foreign Relations, Donald McPherson, as the count's subject, altho the speaker said he would choose as a subtitle "From Peace to Peace." Last night's meeting and the one at which the British ambassador talked on "The War in Europe" were both arranged by the council.

Count de St. Quentin sat between Mrs. Laird Bell and Mr. McPherson at dinner. Mrs. Bell, tall and distinguished, was in Burgundy red, and Mrs. McPherson was smart in black with white orchids on one shoulder.

Among others who attended the dinner were the British Consul and Mrs. Lewis Bernays, Mrs. Graham Aldis, the Clay Judsons, the John Paul Wellings, the John Alden Carpenters, Robert H. McCormick, the Charles S. Deweys, the William B. Hales, the Silas H. Strawns, Frank McNair, Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde and Miss Sarah Hinde.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, the Harold Pynchons, the Leonard Karchers, James W. Rogers, the Eugene Talbots, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, the Ernest Ballards, the Howard Willets, Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Warren, the Lessing Rosenthals, Mrs. Dudley Root, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Morris, the Joseph E. Otises, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Magnuson, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Dr. and Dallas Phemister, the McPherson Holts, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, the Wentworth P. Mackenzies, Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch, Mr. and Mrs. Corson Ellis, the Theodore Garys, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr., and Mrs. Westover Channon.

The Alliance Francaise and the France-America society gave a tea at the Chicago Historical society for the ambassador in the afternoon.

Three rooms, flanking the hall where the ambassador spoke, were gay with brightly decorated tea tables. Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, who had charge of the arrangements, had selected red tulips, white tulips, and iris which were in large bowls between silver or glass candelabra. Red, white, and blue sugar ribbons were tied around white cakes which bore the American and French flags.

Tricolored cockades enlivened the dresses of Miss Marie Louise Hulburd, president of the Cercle des Jeunes of the Alliance, Miss Anne Stuart, Miss Diana Winston, Miss Peggy Burrows, Miss Helen Shoemaker, and the Misses Virginia and Laura Winston, who served as cicerones and general helpers.

After pinning the Cross of the Order of the Cincinnatus onto the Golden Book, which lists 4,000 names of men and women of Cook county who died during the last war, the ambassador made a short talk. He spoke in French to stress the significance of the occasion. He was, he said, deeply touched to see the number of friends which France has in America, whose warm sympathy shows that they feel France's cause to be just.

Mrs. Brewster and Mrs. Carter Harrison, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. Walter Bracken, and Mrs. Thomas Hinde and Mrs. John Crerar poured tea after the talk.

Armour Institute to Hold Fathers' and Sons' Banquet

Armour Institute of Technology will hold its annual fathers and sons' banquet this evening in the main room of the Students' union on the campus. Tappan Gregory, president of the Chicago Bar association, will be guest speaker.

The Housewife

Last year the transparent plastic place mat made its debut, and it was a lovely thing, decorated by hand with beautiful flowers in color. Because of this work of the artist it was priced fairly high, and still is. This year you can also get a plain, heavy, transparent mat, but decorated with your initial in gold. For a modern table setting this place mat would be in perfect keeping. An initialed set of eight pieces comes in a box and would make a handsome gift.

Tailored Knitted Sweater

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

A knitted sweater which has the tailored as well as the feminine touch—the clever little tie—is destined to be a favorite for wear with jackets and skirts, or with separate contrasting and matching skirts. During the summer seasons a preponderance of this type of woolen attire will be worn, and there should be at least one in every person's wardrobe. The instructions are available in sizes 32, 34, and 36.

For instructions in knitting the sweater with the moss stitch tie, No. X-456, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Chicago Lends Treasures to Antique Show

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Antiques, especially if they are usable in modern homes, hold great fascination for most women. This never was indicated more clearly than by the number of women who yesterday afternoon crowded into a fairly small room at 840 North Michigan avenue, where the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators was holding a preview of a loan exhibition of antiques.

It looked as if every one from Orchestra hall had gone north after the concert, all intent on seeing their own or their neighbors' antiques. The show is an interesting one, including as it does decorative antiques that are in actual use in Chicago homes.

The show will be open to the public from today thru April 21, at a cost of 50 cents a person. The antiques are grouped according to periods, making it easy to study whatever one likes particularly, whether it be Gothic, Jacobean, Georgian, Queen Anne, Regency, Victorian, or 18th Century French. There is a children's corner with high chairs lent by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and the Chauncey B. Borlands; a tiny Windsor chair that belongs to Mrs. Clive Runnells, and a painting of Godey children by Thomas Sully, lent by Mrs. John E. Jenkins.

Two brand new rooms of Mrs. James Ward Thorne's are in the show, exquisite American rooms. One is a miniature reproduction of the stage chamber from Mount Pleasant, Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, built in 1761, and the other portrays the banquet hall from the Hammond-Harwood house in Annapolis.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster's collection of Papier Decoupe [cut paper pictures] is there; also the Alfred E. Hamills' collection of portraits in wax. And Mrs. Frank B. Mulford's old bead pictures. The Robert J. Dunhams' Staffordshire Toby jugs are displayed in a fine pine breakfront cabinet with pewter relief, lent by the Sterling Mortons. Also in the cabinet are some Staffordshire pottery pieces that belong to the E. L. Blocks, and some copper luster Staffordshire jugs from a family collection, lent by Mrs. John W. Beckwith.

Most unusual are a pair of silver gilt stirrup cups lent by the Max Epsteins. They were made in 1779 and were given as prizes in horse races. To list all the interesting and beautiful things would be to copy the catalog, for everything in the exhibition is a treasure.

Some of those who saw the preview were Mrs. Donald Ryerson, Mrs. Potter Palmer and Miss Pauline Palmer, Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. Kersey C. Reed, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Miss Frances Wheedon, Mrs. Barrett Scudder, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mrs. E. Harris Brewer, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. David S. Cook, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn and her daughter, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, Mrs. Gilbert H. Robinson, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot, Miss Helen Gurley, and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Expert defenders have such healthy respect for and fear of elimination and throw-in plays that they invariably take every precaution against being the victim of this maneuver. In today's hand West performed a very neat escape trick.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 heart	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Needless to say, South overbid. His take-out double of one heart was correct, but when his partner could do no more than bid two clubs South had to be very optimistic to hope for game. But it is probable, nevertheless, that he would have "gotten away with it" against a less skillful defender than West.

The fourth highest heart was West's opening lead. Declarer won, and saw that a great deal of luck would be necessary if nine tricks were to be brought home. On the wild hope that he would find the king of clubs only singly guarded in the East hand [since dummy had only one entry, there could be only one club lead thru], he entered the dummy with the ace of diamonds, and took a club finesse. When the ten held the ace was laid down. To declarer's disappointment, West failed to follow, discarding a heart. Because he could think of no other trick-taking possibilities, declarer proceeded with his club establishment, leading a third round. Again West discarded a heart, and East won with the king, returning a low spade. Declarer now had a glimmer of hope; he went up with the ace and cashed his last club, and West made his third heart discard on this trick. The declarer now attempted to throw West on lead by laying down the king and a small diamond, but West had carefully preserved his diamonds against this very eventuality. On the king he threw not a low one but the queen, and now instead of being forced to play from his queen of spades [after cashing the ace and king of hearts] West stayed off the lead entirely. East won, cashed his good diamond, and returned another spade, which effectively spiked declarer's guns.

It should be noted that had West failed to hold on to all of his diamonds, or had he failed to unblock the queen, nine tricks would have been a simple matter for the declarer.

College Choir Impressive in Varied Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The choir of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., presented in Orchestra hall last night a program of sacred and secular, folk and art music. Henry Veld conducted.

First the Jenny Lind chorus, consisting of the 35 odd women of the choir, sang a little group calculated to astonish and delight the most exacting listener. Here was a genuinely angelic tone which, united with a simple, natural type of delivery, turned out to be capable of the most extraordinary expressive power. When, in a setting of the Twenty-Third Psalm, the girls put an unearthly tonal beauty and a fervent faith into the line "And surely joy and happiness shall follow all my life," there could have been no one in the audience so churlish as to refuse to exclaim inwardly, "We sure hope you're right!"

The Wennerberg chorus, a male group of about the same size as the Jenny Lind, then took the stage. The singing of the men had the same quality of sincerity that helped make the work of the women so moving. There was ample resonance, yet it was a purely vocal resonance, and no attempt was made to do anything cheap or quasi-instrumental. Brynolf Lundholm played excellent piano accompaniments for these first two groups. He was then banished, and the men's chorus and the women's united to form a mixed a cappella choir.

In the work of the large choir, as in that of its two component bodies, there was evidence of the fact that Mr. Veld has miraculously succeeded in communicating to a heterogenuous and probably not entirely musical group of students his own very lofty ideals and his own uncompromising integrity.

The singing was superb in the purity of its lines and in the aptness of its tempi and tone colorings. Because none of these things was treated as anything but a purely musical problem, the work of the choir was warm, alive, and natural. Everything came from the heart via the head.

April 13, 1940.

Put in long hours on practical matters today. This is not a year for frivolous thoughts or the time to sit back and take it easy for those born on this date. The year is restricting and confining. Keep to essentials, and don't waste your substance. Save, work, and stick to routine. If you don't do this, you won't be ready for the years ahead, and four years from now won't be able to reap the benefits of an 8-year.

Designed for Sheer Fabrics

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

Since sheer fabrics, both silk and cotton, promise to be popular for late spring and early summer, we decided that patterns especially designed for these materials would be welcome. The two models presentd today are softly styled, feminine, and graceful.

Especially suitable to slim figures is the frock at the left, with its puffed sleeves, slender waistline, and molded hipline. Ruffling and contrasting material form the trimming at the neckline and on the puffed sleeves. A ribbon belt accents the waist.

The frock for the mature figure has a soft collar of self-material, trimmed with ruffling around the V neckline. The kimono style sleeves likewise are trimmed with ruffling. Buttons are used down the front of the bodice and a self-material belt encircles the waist.

Style No. 3206 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of contrasting and 2½ yards of ruffling or lace.

Style No. 2642 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¼ yards of ruffling.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Saturday Now Bargain Day in Fashion Shops

BY REA SEEGER.

Saturday shoppers and career girls are a pampered lot, what with smart dresses clipped with amazingly low price marks, and the mix and match ensembles for street and office wear. Exciting new arrivals that can be owned for a sum under $10, come in four stunning colors . . . caramel beige, dawn gray, pink and blue. The skirts are pleated all the way round with a self material band belt. The shirts or blouse tops provide the contrast interest. These toppers come in dotted, striped, and checked patterns, the stripes, dots, and checks in white against the background shades listed above.

A little boy jacket top, with pockets, a lumber jacket with a wide belt, a wide spreading collar and lapel combination, and a fitted high neckline jacket that buttons down the front are ready for the selection committees. All shades blend together with flattering results . . . and for the costume enthusiast there's a simple wrapped turban of the same stuff as the blouses to complete the outfits. The material is a novelty mixture, with a wool crêpe texture, in the skirts. The blouses are a smooth, silklike finish.

CUBS AND WHITE SOX RESUME SERIES TODAY

SARAZEN POKES AT SLOWPOKES ON GOLF COURSE

They're a Nuisance, Gene Says.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

WARNING!
TO ALL TOURNAMENT GOLFERS.

Eugene Sarazen, Esq., of Brookfield Centre, Conn., hereby notifies all of his slower rivals in competitive golf that unless they step their pace up when playing in front of him this year, they may field one of his second shots on the noggin.

Squire Sarazen, a man with a mind and a will to speak it, issued the above edict yesterday afternoon in the Sherman hotel, shortly before going into his shotmaking dance in the Rotary club's Exposition show.

Gene Sarazen.

The sturdy little Italian, who has won all of the champions hips the game offers to a professional did not shock his intimates. Gene always has been one of the game's outstanding controversialists. He will talk on any subject pertaining to golf, and his chatter always is leavened with logic. But the topic of speeding up tournament play has been one close to his heart, and yesterday he gave full vent to his opinions on same.

He Wants More Speed.

"What hurts me is that in most major tournaments today," he began, "it takes nearly nine hours to play 36 holes. In the old days, you could do 36 in five hours, or at the most, six. Golf simply must be speeded up. If tennis or baseball were to be slowed down to the tempo of tournament golf as it is now, they'd be on the way out.

"I don't know how to explain it, but I have some ideas. Many tournament players claim they take the time they do because they are disturbed by the galleries. These should learn to listen to a few yells while they're playing. Golf is a national game, and it's as much the gallery's property as it is the players'.

"Other players have a habit of hitting a second shot, and then pausing and looking back to see the tee shots of the men following them. That takes time. Speaking for myself, I'll admit that nothing annoys me more than to have a couple of fellows ahead of me hit a few practice putts after holing out. I'm trying to hit a spoon shot or a long iron to the same green. They go on trying putts, but wave me to come on.

Delivers an Ultimatum.

"Naturally, I don't want to line the ball at them, and it disturbs my concentration. I know it, and I have a hunch that some of the boys know it bothers me. Maybe it's the old needle department. Whatever it is, I'm thru. All summer long, I'm going for the green, once the men ahead have holed out, regardless of what they're doing after that."

Sarazen is a practical celerity in golf. In the quarter-finals of the 1938 P. G. A. tournament in Shawnee, Pa., the writer witnessed a demonstration of his creed of speed. Bruno Mussolini Sends Greetings to Italian Team

"Congratulations to our boxers for their victories in Chicago and to Arch Ward of CHICAGO TRIBUNE for success of show."

Scoop Million Pounds Smelt in Wisconsin

Milwaukee, Wis., April 12 [Special].—One million pounds of smelt have been scooped out of northern Wisconsin rivers about Green Bay during the week or more of the annual smelt spawning run now at a climax, it was estimated today.

Frank Horak, postmaster of Oconto, reported that 25,000 pounds were taken there nightly, and there have been similar reports from rivers at Menomonee, Marinette, Escanaba and Green Bay, and smaller streams in which the smelt seek warmer water to spawn.

Fishermen have concentrated along northern rivers for nearly two weeks armed with scoops, dips and shovels to land their fish and barrels and tubs to carry them away. Both the North Western and Milwaukee roads reported today they had transported many smelt fishers. Most Wisconsin residents loaded their scoop shovels and tubs into their cars and drove north.

Three hundred members of the Hawthorne Hunting and Fishing club of Chicago will have a special train on the North Western tomorrow for Escanaba, Mich., with the expectation of landing a few tons of smelt. The Milwaukee road ran a fish special leaving at 9 o'clock tonight with round trip rates for smelt fishers.

MARINETTE RUN ON.

Marinette, Wis., April 12 [Special]. With warmer weather in prospect tomorrow and heavy catches reported the last few nights, the sixth annual Marinette-Menominee smelt carnival opened tonight, to continue for ten days. Amateur entertainment, fireworks and provision for smelt dipping by visitors are scheduled three nights each week-end.

A special train tomorrow will bring 300 members of the Hawthorne Hunting and Fishing club of Chicago. Members of the Chicago Polar Bear club will return again on Sunday to take a plunge into Green Bay. Heaviest lift thus far was reported by three fishermen who pulled up more than 9,000 pounds with a single net in two hours.

STORCK ELECTION AS HEAD OF PRO LEAGUE ASSURED

New York, April 12 [Special].—Indications today were that Carl Storck, president of the National Football league for the last nine months, would be returned to office, probably by a unanimous vote. This was the only development of the opening session of the league meeting as the dove of peace sailed serenely around the conference room.

George Marshall of the Washington Redskins was said to have been on the warpath, seeking the scalp of Storck. A year ago Marshall was rounding up votes for the Dayton automobile executive, but this time he headed a group that offered the presidency to Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, for ten years at an annual salary of $25,000. Ward declined the position.

Between these two opposite stands by the Washington executive, Referee Bill Halloran called wide a Redskin field goal that would have beaten the Giants for the eastern championship. Storck upheld the decision and appointed Halloran to referee the playoff game a week later.

Concedes Storck's Election.

Marshall denied today that there was any connection between the Halloran incident and the fact that he no longer was head cheerleader for the Storck brigade. He explained his feelings by saying that he thought Storck a good man, but he thought Ward a better one.

Afterward he stated that Storck probably would be reëlected. And since he headed the opposition the deed almost can be considered done. One match might develop. If the president is proffered a short term, he might refuse to accept on such a tenuous basis.

As far as actual business was concerned little was accomplished that would catch the public eye. Storck departed from custom and arranged a complete tentative schedule, instead of letting the magnates battle for dates on the floor.

Giants Trade Ox Parry.

Only one trade was carried thru. The New York Giants traded Ox Parry, 230 pound tackle, to the Pittsburgh Steelers [Pirates] for Kay Eakin, half back from Arkansas. The collegian was rated the best back in the southwest and was regarded so highly by the club owners that he was the second man to be picked in the draft, being preceded only by George Cafego of Tennessee.

Northwestern-Illinois Game Prevented by Snow

Champaign, Ill., April 12 [Special].—The Northwestern-Illinois baseball game was called off today because of snow on Illinois field. A double header will be played tomorrow.

CHICAGO'S baseball season opens today as it closed last October, with the Cubs and Sox battling for the spring championship of 1940 with the same fervor they displayed in the duel for the fall championship of 1939. . . . As the intracity rivals clash in their delayed home opener in Wrigley field, let's borrow a page from the glorious records of 1906. . . . Let's hope that when NEXT October rolls around they will meet again, but this time for the world's instead of the city championship. . . . The Illinois state interscholastic track meet, the oldest prep competition of its kind in the middle west, will be held the morning of May 18. . . . The Oklahoma Aggies haven't lost a basketball game on their home court in four seasons. . . . John Kimbrough, Texas A. & M.'s great full back, weighed 227 pounds after the season ended with his team's victory over Tulane in the Sugar bowl. . . . A few months on the banquet and speech circuit reduced him to 215. . . . The father of Bill Lee, Cub pitcher, is five inches shorter than the famous moundsman and weighs only 140 pounds. . . . Bill tips 206. . . .

John Kimbrough.

Forty-nine American bred trotting horses are racing in Italy. . . . A Pittsburgh wag has observed that night baseball will enable Frankie Frisch to know where his Pirates are at least seven nights this summer. . . . Peewee Reese, Brooklyn's high priced rookie shortstop, once held the national marbles title. . . . Twenty-three of the American league's 39 batting champions have been left handers.

The owner of the baseball park in Topeka, Kas., refuses permission to run telegraph wires into the plant. . . . He has no objection, however, to messenger service between the park and the telegraph office, which is three miles away. . . . Such is life in Kansas. . . . Germany has inquired about the possibility of a Chicago Golden Glove team appearing in Berlin. . . . Jockey Charles Kurtsinger owns a 300 acre farm in southern Indiana. . . . Al Todd, Cub catcher, is proud of his curly hair. . . . He combs it frequently and after he knocks his cap in the dust to go after fouls and popups he makes sure the dirt has been removed completely before he again places the cap over his immaculate pate. . . . Max and Doug Bentley of the Blackhawks have three other brothers playing hockey. . . . Lou Gehrig hit his first home run for the Yankees on Sept. 27, 1923, and his last on the same date in 1938.

A Problem Solved.

Remember, not so long ago,
Each night there'd be a row
'Bout who should have the radio—
But things are different now!

Sis wanted some "sad" story on;
"The news for me!" said dad.
And Junior wailed for G-man stuff,
The same as any lad!

Poor mother never said a word,
But you would almost know
She'd like to hear some music gay,
Tho she didn't tell them so.

But things are somewhat diff'rent now,
As I opined before,
And where they once had ONE radio
They now have three or four!

Both son and daughter have their own,
Each in their rooms upstairs,
And dad can listen undisturbed
To all the news he cares.

Why, even mother has her own,
And carries it about
From laundry room to attic high,
All over—in or out!

So now the family's satisfied;
They no more fuss or fume—
And soon all homes will come equipped,
A radio in each room!

DEAN STORM IS OVER, AT LEAST FOR DAY OR TWO

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Mrs. Patricia Dean, widely known as the "brains of the Dean family" in all matters except actual pitching, yesterday got her erratic husband, Dizzy, back to something approaching normalcy. On orders from Mrs. D., Diz arranged to pay a $100 fine assessed by Manager Gabby Hartnett in Topeka, Kas., Wednesday after Dean refused to obey warnings that he had better discontinue habitual infractions of the Cub training code.

According to the announcement of Owner P. K. Wrigley, who never did hear the harrowing tales of Cub dissipation Dean had promised to blab against his teammates, Dean will be back in uniform this afternoon unless cold weather again keeps the lads indoors.

Wrigley Wants Victories.

In making known that he had heard Hartnett on Dean, but not Dean on his wicked mates, Mr. Wrigley said he had told Gabby his interest was in having Dizzy win some ball games, however great a personal annoyance the fellow might be. "Dean is to the Cubs what Mayor Jimmy Walker was to New York," the Cubs' big boss cracked as he touched on Dizzy's bad boy proclivities.

If Dean does not showup in uniform it will be because he has been able to escape Mrs. Dean's surveillance. Tho never appointed his legal guardian, Mrs. Dean, a highly intelligent, alert, and personable woman, keeps a watchful eye on her eccentric spouse whenever it is possible for her to be near. Diz is a notorious sap at cards and dice and Mrs. Dean frequently is called upon to shoo away slickers who would trim or legitimately outthink her hubby.

He's Not So Hot at Poker.

A year ago, when Dizzy got out of her custody for a series of personal appearances in movie houses, the great one overmatched himself in a dressing room poker session. This caused Mrs. Dean no end of annoyance and anxiety because Diz was taken for heavy sugar. Baseball officials didn't want any part of Dean's squawk, but then, as in the current jam, it was Mrs. Dean who stepped in, gave a few snappy orders in a dignified way, and got things back on an even keel.

There's a Cub rule against players' wives traveling on the same trains with their husbands. The restriction may be modified if the Cubs decide Dean can justify retention thru his pitching. If Diz should come back in a big way the Cubs, it is said, will do as the Cardinals did—encourage Mrs. Dean to act as Dizzy's keeper 24 hours a day at home and on the road.

Leafs Hopeful; Plan to Square Series Tonight

TORONTO, Ont., April 12 (AP).—In contrast to their standings in the Stanley cup playoffs of the National Hockey league, the New York Rangers were moody and not particularly confident today while the Toronto Maple Leafs exuded enthusiasm for tomorrow night's sixth game.

The Rangers were dead tired from the 91 minutes of play it took to beat the Leafs, 2 to 1, last night, and move out in front in the playoffs, three games to two. It was the second overtime struggle of the series and the grueling play has told on the Rangers.

Shibicky Still Disabled.

Alex Shibicky, who sprained his ankle in the third game, attempted to play last night, but the pain was so severe he had to leave the bench before the game was over. Others had lesser aches and pains.

"We just haven't got a substitute around whom we feel we can call on with the expectation of getting major league ability," admitted Manager Lester Patrick ruefully. "The crop at our Philadelphia farm this year was the worst in a long time."

Toronto Coach Satisfied.

On the other hand, Toronto called on four reserves last night, and even tho the maneuver failed to win, Coach Dick Irwin declared, "I was completely satisfied with the way the replacements went." He added that some of the four might be in uniform again tomorrow night.

This feeling that they were fresher and had an advantage in reserves bolstered the Leafs, who must win the sixth game to prolong the series.

"I'm not worried the slightest about tomorrow's game," asserted Irwin. "The advantage is still with us because we are physically stronger and because we'll be on our home ice."

SMITH OPPOSES LEE IN WRIGLEY FIELD BATTLE

Rival Leaders Look to Pennant Races.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

No matter what the weather man thinks about it, the Cubs and White Sox still expect to launch the Chicago end of their spring barnstorming tour. They were ready to expose their talents yesterday, but a freezing temperature, not to mention mud in Comiskey park, shattered the idea. They'll be ready again today, this time in Wrigley field, and, if this scheme does not work, they'll make a third attempt tomorrow on the south siders' premises.

Edgar Smith.

If the weather man continues to hound them both today and tomorrow, the two teams will have to surrender to his wishes, because there'll be no more time available for combat of the barnstorming variety. The two teams simply will have to forget about their intracity affairs to take up on Tuesday the subject of championships in their respective leagues. As the Sox now lead the series by 7 to 5, they have nothing to worry about except that they need the work.

Pitchers Need the Toil.

Because of the approach of the regular season, the two managers, James Dykes in the south siders' corner and Gabby Hartnett directly opposite, have decided to sneak a few extra pitchers into today's scheduled program. Dykes' plans for yesterday were Bill Dietrich and Jack Knott on the mound. Edgar Smith, the lefty who'll pitch the opener against the Indians Tuesday, has been added. They'll go three innings apiece. Bill Lee will start for the Cubs but, instead of trying to go the limit, will quit after four or five innings to give Claude Passeau a chance.

Yesterday's freezeout wasn't exactly a total loss for the Sox. Dykes told them they'll probably have to play in equally chilly air during the next few weeks and that they might as well become accustomed to it. So he ordered a drill. The fellows threw the ball around and found enough dry spots in the Comiskey park outfield to do a little running. The Cubs were wholly inactive.

Hayes Is Improving.

Jack Hayes, whose eye ailment forced Dykes to make a last minute infield alteration, may be discharged from Michael Reese hospital tomorrow. He was given the third of a series of fever inducing injections yesterday. After the first two treatments the doctors noted a marked improvement in the eye, the pupil of which had become inflamed as the result of an infection. Whether or not the vision has been impaired may not be known for several weeks.

Today's game, if played, will start at 2 p. m. Tomorrow's affair in Comiskey park will begin at 3 o'clock.

COURT SUGGESTS NIGHT CLUB DATE FOR DAY AND WIFE

Judge Desort to Rule Monday on Writ.

A night club date, with no managers, trainers, or in-laws on hand, was recommended by Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday as the cure for the marital troubles of Davey Day, lightweight boxer, and his wife, Marion.

Mrs. Day, who is 23 years old and lives at 2332 North Spaulding avenue, has a suit for separate maintenance pending. Recently she obtained a writ restraining Day from leaving the court's jurisdiction. Day and his attorney, Michael Brodkin, moved yesterday to quash the writ.

"Chicago is Day's home; he has no intention of running away," said Brodkin. Mrs. Day's attorney, Alvin Kayner, contended the fighter would not be seen hereabouts again if the writ were quashed.

Seeking to effect a reconciliation, Judge Desort heard Day's complaint about his wife's family interfering with their marriage, and Mrs. Day's objection to the continued presence of his trainers and managers. The court then suggested the night club date.

"Tell me about it Monday and I'll rule on the writ," the judge concluded.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald has offered Clarence [Red] Burman, Baltimore heavyweight, $5,000 for a 10 round bout with Lem Franklin, in the Coliseum April 26 . . . Hank Thorsen, Detroit heavyweight, yesterday was matched to meet Tom Johnson in a four round supporting match to a 10 round contest involving Altus Allen and Willie Muldune in Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Jack Conley, Boston heavyweight wrestler, and Bert Rubi will clash in White City Monday. The card is headed by Everett Marshall and Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer.

Phil Collins, who has not refereed since he officiated at the Maurice Strickland-Bob Pastor bout in Chicago Stadium March 31, 1939, has refused assignment at White City and Marigold Gardens because the Illinois boxing commission apparently does not care to have him work major fights in the Stadium and Coliseum, he said last night. Collins has not refereed a fight in the Coliseum since 1935. . . . The original Angel, Maurice Tillet of France will head a mat program in the Coliseum April 25. . . . Charley White, former lightweight contender, has moved his health school from the loop to the Alexander hotel on the near north side. . . .

Gene Spencer, South Chicago lightweight, and Nick Castiglione of the Italo-American Youth organization yesterday were matched to meet in an eight round event in White City next Friday. George Feltes, Milwaukee welterweight, will oppose Tony Reno, who formerly boxed as Tony Di Pasquale, in a four round preliminary. Additional contests of eight rounds bring together Eddie Dempsey and Sammy Sferas, and Tony Motisi and Jack Cooper. . . .

Joe du Pont, city Golden Gloves featherweight champion, scored his fourth successive victory in four weeks by beating Bill Jordan of the Savoy A. C. in a five round amateur bout in Madison Athletic club last night. Frankie Kidd of La Grange whipped Art Reese, south side welterweight, in an additional five rounder.

Other results:
Tommy Mair stopped Wilbur Holmes [2].
Pat Maloney beat Sam Davis [3].
Ivory Bates beat Bill Johnson [3].

SMILIN' JACK—SCRAMBLED BRAINS AND EGGS

Town Boy Is Victor Over Derby Horses

Lexington, Ky., April 12 (AP).—Town Boy, a 3 year old gelding which Joseph Widener did not consider good enough for the Kentucky Derby, beat five eligibles today in the featured 6 furlong Charles K. Hughes handicap at Keeneland. The weather was cold and snow flurries fell intermittently. As a result the track was slow and the time of 1:13 2-5 creditable.

Town Boy, a 7 to 1 shot, finished a length and a half in front of Inscolad, a Derby eligible, with Sirocco third.

A. C. Ernst's Alhalon, another Derby candidate with a record of only one victory in nine starts as a juvenile, triumphed in the day's second race to pay $33.60 for $2 after covering the three quarters in 1:14 1-5.

SNOW AT BOWIE.

Bowie, Md., April 12 (AP).—Snow and rain made conditions miserable for race fans and horses at the Bowie track today and cut to five the field for tomorrow's closing day feature—the $5,000 added Southern Maryland handicap. With continued bad weather and an off track in prospect for tomorrow only these campaigners were named for the mile and a sixteenth Southern Maryland:

A. J. Abel's Honey Cloud, top weighted with 120 pounds; Isidore Bieber's Conde Rico, 112, and Confiado, 110; W. L. Brann's Aethelwold, 115, and J. Wormser's Rodin, 108.

Mutuels Manager Donald Hay said that with only four interests represented, there would be no show betting on the event.

Honey Cloud Favorite?

Honey Cloud, winner of the Rowe Memorial handicap, appeared the probable favorite for the Southern Maryland. Aethelwold and Conde Rico, which ran a dead heat for first place in the Bowie Spring handicap, were rated next in line.

A steady downpour that began early today and continued thru most of the afternoon made the track so sloppy that there was little chance of its being good tomorrow.

By post time for the sixth race it had begun to snow, and the downfall was so heavy that it was impossible to distinguish the horses except right in front of the stands.

PICTURE PLAY WINS.

San Francisco, Cal., April 12 (AP).—Picture Play, 3 year old colt, made a runaway of the feature race at Tanforan today, winning the 6 furlong sprint by one and one-half lengths. The time was 1:12 4-5. Enthrall ran second and Gold Bubble third.

Picture Play paid off at $7.20, $3.00, and $2.60. Enthrall paid $3.00 and $2.60, and Gold Bubble $3.80.

Rough riding tactics in races yesterday drew 15 day suspensions for Nuncio Pariso and Fritz Weidaman, while a third jockey, Raymond Adair, was fined $100 by the stewards for failure to keep his mount straight.

MAROON NINE TO PLAY BADGERS IN DOUBLE HEADER

A double header will open the Big Ten season as the University of Chicago baseball team meets Wisconsin on the Midway this afternoon, after cancelation of yesterday's game because of cold weather. The first game, with Cy Buker on the mound for the Badgers and Southpaw Art Lopatka pitching for Chicago, will begin at 1 o'clock.

In the second game, Coach Kyle Anderson indicated he would probably use John Beeks, Maroon sophomore right hander, altho Frank McCracken may be moved from his regular third base spot to pitch. Wisconsin's choice in the second game probably will be either John Saxer or Nick Calabresa, altho Coach Art Mansfield may give the job to Bob Van Sickle.

Wisconsin trimmed the Maroon nine twice last year. Chicago has played six games this season to two for the Badgers. Both teams are unbeaten, Wisconsin having defeated Illinois Normal and gained an 18 inning tie with Bradley Tech. Chicago's half dozen victories have been scored over George Williams, DePauw, Armour Tech, and Wheaton.

RIGGS AND COOKE TO PLAY APRIL 26 IN TENNIS MATCH

The Chicago Tennis association's second annual Whirlwind in the University of Chicago fieldhouse Friday night, April 26, will be featured by a singles match involving the 1939 Wimbledon finalists, Bobby Riggs of Chicago and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore.

Robert Pease, president of the association, yesterday said that the Whirlwind trophy will go to the winner of the match. Other contests on the card include a singles match between James Evert, national boys' indoor champion, and Gardner Lardned, coholder with Evert of the boys' indoor doubles title. Riggs and Cooke will oppose Morey Lewis and Normal Bickel in a double match.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Miss Maker, $5.70 straight, $3.90 place, $2.70 show; Marin, $3.00 place, $2.90 show; Doctor's Nurse, $5.90 show.

MISS MAKER was kept in restraint for the first half mile, was taken to the inside and, closing gamely, won in last stride. MARIN was probably best but was allowed to go very wide in stretch and was beaten at the end. DOCTOR'S NURSE moved up with a rush on the inside rail but hung right at end. COAST TO COAST went up all the way, had no mishap. WESTING had flash of speed.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. [Claiming price, $1,500.] Three year old fillies. Start good. Won easily, place driving. Went to post at 3:00⅘. Off at 3:02. Winner, b. or br. f., 3, by Burgoo King-Breakfast Ball, by Black Toney. Owner, James Malone. Trainer, F. e. Kearns. Net value to winner, $700; second, $180; third, $90 fourth, $30. Time, 1:15.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Busy Fingers, $3.80 straight, $2.70 place, $2.30 show; Wildmute, $3.40 place, $2.70 show; Millchic, $3.20 show.

BUSY FINGERS much the best. She broke fast but was allowed to drop back, began to move up around turn, ran into lead in stretch, drew out and won nicely in hand. WILDMUTE trailed to the final three furlongs, then was steered to the outside and closed gamely. MILLCHIC followed the pace closely to stretch where she tired. QUEEN'S ADVICE displayed excellent early speed in the going nd ran good race. TOAST had no mishap.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. The Greenbury. Purse $1,000. Three year olds which have never won two races. Start good. Won driving, place easily. Went to post at 3:30⅘. Off at once. Two dollar mutuels paid: Howard, $6.80 straight, $3.20 place, $2.50 show; Head Hunter, $3.00 place, $2.40 show; Interpreter, $3.00 show.

HOWARD broke slowly and trailed far back to the far turn. He began to move up around turn—came around field in stretch, closed fast and won going away. HEAD HUNTER raced CANDLE ENDS into defeat drew away, but was weakly handled at end. INTERPRETER was allowed to drop far back, was steered very wide, closed fast on his own courage. CANDLE ENDS displayed good speed and held on well. KNOXVILLE never a factor.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and a sixteenth. Purse $1,000. [Claiming price, $1,000.] Four year olds and up which have not won in 1940. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 4:47. Off at 4:49⅘. Slow Playing Golfers Draw Sarazen's Fire are not in the slowpoke league, they were playing meticulous and deliberate golf. Gene and Pic overtook them at the fourth hole. Waiting became too much for Gene and he drove thru with Pic, leaving Paul and Horton the golf course to themselves.

He's Built for Speed.

"Maybe I'm too fast, but I think I'm built for the Kentucky Derby distance," Sarazen continued. "Some of these fellows today want to run a Grand National steeplechase. I've seen golfers who would rather not play in front of me and Byron Nelson when we're paired together, and I can understand them. It makes playing uncomfortable. But there's no reason why any golfer should tee off at 11 a. m. and finish at nearly 3:30 p. m."

Sarazen was asked if he had any solution for slow tournament play.

"I wonder if there is one," he replied. "The tournament committee could pick out the known slow players and play them last but that might affect the results and wouldn't be fair. A ten minute break in the pairings isn't the answer, either. Nor would a four hole break, for a fast twosome would catch the slower ones by the 12th hole.

Names Speedy Players.

"This may sound drastic, but the only cure I see is to take the slower players and start them off in the 'dawn patrol,' or tee them off so late that they'll be playing against the dark."

The Squire, himself known as one of the fastest players in the game, rates four men in modern golf as speedy workmen. They are Nelson, Picard, Jimmy Demaret, and Sam Snead. He feels, from a time standpoint, that a fast tournament player should get around 18 holes in two and a half hours, an average player in three, and a slow one in nearly four.

At this rate Gene has about five hours' work cut out for him on May 27, the date of the sectional qualifying rounds for the National Open tournament. He didn't finish in the first 30 last year in Philadelphia, so he must make good in the trials. If he shouldn't, it will be the first time since he made his debut at Inverness in 1920 that he hasn't played in the big show, a record no other player can boast of.

POLL OF EXPERTS GIVES CARDINALS NATIONAL FLAG

Reds Placed 2d, Dodgers 3d, Cubs 4th.

New York, April 12 (AP).—Despite the fact that their infield admittedly is shaky, the St. Louis Cardinals are the choice of a majority of the nation's baseball writers to beat out the Cincinnati Reds in the coming National league race.

Possibly because a champion of the senior circuit seldom repeats, if for no more sensible reason, 39 out of 76 experts polled by the Associated Press pick the Red Birds to play in the world series next October. Only 34 believe the Cincinnati pitching staff can do it again, while two like the Chicago Cubs, and one lone rebel plunks for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

If the Cardinals should make good for the guessers, their victory would climax one of the most sensational rises to the top in recent baseball history. Two years ago they finished nowhere, and even when the 1939 campaign began they were not considered of pennant caliber.

Nine Like the Cubs.

Yet, after a slow start, they suddenly began booming in midseason and before it was over they had given Cincinnati a genuine scare. Only in the final week of the campaign did the Reds overcome them in a crucial series. In that vital series, incidentally, the young St. Louis pitchers held Cincinnati scoreless for one stretch of 22 consecutive innings.

Whichever wins this time, the preponderance of opinion is that the Reds and Cards will finish one-two. Nine voters, however, picked Chicago for the runner-up spot, while six named the Giants, four the Brooklyn Dodgers, and two the Pirates.

Otherwise the experts appear to be pretty well baffled. Two clubs were selected to finish in six different positions each, while Pittsburgh was named to wind up in every spot except eighth. The Phillies had them blocked there.

The Final Vote Standing.

St. Louis, 557 points; Cincinnati, 550; Brooklyn, 372; Chicago, 351; Pittsburgh, 340; New York, 331; Boston, 156; Philadelphia, 79.

This virtually is the order in which they finished last year, the only exceptions being that Cincinnati won out over St. Louis and the New York Giants landed a notch ahead of Pittsburgh.

DE KALB COLLEGE NINE DEFEATS ELMHURST, 8 TO 6

De Kalb, Ill., April 12 [Special].—De Kalb Teachers defeated Elmhurst college, 8 to 6, in the Little Nineteen conference opener here today despite snow flurries and cold weather.

Wheaton got off to a three run lead in the first inning but De Kalb scored two in the fourth, two in the fifth, and four in the seventh to gain a safe margin. Elmhurst threatened to tie the score by filling the bases on three walks in the ninth. The rally was halted when Pfeil tried to stretch his third hit into a double and was caught at second.

CUE STARS CLEAR UP MARITAL WOES; ONE IS DIVORCED

Two of the participants in the recent world three cushion billiards tournament unraveled marital difficulties yesterday and were free to move on to subsequent cue engagements.

Arthur J. Thurnblad of Racine, Wis., agreed to pay his wife, Dorothy, $350 in cash in place of the $504 he owes as back support for their son, Robert, since their divorce Jan. 4, 1937. José Ulloa, known professionally as Joe Chamaco of New York, at the same time made a settlement, also out of court, with Mrs. Gatie Ulloa, 18, of 1348 West 50th street. Superior Judge Joseph Sabath granted Mrs. Ulloa a divorce on the grounds of cruelty. The decree will be signed later.

Yank-Dodger Home Opener Is Rained Out

New York, April 12 [Special].—The seventh game of the Yankee-Dodger spring series, which began in Florida, was rained out here today. As a result New York fans will have to wait until tomorrow to see these major league teams in their 1940 home debut at Ebbets field. The teams will play again Sunday in Brooklyn.

Admitting negotiations for a Yankee pitcher had broken down, Manager Leo Durocher today revealed there was little hope of getting another starting pitcher for Brooklyn.

A week ago Durocher was sanguine about his chances of making a trade with the Yankees. He said efforts will continue over the week-end to work out something with the champions, but the odds are against it.

BEES RELEASE TWO.

Boston, Mass., April 12 (AP).—The Boston Bees' squad was reduced to 31 players today when Outfielder Ralph Younker and Pitcher Wilber McElroy were released on option to the club's Hartford farm in the Eastern league. Infielder Joe Gulledge, a Hartford player taken south with the Bees, was returned to that farm team. Those three players, however, will continue to work out with the Bees until the Hartford team returns north next week.

RED FANS LOYAL.

Cincinnati, O., April 12 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds' game with the Detriot Tigers tomorrow will give home town fans their first glimpse of the 1940 club in action. Altho experts believe a team is not likely to repeat for the Natitonal league championship, the Reds stand at the top of the heap with the home folks.

They start the regular season Tuesday against Chicago with only one change in the batting order, the insertion of Mike McCormick, left fielder, in the lineup, in place of Wally Berger.

OTT O. K., SAYS TERRY.

Bluefield, W. Va., April 12 (AP).—Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants took advantage of the cancellation of today's exhibition against the Cleveland Indians to announce that he had no worries over Outfielder Mel Ott. "Say, why should I worry? Ott's going to start bearing down from now on, he's told me, and that's good enough for me. Ott is all right."

JAKE POWELL HAS CONCUSSION, SPECIALIST SAYS

Ashland, Ky., April 12 (AP).—Dr. Glen Spurling of Louisville, brain specialist, said tonight that Jake Powell, injured New York Yankee outfielder, is suffering from severe brain concussion.

"There is no fracture," Dr. Spurling added after a study of the case at King's Daughters hospital, where Powell was taken after suffering the injury in an exhibition game here Wednesday, "but he will have to remain absolutely quiet for a period of several weeks."

The specialist said he saw no reason why Powell should not make a complete recovery, but declined to express an opinion on how long it would be before he could return to the Yankee lineup.

BIELFUSS WINS OVER BLACKHAWK IN WATER POLO

Bielfuss natatorium defeated Blackhawk park, 8 to 5, and Detroit won from the Griffith natatorium, 8 to 6, last night in the first round of the National A. A. U. water polo meet in the Illinois Athletic club.

In the semi-finals today, beginning at 1 o'clock, Detroit meets the I. A. C., and Bielfuss plays Rio Diable of Pittsburgh. The winners will meet in the final at 8:30 p. m.

I. A. C. Bowlers Win Two Games from C. A. A. Team

The Illinois Athletic club bowling team won two games from the Chicago Athletic association quintet last night on the C. A. A. alleys. George Helfrick of the I. A. C. had high series with 650. Ray Donnesberger topped the C. A. A. team with 603. A return match will be rolled later in the season. Scores:

I. A. C.	918	1.040	960—2.918
C. A. A.	973	881	878—2.732

Stein Rolls 745 Series in A.B.C. Doubles

Detroit, Mich., April 12 [Special].—Maxie Stein today hit the pins just as he did in 1937 when he set the American Bowling congress all-time all-events record with 2,070. The 30 year old manager of the Warner Brothers' Hollywood bowling establishment pyramided strikes for a 745 series in the doubles, second high series of the current meet, but a 520 total by his partner, Carl Stoerkel, limited the pair to 1,265 for the two man competition.

Stein opened his first game with two spares and then pounded the pocket with a hook for nine strikes in a row—he collected nine in the last game also—for 278. He opened the second game with spares, one of them by converting the 5-7 split. He then moved toward the right and found the range for a 210 count.

Ends with 257.

Firing slowly and with mechanical precision, he hung up five straight strikes at the start of the third game. He left the 6-10 on the first ball in the sixth, converted the spare, struck three times, left the number 3 pin, spared, and struck for a 257.

Stein's 745 strike spree has been topped only once in this meet, by Sam Feinberg of Philadelphia, also in the doubles. Sam had stronger support and reached 1,297, which is still in second place in the two man division.

Ties for Fifth.

The 745 in the doubles, combined with 558 in the five man division and 598 in the singles, gave Stein an all-events total of 1,901, good for a fifth place tie.

The Chicago Joseph L. Gills smashed their way into ninth place in the team event with a 2,912 total. Joe Wilman's Budweisers, after a 860 opener, rolled third high game of the meet, 1,069, in the second game but finished with 930 for a 2,859 total.

NOTRE DAME NINE AND IOWA PLAN 2 GAMES TODAY

Notre Dame, Ind., April 12 [Special].—Clearing skies and the promise of warmer weather tomorrow led Coach Jake Kline of Notre Dame and Coach Otto Vogel of Iowa to postpone today's scheduled baseball game until tomorrow. They hope to send their teams into two seven inning games tomorrow afternoon.

Name W. R. Smith Coach at Asbury Park High

Asbury Park, N. J., April 12 (AP).—William R. [Clipper] Smith, former football coach of Clifford J. Scott High school of East Orange, was appointed next year's coach for Asbury Park High school by the board of education today. Smith, whose removal at East Orange caused two sympathy strikes by pupils and parents' demands for an investigation, will also fill a teaching position here, Dr. Harry Thomas, board president, said.

St. Patrick, Annunciation in Queen of Angels Final

St. Patrick of South Chicago, defending champion, and the Annunciation Cadets advanced to the final round of the sixth annual Queen of Angels basketball tournament in the Guild hall, 4412 North Western avenue, last night. St. Patrick defeated the Graham-Shyrons of Cicero, 37 to 33, and the Cadets eliminated the 47th Ward Democrats, 34 to 27. The championship will be decided on the same court tomorrow night.

Illini Defend National Gym Title Tonight

Ten midshipmen from the United States Naval academy, who arrived from Annapolis after winning the eastern intercollegiate championship, are expected to offer the strongest threat to Illinois in its defense of the National Collegiate Athletic association gymnastics title tonight in Bartlett gymnasium at the University of Chicago. The meet is scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Minnesota's team, which wrested the Big Ten crown from Illinois by half a point in the recent conference meet, also is expected to prove a contender along with Temple, eastern runner-up, and Chicago, 1938 national champion.

Holds World Record.

Led by Capt. Warren Walker Jr., the Navy's team includes Midshipman Stanley Ellison of Reading, Pa., world rope climb recordholder, and Bill Butler of Downey, Cal., a three year winner of the eastern flying rings title. Two all around gymnasts, Ed Danser of Temple, eastern champion, and Capt. Joe Giallombardo of Illinois, defending national champion, are rated the most versatile of the experts in muscular precision.

Midshipman Ellison, after establishing a new world record in the 25 foot climb in the National A. A. U. meet last year, smashed intercollegiate and world marks at the 20 foot height when he scaled the hawser in :03.6 in the Army-Navy and Temple-Navy encounters this spring, cutting two-tenths of a second from the old world record.

Rivalry in Flying Rings.

Navy and Minnesota offer the chief threats in the flying rings contest, with Middy Butler pitted against Chuck Hafey, Big Ten champion. Temple, Minnesota, and Illinois are slated to dominate the parallel bars competition, with Sam Fogel, eastern title holder, contending with Bob Hanning of the Gophers and Giallombardo of the Illini.

Minnesota and Illinois are expected to battle it out in the horizontal bar competition, with Sophomore Newton Loken, the Gophers' second place winner in the Big Ten, again striving to upset John Cress, conference champion.

Giallombardo, a senior, is expected to have little difficulty defending his N. C. A. A. and Big Ten tumbling crowns, but a strong field makes the contest for remaining points appear very close. Alan Robertson of Chicago, Danser and Norman Boardman of Temple, Frank Lomax of the Navy, Loken and Delver Daly of Minnesota, and Joe Royce of Denison are ranked among the leaders.

The Chicago Teachers college baseball team will play Lake Forest college this afternoon on Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

SHIVERING FANS SEE 3 OPENING GAMES IN SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., April 12 (AP).—Overcoated fans braved wintry blasts today to witness the opening of the 40th Southern association baseball season. Nashville, New Orleans, and Little Rock achieved wins. Only 15,564 saw the three games as temperatures around 40 degrees cut heavily into expected attendance.

The raw, cold weather forced postponement of the opener in Knoxville, where Chattanooga's champion Lookouts were scheduled against the Knoxville Smokies.

Little Rock's Travelers hit timely and took advantage of errors to defeat Memphis, 5 to 3, before 3,083. With the weather near freezing and fur coats and mufflers plentiful, the New Orleans Pelicans rallied in the last two innings to defeat the Birmingham Barons, 6 to 5, in Birmingham. Only 4,275 fans saw the contest.

The Nashville Vols jumped on the deliveries of Larry Miller early, took a 6 to 0 lead, and coasted to a 12 to 8 victory over the Atlanta Crackers before 8,206. The weather was around 39 degrees.

Simpson Names Robert Waldorf New Head Coach

Indianola, Ia., April 12 (AP).—Appointment of Robert J. Waldorf, guard on the University of Missouri football teams for the last three years, as football coach at Simpson college here was announced tonight by President John O. Gross.

President Gross said Francis L. Casey, athletic director who has coached all sports at Simpson for several years, would handle the duties of athletic director and coach in basketball and track hereafter. Waldorf, 21, will begin his duties Sept. 1. He is a brother of Lynn Waldorf, head coach at Northwestern.

PRESIDENT TELLS WHY TELEVISION START IS HALTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—There will be no monopoly when production of radio television sets begins because all technical problems will be ironed out this summer, President Roosevelt predicted today.

The President discussed at a press conference the Federal Communication commission's recent suspension of an order permitting limited commercialization of television beginning Sept. 1. In suspending the order the FCC complained of promotional activities by the Radio Corporation of America, and called hearings to determine whether the date should be postponed.

Guard Against Monopoly.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the government's primary interest in television is to see that there will be no monopoly in either broadcasting or reception and the FCC is working to that end.

The country can be certain that no one company can control broadcasting and that owners of television sets will be able to use them to receive telecasts on any radio wave length, he declared.

Mr. Roosevelt said he is convinced that most of the radio industry today is strictly in favor of development of television to place it on the same healthy competitive basis as radio.

He added that it is difficult to resolve a technical problem into simple terms, but the primary question is to prevent monopoly.

Discusses Industry's Future.

There has been much talk and large predictions of how many men might find jobs if the television industry is expanded. There is some truth in these predictions, he said.

Television, however, has a great future and eventually American listeners will be able to receive European telecasts, he predicted.

The President said that he wants a situation under which any television set owner can choose between tuning in a prize fight or a town hall meeting.

DIESEL POWER FREIGHT TRAINS HELD FEASIBLE

G. M. Chief Visions Wider Field.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Diesel power for railroad freight service [it already has proved itself in high speed passenger train operation] is now entirely feasible, R. K. Evans, vice president of the General Motors corporation in charge of Diesel development, declared in Omaha yesterday. He made this significant statement, in which a definite challenge is offered steam power, at the dedication of the Burlington railroad's new streamliner, the Silver Streak.

The Silver Streak replaces the Pioneer Zephyr on the run between Lincoln, Omaha, and Kansas City. The Pioneer was the first Diesel-electric powered streamlined train to go into regular service in the country.

Freight Tests Successful.

Evans' statement was regarded in railroad circles as significant because, despite the showing of the fleet Diesel-electric passenger engines, General Motors has been slow in making claims for the use of such locomotives in freight operation, where the problems are different from those of the passenger division.

Evans claim was made on a basis of a 5,400 horse power Diesel-electric which has been tested on the Baltimore and Ohio, Burlington, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and other roads.

"Five years have passed since the Pioneer Zephyr started the evolution which already has resulted in the Dieselization of 68 of the nation's most famous passenger trains," Evans said. "Only five months ago a new pioneer locomotive began its road tests and we can tell you today that on the basis of the performance of this locomotive from coast to coast on some of the nation's most important railroads that a new and perhaps more important field of service is opening for the application of Diesel power.

Built at La Grange Plant.

"This new pioneer is a freight locomotive so flexible and powerful as to be economically applicable to every kind of freight service. There is good reason for believing that the application of Diesel power to freight service is of even greater significance than in passenger and switching.

"Contrary to the somewhat widespread public impression that Diesel power is applicable only to light, high speed trains, it can now be said that the important economies incident to Diesel operation are even greater in value in handling heavy freight jobs."

The locomotive was built at the La Grange plant of the Electro-Motive corporation, subsidiary of General Motors. Its first tests were made several months ago on the Baltimore & Ohio between Chicago and Washington, D. C.

Officials are Enthusiastic.

Officials of the Burlington who put the locomotive thru tests on that road yesterday were enthusiastic.

"It did a 100 per cent job for us," a Burlington executive said. "On one test it left Chicago on a Sunday morning with a freight train loaded to the limit, took it to Denver, turned around and brought another train back to Chicago, arriving Wednesday night. Its engines were not shut off for a minute on this trip.

"On another test we made two round trips between Chicago and Kansas City with heavy loads. On one occasion it pulled a load of some 7,000 tons in 110 cars between Galesburg and Chicago. The only difficulty with the locomotive is that it is so fast other trains cannot meet its schedules.

Study Operating Costs.

"We already are getting out paper and pencil to figure costs. A Diesel-electric is more expensive than a conventional locomotive, but we are studying what economies we could make with one thru the elimination of other locomotives."

The Electro-Motive plant at La Grange in four years had developed into a major industry. Ground was broken for the plant in March, 1935, but it was not until early 1936 that operations amounted to anything. The plant now employes about 3,000 persons. H. L. Hamilton, a pioneer in the development of Diesel power for railroad use, is president of Electro-Motive.

New York Governor Vetoes Bill to Ease Stock Tax

Albany, N. Y., April 12 [Special].—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today vetoed the Coudert bill which would have eliminated the double taxation on the transfer of shares of stock bought and sold in odd lots. He said that approval of the measure would throw the state budget further out of balance by $1,500,000.

Extend Sugar Act—President to Congress

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—President Roosevelt said today that he does not want any sugar legislation at this session of congress other than extension of the sugar act of 1937, which expires in part this year.

Rep. Marvin Jones.

Various proposals for replacing the expiring law are now before the house agriculture committee and the President's views were made known in a letter to the committee's chairman, Representative Marvin Jones [D., Tex.].

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that he wants the present law extended, despite the protests of planters in Louisiana and Florida that they are entitled to more acreage in view of the liberal quotas allowed outlying territories, Cuba, and other foreign sources. Domestic planters and consumers have protested that the present restrictions imposed by the government under the 1937 act constitute a burden on the American housewives' budgets by raising the price of sugar and force American planters to plow under good acreage.

Quotas End Dec. 31.

The sugar act of 1937 provides benefit payments to growers of sugar beets and sugar cane and levies an excise tax to provide funds for the payments. The powers for imposing marketing and acreage quotas expire next Dec. 31. But other provisions of the act carry over into 1941. The excise tax continues until July 1, 1941, and benefit payments on the 1940 crop will continue into September, 1941, the marketing season.

Spokesmen for the domestic sugar refining industry, consumers, Louisiana and Philippine sugar producers continued their testimony today before the house committee in opposition to the proposed sugar control legislation.

In his letter to Jones the President said: "It seems clear that no sugar legislation is necessarily required at this session of congress," adding, however, that "it might be advisable to extend the life of the sugar act of 1937 for an additional period thru a joint resolution of the congress." Mr. Roosevelt found three objections to the major sugar bills pending.

Says It Woud Hurt Exports.

"In the first place," he wrote, "several of the proposals would unavoidably bring about an impairment of the export market for surplus American agricultural and industrial products.

"In the second place, some of these bills would discard the established basis of distribution of quotas among the various sugar producing areas that was carefully developed by the congress after considerable labor.

"In the third place, the bills submitted to your committee include a proposal that would sacrifice the protection afforded consumers under existing legislation and substitute a sugar price standard requiring a reduction in total quota supplies to consumers to a point that would enhance sugar prices beyond the level required to give a majority of producers full parity returns."

VAST RESEARCH PROGRAM URGED BY OSCAR MAYER

Urbana, Ill., April 12 [Special].—Oscar G. Mayer, Chicago meat packer and president of the Association of Commerce, today advocated a $100,000,000 a year "wager" as a method of eliminating the depression problem. He spoke at Illinois Swine Feeders' day at the University of Illinois.

Mayer suggested a national program of coördinated research headed by a commission empowered to invest approximately $100,000,000 per year in stimulating research by universities, foundations, and government and private industrial laboratories.

"Furtherance of a vast research program of this type is, in my opinion, a legitimate function of the federal government," he said. "I venture the statement that had we, as the gamblers say, 'shot' such an amount each year on a research program since 1930 we would have gone a long way toward eliminating our unemployment problem and the many billions of waste of man and capital power it has cost us."

CHRYSLER SETS SALES PEAK FOR FIRST QUARTER

The largest first quarter sales ever reported for Chrysler corporation were announced yesterday by K. T. Keller, president of the company.

Chrysler's report covered domestic and export shipments from its plants in the United States and Canada. It showed that sales of Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto, and Chrysler passenger cars, Plymouth and Dodge commercial cars, and Dodge trucks totaled 344,759 vehicles. This was 76,239 more vehicles than were sold in the first three months of 1939, a gain of 28 per cent. The former record was 283,571 units in the first quarter of 1937.

Bolstering earlier favorable forecasts, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., announced that the week's output of cars and trucks increased to 102,940 units from 101,655 in the preceding week, and 88,050 in the corresponding 1939 week. The publication said production is expected to hold steady thru the rest of April.

Utility Denies Death Clause Applies to It

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, replying to integration proceedings by the Securities and Exchange commission, declared today that its own "long standing policy" of closely linked utility operations removed it from the scope of "death clause" integration requirements of the 1935 holding company act.

"A proper and complete examination," the company said, would show that the system was operating wholly within the law.

Selling Its Distant Properties.

At one time it owned "a large number of utility companies scattered thruout the country," the firm's reply continued, but "when the modern integrated system became possible, U. G. I. adopted the definite policy of building up its regional area and disposing of its scattered properties."

While denying that such additional disposition was required by law, the utility asserted that it proposed, "in pursuance of its long standing policy," to sell its remaining isolated utility interests in Arizona, Tennessee, and New Hampshire.

United Gas said its principal property units were along the North Atlantic seaboard in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Connecticut.

Denies Midland Is Subsidiary.

In the answer to the SEC, the company denied that the Midland United company was a subsidiary. It contended also that the SEC notice was defective because as yet there has been no determination under the exception applications of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, Reading Gas company, Bridgeport Gas and Light company, and the Hartford Gas company. These firms have asked exemption on the grounds they are not U. G. I. subsidiaries.

The securities commission today granted a request of the Standard Gas and Electric company to extend for 60 days, until June 15, the time for filing answers to the commission's order.

Delay Hearing Until July 5.

A hearing also has been delayed until July 5. Under the commission's order instituting integration proceedings the answers were to have been filed not later than April 16.

The SEC denied an application by Wisconsin Securities company for exemption. The commission held that the applicant derived in excess of 57 per cent of its total income from its utility subsidiary in 1938 and that during the period 1932 to 1938 it obtained an average of approximately 30 per cent of its income from that source.

REPORT CHICAGO MAN BRINGS IN BIG OIL GUSHER

San Angelo, Tex., April 12 (AP).—A wildcat oil well drilled by James Gouras, Chicago restaurant man, and associates, blew in today, gushing oil over the derrick.

The oil flowed down a canyon for two and a half miles into the Pecos river.

The well, six miles southeast of the prolific Yates field in Pecos county, blew in at 1,037 feet and was estimated flowing 500 to 600 barrels an hour.

The Chicago telephone directory lists a James Gouras, 2112 West North avenue, but the telephone has been disconnected.

Business Books

"How to Write Advertising That Sells," by Clyde Bedell. [McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., New York, $4.]

For the student and for the working copywriter, Clyde Bedell, a lecturer at the Northwestern university school of commerce, has put the fruits of his long experience in selling on paper. The result is a guide to advertising craftmanship.

Bedell describes and analyzes 31 selling stratagems which he says have been effective in making people want to buy and giving them the excuse for buying. He stresses the necessity of preparation, deliberate word selection and painstaking checking.

An unusual approach in the book is the use of brief forewords to each chapter by advertising executives, editors, a novelist, a consumer and a college president.

FRANCE PULLS HARDER ON MONEY REIN TO WIN HER ECONOMIC BATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 12.—Restrictions on the export of capital and money from France were further tightened today by a decree law. From now on, except with the express permission of the finance ministry, it will be illegal to export money, bank notes, stocks, bonds, or other vouchers of indebtedness.

Furthermore, Frenchmen are forbidden to acquire houses, land, or other property in foreign countries, except in unusual cases. Exporting firms are prohibited from keeping their profits abroad or retaining them in foreign currencies.

All exchange transactions are prohibited except thru the exchange control bureau. Capital imports must be handled thru a limited number of banking establishments, including the Bank of France. Travelers entering France will be permitted to import French coins and bank notes in small amounts.

The purpose of these restrictions, says the preface to the decree law, is to help France "win the war on the economic front."

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BILL TO EXTEND TREATY PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The hotly fought bill extending the administration's reciprocal trade program for three years was signed today by President Roosevelt who termed it a "powerful instrument" for peace and economic recovery.

Capping the administration's biggest victory in the present session, the chief executive affixed his signature at a White House ceremony attended by Secretaries Hull and Wallace and Chairman Harrison [D., Miss.] and Doughton [D., N. C.] of the committees in charge of the legislation in congress. Four pens were used and Hull, Wallace, Harrison, and Doughton received them as souvenirs.

Had not the extension been approved—final congressional action came April 5 on a 42 to 37 vote in the senate—the authority for President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull to make the reciprocal agreements would have expired June 12. As it is, the power was extended to June 12, 1943.

NEW FINANCING LARGE DESPITE SHOCK OF WAR

New York, April 12 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities continued on schedule this week despite the sudden shock of Germany's latest blitzkrieg. Poor's Publishing company reported today that new issues during the week ended yesterday totaled $75,626,132, the largest volume in six weeks.

Investment banking circles said the new issue market was "relatively insensitive" to the latest European crisis. Comparison of week's financing follows:

Sheaffer Pen Profit, Sales for Year Rise

Sales and profits of the W. A. Sheaffer Pen company in the fiscal year ended Feb. 29 were larger than in the preceding year, and the higher level has been maintained since March 1, C. R. Sheaffer, president, reported yesterday.

C. R. Sheaffer.

Sheaffer issued the company's annual report to stockholders, which showed net income of $744,294 for the year. This was equal to $4.66 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year profit was $691,111, or $4.30 a share.

Total sales increased more than a million dollars, Sheaffer said, but he did not announce the figures. Gross profit before depreciation was $3,035,661.

Celotex corporation, manufacturer of building materials, reported a consolidated net loss of $194,865 for the three months ended Jan. 31, compared with a loss of $12,136 in the corresponding period a year earlier.

SALES VOLUME OF DEPARTMENT STORES FALLS

Sales of department stores thruout the country decreased 5 per cent and 2 per cent, respectively, for the week and four weeks ending April 6, compared with similar periods in 1939, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. In the preceding week, the first after Easter, sales had dipped 20 per cent.

Volume of the 7th district, which includes Chicago, followed the general trend, dropping 5.1 and 3.7 per cent, respectively, for the one and four week period. Chicago alone recorded drops of 2.3 and 4.5 per cent.

I. C. C. PROGRAM FOR NEW HAVEN ROAD ISSUED

Cuts Capitalization; No Stock Equity.

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission today issued a plan of reorganization for the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company which reduces capitalization from $464,833,806 to $365,000,000, and annual fixed charges and guarantees from $19,531,323 to $6,232,331.

The I. C. C. made no provision for the participation of holders of common and preferred stock in the reorganization, deciding that their equity was of no value.

The plan calls for inclusion of the Providence, Warren & Bristol, the Hartford & Connecticut Western, and the Boston & Providence railroads in the reorganized New Haven system. In view of the unfavorable earning position of the Old Colony railroad, the I. C. C. made no provision for its reorganization at this time.

Old Colony Road's Plan.

The Old Colony had submitted a reorganization proposal calling for the transfer of its so-called western and cape group properties to the New Haven, and abandonment of operations, both freight and passenger services, on its so-called Boston group of properties by Jan. 1, 1941.

Today's plan provides a total fixed interest debt of $137,059,266 for the reorganized New Haven system. This would include $12,872,000 of equipment trusts, $22,422,000 of underlying bonds, $12,834,905 of collateral trust notes, and $88,930,361 of fixed interest 4 per cent bonds.

Additional capitalization would include $88,786,567 of 4½ per cent income bonds, $70,525,061 of 5 per cent preferred stock, and $68,629,160 of common stock.

Treatment of Issues.

Present equipment obligations of the New Haven would remain undisturbed. New York and New Haven Railroad company—Boston Terminal first mortgage bonds, and Dutchess County Railroad first mortgage bonds would be paid off in cash.

The New York, Providence and Boston Railroad general mortgage bonds, Naugatuck Railroad first mortgage bonds, the Harlem River and Port Chester Railroad mortgage bonds, and the Providence Terminal first mortgage bonds also would remain undisturbed.

Housatonic Railroad bonds, 100 per cent in fixed interest bonds; New England Railroad bonds, 85 per cent in fixed interest bonds and 15 per cent in income bonds; Danbury and Norwalk bonds, 20 per cent in fixed interest bonds, 40 per cent in income bonds, and 40 per cent in preferred stock; Boston and New York Air Line bonds, 50 per cent in income bonds and 50 per cent in preferred.

New Haven and Northampton.

New Haven and Northampton bonds, 50 per cent in fixed interest bonds, 25 per cent in income bonds, and 25 per cent in preferred stock; Central New England bonds, 100 per cent in fixed interest bonds; bonds secured by first and refunding mortgage, 20 per cent in fixed interest bonds, 40 per cent in income bonds, and 40 per cent in preferred stock; 15 year secured bonds, 45.35 per cent in fixed interest bonds and 54.65 per cent in income bonds.

Secured notes held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation would be exchanged for new collateral trust notes for the remaining balances.

Cost of Transfer.

The reorganized New Haven would pay $3,039,213 in first and refunding mortgage 4 per cent bonds, $1,467,520 in income mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, and $1,467,520 in 5 per cent preferred stock for the assets and properties of the Boston and Providence railroad.

Holders of the Boston and Providence's debentures would receive New Haven first and refunding bonds in the face amount equal to the face amount of the debentures, plus interest. Holders of Boston and Providence's capital stock would receive 20 per cent in New Haven first and refunding bonds, 40 per cent in New Haven income bonds, and 40 per cent in New Haven preferred stock.

The I. C. C. plan now goes to the United States District Court for Connecticut and, if approved, will be submitted to eligible security holders for their approval or rejection.

To sell more in Chicago, build your advertising program around the Tribune. By doing so, you get more for your money today . . . and you build solidly for the future. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

Propose Local Arbitration of Labor Issues

Creation of local mediation boards which would attempt to settle labor-management disputes on a voluntary arbitration basis to avoid recourse to the National Labor Relations board was proposed yesterday by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

C. W. Bergquist heads labor relations committee.

The proposal was part of a legislative program suggested by the chamber as a means of improving relations under the Wagner labor act. The chamber suggested that the program be made supplementary to the proposed Smith amendments to the Wagner act or that it be substituted for the amendments if they are defeated.

Aimed to Avoid Strikes.

The chamber's labor relations committee, headed by C. W. Bergquist, offered the new plan after consulting with industrial leaders thruout the country and with what it described as "conservative thinking" employés.

Bergquist said the employé representatives said workers wished to avoid further loss thru strikes and layoffs and were willing to consider remedial measures.

The local mediation boards proposed would be created by federal and state legislation and would be composed of local persons familiar with community conditions. Under the plan, the NLRB would be resorted to only if the local boards failed to effect a settlement.

Urge Compulsory Delay.

In addition to the creation of the local boards, the chamber urged the following:

Legal restrictions to prevent labor from calling a strike or management from ordering a lockout until sufficient time elapsed to exhaust possibilities of peaceful solution.

An increase in the NLRB personnel to five, two to be labor problem specialists, two management specialists, and one a public representative.

Extension to employers of the right to demand an NLRB election to determine the bargaining agency.

Assurance of freedom of speech to employers, provision for judicial review for all findings of the NLRB, and a change in the law to provide that no bargaining unit may be certified except by mutual consent of a majority of the workers involved and the management, or following a secret ballot to determine the unit.

DECIDE EMPIRES MUST PAY EXTRA WARPLANE COSTS

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau ruled today that Great Britain and France, in return for quick deliveries of American made warplanes, must stand the extra cost of developing certain improvements in craft for the United States army.

Morgenthau upheld the war department on this point at a conference with Arthur B. Purvis, head of the British-French purchasing mission, on prospective aircraft orders which manufacturers have been told may reach $1,000,000,000.

The army is waiving its right to prior deliveries on certain planes, which are to be sold to the allies. In return the plan calls for improvements in planes to be turned out later for the army.

POUND SLUMPS 7 CENTS; CANADA'S DOLLAR IS FIRM

The British pound and the Canadian dollar, which usually move in the same direction, parted company yesterday in the New York foreign exchange market. The pound fell 7 cents to a closing price of $3.49 while the Canadian dollar was rising ¼ cent to 84¾ cents in terms of the American dollar.

The Belgian belga slumped 0.11 cent, the result, dealers said, of the uneasiness over the status of neutrals since the invasion of Denmark and Norway.

The French franc and the Dutch guilder declined, but the Swiss franc held steady.

STEEL SHEETS SLASHED $4 PER TON BY MILLS

Seek to Win Auto Plant Orders.

Prices of hot and cold rolled steel sheets, one of the basic raw materials of the automobile industry, were formally reduced $4 a ton yesterday by the nation's leading steel producers.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, big operating subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, was the first company to announce the reductions. It was followed quickly by the other steel companies, including the Inland Steel company of Chicago.

Altho the $4 reduction was announced by the various companies yesterday, it was said in steel circles that price reductions have been in effect secretly for some weeks as individual companies sought to get business to keep their big and costly mills running.

Caused by Auto Makers.

As in previous periods of price reductions, the automobile industry is said to have been the instigator. The automobile companies, which annually place orders for large amounts of steel, are in a position to dangle these big orders before the business hungry mills.

Despite the unexpectedly large business this spring, the automobile companies are said to have been slow in placing orders for steel for next year's models. It is estimated that 1 to 1½ tons of steel go into the average small or medium automobile.

The Carnegie-Illinois company announced that the reductions were being made to meet "a competitive situation." The reductions will be effective on steel delivered during the second quarter of this year in the United States.

Price cuts also apply to strip, which is narrower than sheets—a steel product also used by the automobile and other industries in large quantities.

$38 to $57 a Ton.

Under the new price schedules hot rolled steel will bring about $38 a ton and the cold rolled product—which has a finer finish—about $57 a ton. There are small price differences depending on the basing point at which the steel is produced.

Steel prices were reduced last summer during a brief but bitter "price war." After a few days of general price slashing they were restored, Carnegie-Illinois leading the way. The last formal change was a price reduction June 24, 1938, made in an effort to stimulate business.

Altho a big volume of business generated last fall after the start of the war, when many mills were operated at capacity, the steel business since the start of this year has been lagging. However, the operating rate of the mills is running ahead of what it was a year ago. To date the war has failed to produce the business expected of it, altho in recent months there has been some increase in the export demand.

Use of Scrap Decreases.

Domestic consumption of iron and steel scrap in March decreased to 2,932,000 gross tons from 3,054,000 in February, the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel announced. However, this represented a substantial gain over 2,634,000 tons in March last year.

For the first quarter consumption increased to 9,761,000 tons from 7,442,000 in the similar quarter of 1939. In the preceding quarter scrap use totaled 11,804,000 tons.

Bank Requests License to Pay Danish Interest

New York, April 12 [Special].—The Guaranty Trust company, as paying agent for Danish 4½ per cent bonds on which semiannual interest of approximately $1,000,000 is due Monday, today made application to the government for a license to obtain the funds. President Roosevelt in an executive order last Wednesday temporarily banned all foreign exchange transactions or other type of credit transfer in accounts of Norway or Denmark.

On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan avenue. Price 40 cents. By postpaid mail, 50 cents.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, April 12 (AP).—Air transports and assorted specialties displayed rising strength in today's stock market, but most issues finished lower. Lack of definite information concerning the tide of battle off Norway between the British and Germans caused many Wall streeters to stand aside so far as pivotal issues were concerned.

Industrial news on the home front, altho cheerful in spots, also had its cloudy aspects and served to temper bullishness for the market as a whole. The fact that the most active stocks closed higher was a hopeful factor, brokers said. Several favorites posted new high marks for the year or longer. The turnover of 826,270 shares was the smallest since Jan. 1.

New 1940 tops were registered by American Airplanes, up 3⅞ at 7⅛; New York Shipbuilding, up 2 at 22½, and Dresser Manufacturing, up ½ at 28½.

Chrysler held a minor gain as the company reported first quarter factory sales made a record for this period.

Chilling followers of the steels was a cut of $4 a ton in hot and cold rolled sheets by principal manufacturers, attributed mainly to a competitive situation. This offset to some extent a modest increase in this week's motor production.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 12 (AP).—A serious replase in Scandinavian and other important foreign loans was a depressing influence in today's bond market. A previous good rally in the obligations of Norway and Denmark apparently left them vulnerable to new pressure. The sweep of selling, however, reflected fears as to the fate not only of the north countries, but also of Belgium, whose bonds plunged to further new lows.

Closing declines ranged from 2 to around 7 points in Norway 4s, 4½s, and 6s, Denmark 5½s and 6s, Belgium 6s, 6½s, and 7s, Hungary 4½s, and Italy 7s. In contrast, German 7s, the so-called Dawes loan, pushed up about a point, but the gain here was attributed to a recent announcement regarding arrangements for payment on account of the April coupon.

Corporate bonds were firm here and there, but the major trend was down. A few rails edged up fractionally. United States government loans were about steady.

Chicago Stocks.

Two volume leaders established new high marks for the year yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Sundstrand Machine Tool touched 29 and closed at 27½, down ⅞, and South Bend Lathe reached 28¾ and finished at 28, up ¾. Of the 95 issues traded, 42 declined, 32 were unchanged, and 21 advanced. Forty shares of Omnibus corporation preferred sold at 109. Last reported sale of this stock, Dec. 23, 1931, brought 55¾.

Bank Stocks.

TWO INVESTMENT TRUST OFFICERS OPPOSE SEC BILL

Say Measure Goes Beyond Real Regulation.

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—Two members of the investment trust industry told a senate banking subcommittee today that they would welcome federal regulation of the business, but contended legislation proposed by the securities commission was unworkable and went "far beyond reasonable regulation."

The witnesses, first to speak for the industry at hearings on the SEC proposal, were Arthur H. Bunker, executive vice president of the Lehman corporation, and Cyril J. C. Quinn, vice president of Tri-Continental corporation and associated companies. They said they represented the so-called "closed end" type of investment trust.

Examples Called One-Sided.

Both men conceded there had been abuses in the industry which should be outlawed, but contended the SEC had given an exaggerated picture of conditions by selecting the worst examples for citation to the committee and failing to give adequate account of the performance of companies not guilty of the practices.

Bunker asserted that the SEC's study of investment trusts had not taken into account the shrinkage of all security values which took place while the industry was in its infancy. He contended the commission's conclusions were "unrealistic and give no true picture whatever of the actual comparative performance achieved."

Calls "Looting" Loss Small.

In response to questions Bunker expressed the opinion that "looting" and other practices condemned by the SEC had been responsible for no more than 10 per cent of an estimated 3 billion dollar shrinkage in assets held by investment trusts. He added that in his opinion the loss from this cause in the last eight years had not been more than 1 per cent of the total assets of the business.

Quinn, dealing with the proposed legislation in more detail, said "some sections are pretty ambiguous, some places are absolutely contradictory, and some places are so vague it is difficult to comment on them."

"There is hardly a paragraph and certainly not a section that doesn't require revision," he declared.

Approves of Registration.

Quinn said he approved a requirement for registration of investment companies and classification of the types of companies, but he called the classification proposed in the bill "illogical and absolutely misleading."

He also urged a requirement that stockholders' consent be required before any basic change in management policy could be adopted, prohibition of short sales and participation in pools, outlawing of certain transactions between a company and its officers and affiliates, full publicity for company affairs, and other provisions.

He said, however, that he did not believe the government should "put the industry in a straitjacket or treat investors like incompetent children."

ORGANIZER FOR C. I. O. ASSERTS POLITICIANS FAIL TO AID JOBLESS

Philip Murray.

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—Philip Murray, veteran steel workers union leader, told the monopoly committee today that unemployment problems apparently lacked "political sex appeal" because the nation's politicians were not solving them.

"I can't find any industrial leader who is trying to find jobs for unemployed workers," Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, C. I. O., said. "I can't find any politicians either. I guess there's no vote getting in it."

Murray was the concluding witness at a committee hearing on the problems of workers who have lost jobs because of labor saving machinery or technological advances.

He suggested that the President call a national conference of unemployment with leaders representing industry, government, banking, farming, and labor, and that congress regulate the introduction of large technological changes whenever new methods threatened to oust workers from their jobs permanently.

DEFENDS CHAIN STORES AS AID TO COMPETITION

Company Official Fights Patman Tax Bill.

Washington, D. C., April 12 (AP).—Charles F. Adams of Framingham, Mass., opposing the Patman chain store tax bill, told a house ways and means subcommittee today that chain stores, instead of fostering monopoly, had stimulated competition and developed a system of mass distribution to keep pace with modern mass production.

Adams, treasurer and one of the founders of First National Stores, Inc., which operates 2,150 units in New England and New York, said the Patman bill would cripple or destroy "a widely established and popular form of distribution."

It would impose taxes on his organization, amounting to almost $7,000,000 a year, or "more than two and one-half times net profits," he said.

Declares Argument Unfair.

Adams said the argument of proponents of the bill that the growth of large chains threatened to create monopoly in retail distribution was unfair and inaccurate.

"The independent merchant has been made to appear as a defenseless individual with a volume of business below $10,000 a year," he said. "Somehow this picture did not jibe with my experience. I decided to see what United States census figures showed. I did not expect anything as startling as I found. The census figures for 1935 show that 2 per cent of the independent merchants in all lines of retailing do an aggregate business of over one-half billion dollars more per year than all of the chain stores combined.

"This means that fewer than 30,000 independent stores do about 8 per cent more business than the 127,000 chain stores in all lines. The average annual volume of these 30,000 independents is $282,000 per store as against $59,000 per store for the chains, a difference of nearly 500 per cent."

Asserts Waste Is Eliminated.

The growth of chain distribution organizations has been the result of consumer demand, Adams said, and has eliminated to a large extent the "complexity, waste, and inefficiency" which the federal trade commission found existed in the wholesale distribution industry in 1919.

Energetic and progressive independent retailers have copied chain store methods in the formation of coöperative groups, Adams said, and "the ablest competition we meet is furnished" by these groups.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Further slight advances yesterday raised hog prices to the highest level in more than five weeks. Light receipts, strength in wholesale pork channels, and colder weather gave sellers most of the advantage at the stockyards.

Practically all hogs of choice quality weighing 180 to 250 pounds, which comprised a large share of the day's offerings, met broad demand at gains of 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds. Top loads of 196 to 246 pound averages reached $5.50, up 10 cents. The average, at $5.25, was up 5 cents.

Live costs of other meat animals also continued to rise. Broad buying orders for lambs swept prices up 15 to 25 cents. The first $11.00 lambs of 1940 appeared. The day's average, at $10.75, was highest since October, 1937, and third highest for April since 1929.

The scant supply of 1,000 cattle sold readily at strong to slightly higher prices. [All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

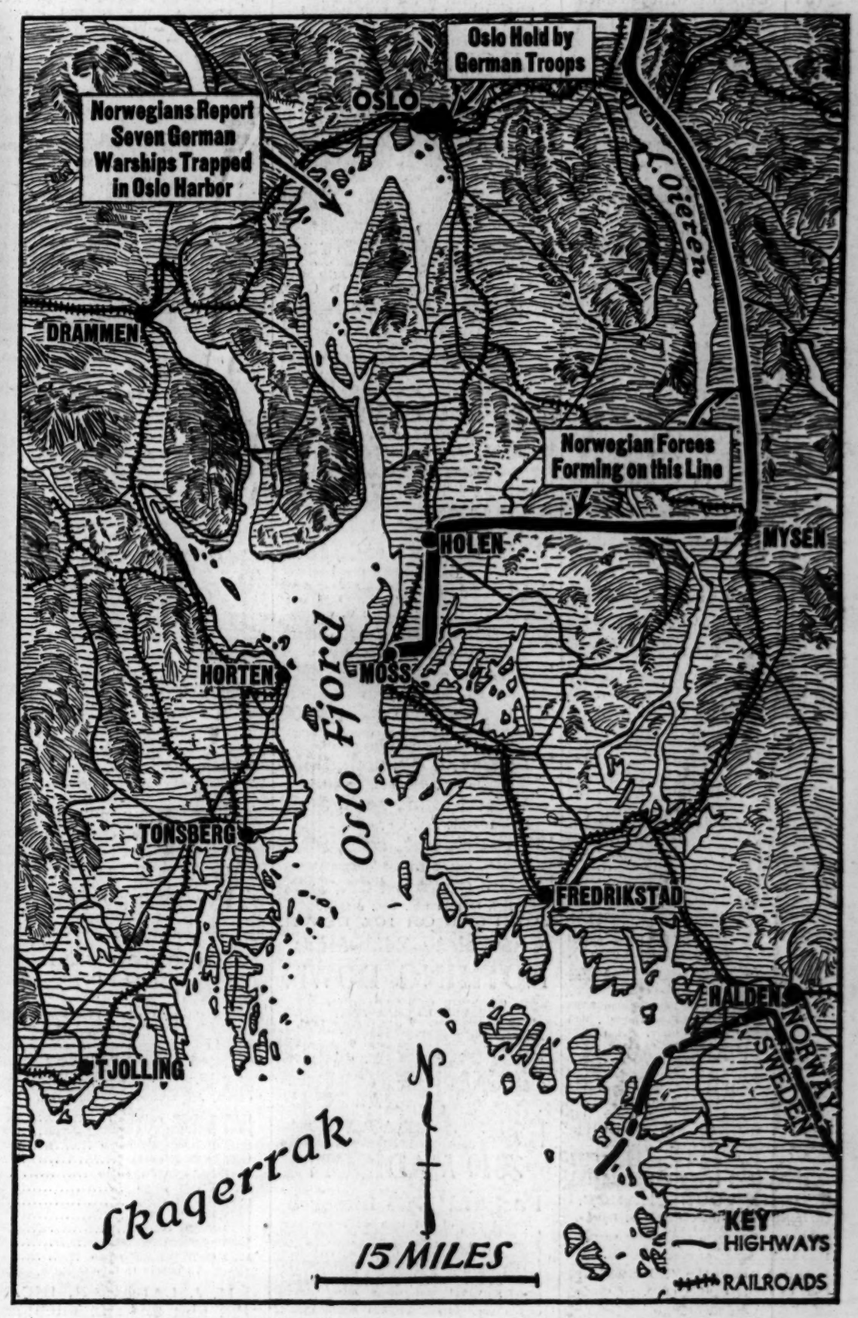
Norwegians Seek to Forge Ring of Steel Around Captured Capital—Fighting Rages at Other Coastal Cities

[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent yesterday from London by radio.]

The British censor says this is picture of Bergen, Norway, harbor as it was bombed by British. The picture was made from British plane and shows four German seaplanes on water. The censor said the white blotch at upper left was made by falling British bomb, but refused to amplify statement.



A closeup of Oslo fjord, where much of the drama of the German invasion of Norway has been enacted, showing the tortuous inlets and the hilly terrain.

German troops entering Oslo, the capital of Norway, according to German censor. Germany claims to be reinforcing the original detachments which took over the city despite the opposition of the British. A naval engagement was reported in progress yesterday off Oslo fjord.
